Royal 1984 Fortune

WE'RE WORKING HARD

The staff of the Royal Fortune would like to invite you to journey back through the year 1984. During this passage in time you will witness unbelievable feats accomplished by high school students. At the end of this incredible voyage you will know a little bit more about our spectacular students. The high caliber of excellence which exists in our school deserves more of our, "LET'S ADVERTISE," than the Royal Fortune can give.

We're working hard and looking good. Throughout the entire town of Palm Bay and Melbourne our students have been seen working, helping, and playing. We worked in day care centers with children. We volunteered in hospitals. We provided needed services throughout the community by working in restaurants, grocery stores and other businesses. Many students worked long hours, some until 11:00 P.M., and then were back in school the next day at 7:25 A.M.

We all had one good quality that we have employed, be it on the football field, the job, or in the classroom, that quality is perseverance. We've tried hard; we've reached our first goals. The entire community can see that we care for our town, our school, our future, and ourselves.

During her high school years, Helga Fuenfhausen has excelled in many areas. She has been a member of the marching band for four years. She is participating in the 1984 Homecoming Parade, ringing her bells for PBHS.

Proving what goals and long hours of practice can attain, third degree, black belt Renee Clary begins her descent. At the conclusion of this feat, she will form a 270 degree angle with her body.

Caught in mid flight, Chris Cimino shows that even the best hit the mat once in a while.

Out of the many student volunteers at Holmes Regional Medical Center, sophomore Lisa Goodwin prepares to deliver supplies to the medical station.

One nationally ranked boxer in a family is certainly cause for pride. The Scott family was fortunate enough to have two sons who were nationally ranked. Senior Mark Scott and his younger brother Ronnie hold a sparring session for Royal Fortune photographers.

Proving once again that the class of 1984 is not one "to be messed with", Maria ("Speedy") Gonzales blocks a kick from her instructor.

In the game against Seabreeze, Freeman Walker (24), shows that even #1 can't stop a Pirate.

AND LOOKING GOOD

WE'RE LOOKING UP

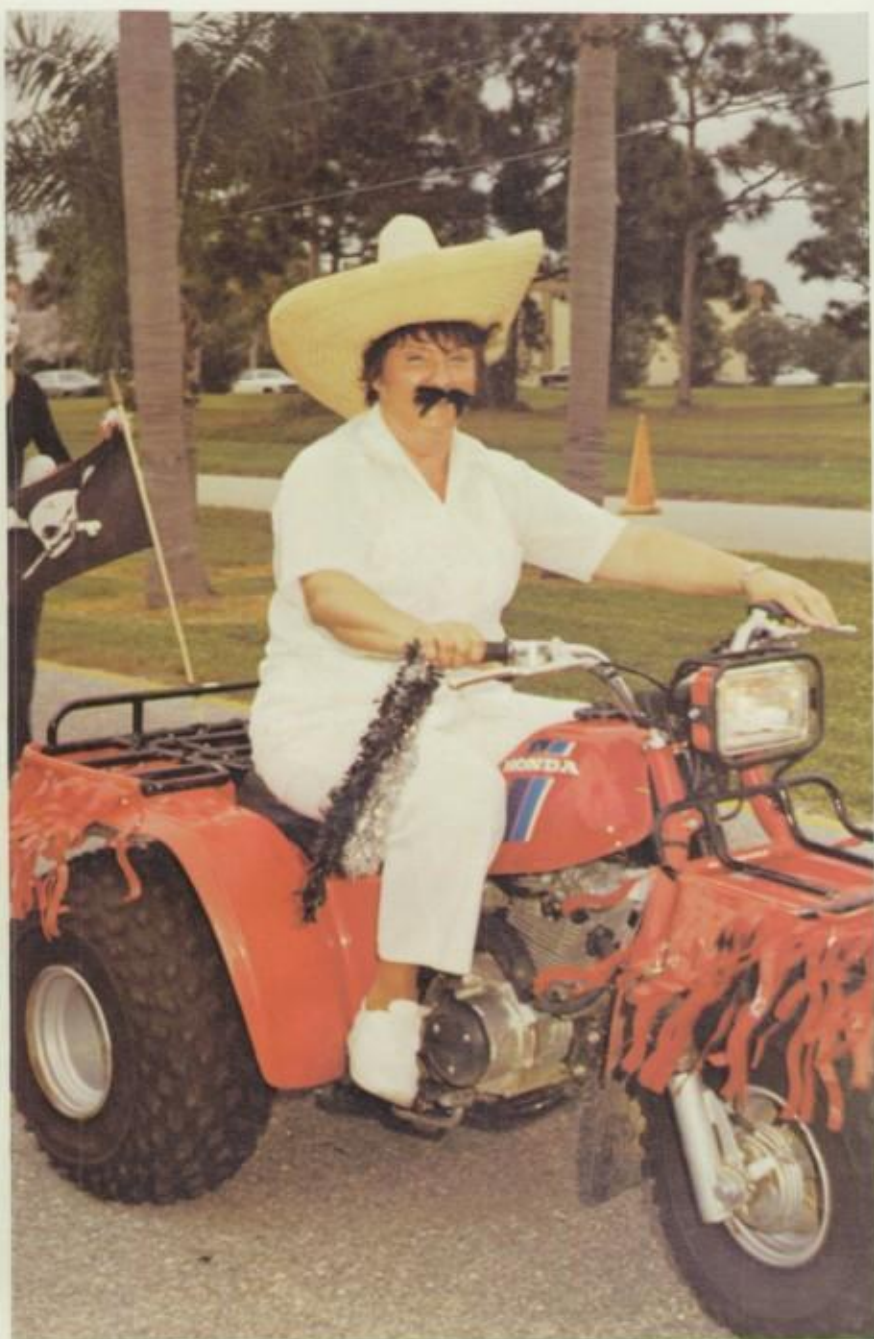

As college, jobs, and our future plans confront us, we must look to higher goals. Let's Advertise our enthusiasm towards the plans we hope to meet. We must expound on our achievements if we are to remain in the spotlight.

Our Cross Country teams qualified for state competition, our football team gave their all, and our clubs and organizations strove to prove to the community that we've got what it takes. All were looking for the ultimate goal of excellence. We reserve the unique privilege of saying we are "#1" in academics, sports, and community involvement and are proud to advertise.

What's a Pirate without a parrot? This pirate's companion suns himself at Melbourne's Fifth Avenue Beach.

Taking a rest after helping to assemble all the floats for the homecoming parade, Student Council President Becki Caswall rides in the parade.

Freshmen often bring with them some unusual friends. Cheerleader Lisa Whitlock enjoys the company of one of nature's creatures.

TO HIGHER GOALS

Let's PALM BAY'S Advertise

Welcome to the first part of your tour . . .

Once you have finished the tour of our student life you will have a little taste of what goes on in this high school. You will have seen our after school activities which range from jobs to parties. The trials and tribulations of the tug of war of high school will be presented in a pictorial display. You will finish this section knowing why we are worth advertising.

As she surveys the situation before her, senior powder puff player Jenny Sego plots ways to defeat the juniors.

Perfecting a diving technique takes a lot of hard work.

Freshman Bill Shea gets his feet wet.

Out to demonstrate their balancing ability, senior powderpuff cheerleaders Scott Behringer, David Weber, Chris Conner, Diego Tobon, and Chris Brown attempt a pyramid.

STUDENT LIFE

The Rainbow After The Storm

Although hopes of sunshine were clouded by an overcast day, the Pirates came through with one of the grandest affairs that ever hit Palm Bay on wheels. Great efforts on floats by participating organizations produced a spectrum of colors that challenged any rainbow. Time spent by both the band members and Seniors was displayed as they received first place and second place on their floats. Special care was shown by underclassmen entries as they expressed the true spirit of the fighting Pirates.

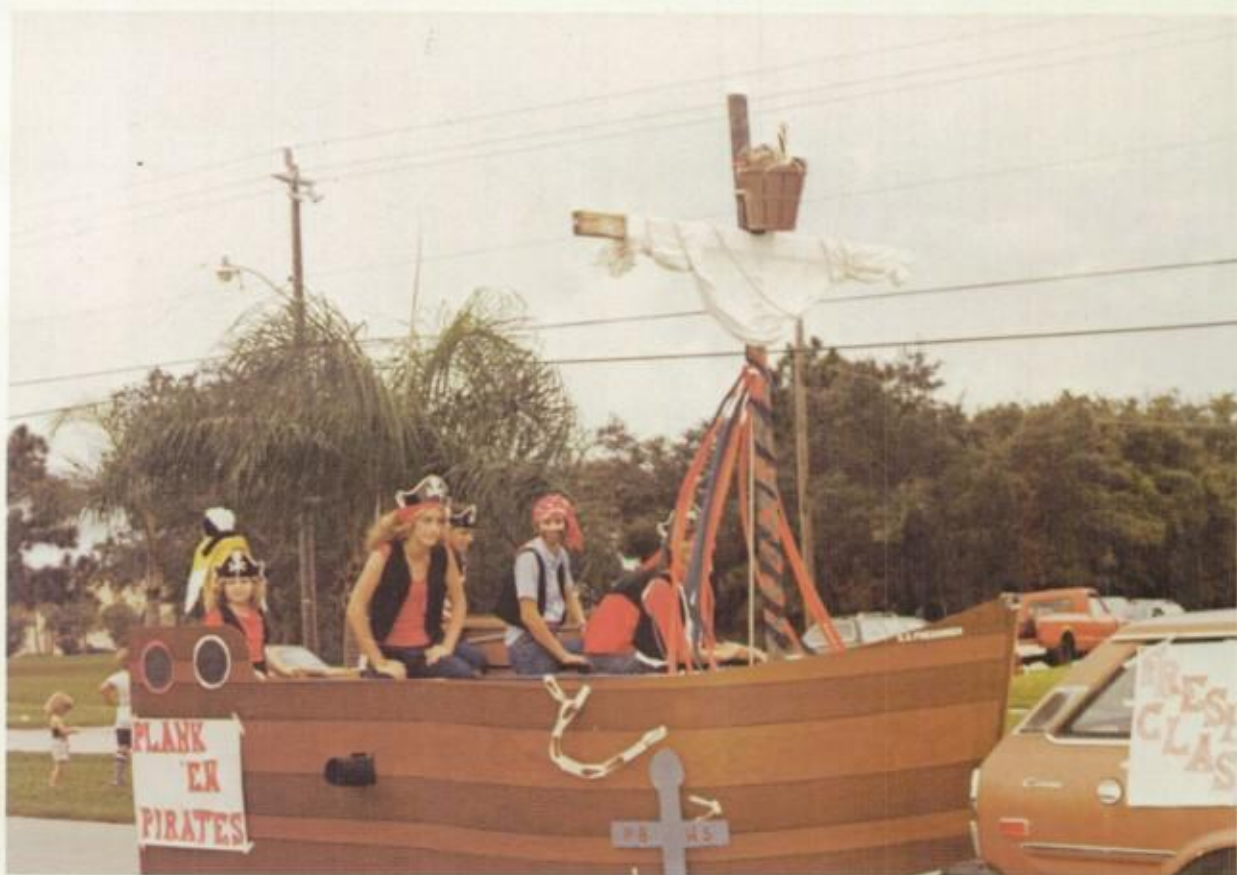

Preparing for the game, the Pirates cook up one more pot of "Eagle Stew."

Although it is not an unusual job for the JROTC program, they perform an outstanding presentation of the colors for the Homecoming Parade.

The Junior Class is decorated "up right" by all the helping hands of their supporters, and by the presence of the junior homecoming candidates Karen Batten, Michelle Goodman, and Sonji James.

Pirate mimes, Elaine Bohlin, Nina Norberg, commit silent vows to our Homecoming cause.

Freshman pirates Bill Moliski, Cher Downey, and Emily Saxman, show the upperclassmen where they stand with the first float entered by the freshmen in four years.

With a powerful show of strength, Varsity Football and their managers await their Homecoming victory.

Pirate Theresa Dangler calms down Tom Raulen, posing as a War Eagle, with the simple means of bird seed.

Even though the band's all ready to go, the shell of an empty band member lies within the depths of the last tuba, as Robert Leaman looks for a quick replacement.

Billboard Beauties

The 1983 Homecoming festivities, hosted by the Student Council, provided an outlet for spirit and a chance for school pride to grow and blossom.

Senior Michele Vitaliano, was elected 1984 Homecoming Queen by her fellow classmates and peers. This title only reinforces the fact we already know. She has the poise and grace of a queen.

Although the evening was hindered by rain, neither a smile nor a bright face was dampened by the drizzle.

Rewarding the crowd with her grace and finesse, senior Linda Borie graciously tours the home and visitor sides of the field.

Vibrance and spunk are part of Michele Goodman's personality. As she waves to the attending crowd, her sparkle shows through.

Modesty is an admirable quality in a princess. Yvonne Williams shows she possesses this quality.

Top of the Line

Sometimes an important factor of Homecoming is forgotten. The Royal Fortune decided to rectify this mistake. We would like to advertise some of the Homecoming candidates who were nominated, but were not crowned.

Although this is a very special event, it was even more so for junior candidate Karen Batten. This night marked the first anniversary of the courtship of Karen and Oscar Restrepo. Senior candidate Jackie Woods touched the hearts of all in attendance by her display of family togetherness. Ms. Woods was escorted by her father, Jack Woods. Jackie wore her mother's high school prom dress.

These were not the only candidates to display special qualities. Each candidate possessed a certain glitter that made her shine for all to see.

Escorted by her father, Jack Woods, senior candidate Jackie Woods proudly glides through the ceremony.

Before the crowning, the candidates and their escorts enjoy reserved seating. Junior candidate Karen Batten shares a happy moment with her escort, Oscar Restrepo.

Receiving royal attention from JROTC cadets, Lisa Whitlock and her escort John Ball walk with dignity through a cutting display of skill and precision.

Moving closer to the time of crowning, Mary Petralia receives assistance from Dwayne Vitaliano.

The classic beauty of a tunnel of swords is accented by junior candidate Sonji James and her escort Derrik Phillips.

The Sweet Sounds of Coming Home

The youngest of three Tobon brothers who attend our school, Hector Tobon, takes a breather during Homecoming festivities with Mala Meleran. Keeping up with the crowd, Lori Goodrich and Jim Heines dance the night away.

Special attention by a close friend brings Lisa Scannel and Brad Patchel together to share a friendly smile.*

Wearing a borrowed crown, Jimmy Vanjanyi and his date, Serena Crawford, enjoyed a few hours of royal treatment.

Although dancing is usually the main event, 1983 Alumni Ron Bowen and Steve Brewer savor a private conversation with Valerie Brewer and Denise Wood.

The 1984 Homecoming Dance was one to be remembered. The members of the Student Council, who sponsored the activity, worked many long hours preparing for the event.

As the record crowd entered the dance, they witnessed the first crystal ball for a Palm Bay High School Homecoming Dance. The surprises did not end there, when tired dancers went for refreshments, they came face to face with THE fat cat — Garfield, courtesy of the Senior Class.

Festivities began at 8:00 p.m. and concluded at 12:00 a.m. Once again, our pride showed through to advertise we care about each other.

It's A Senior Tradition

The 1983-84 Powder Puff game was a match to be long remembered. As the players assembled on the field, and the fans rose for the opening kickoff, the heavens released a rain shower showing no mercy. Was this to be a sign of doom? If so, the prediction came true. The senior class dominated their opponents as they had when they were the Juniors the year before. Senior Stefany Meyers scored the first and only touchdown of the game. The juniors fought — hard and mean — to gain winning points. The final score remained 7-0, seniors' game. Better luck next year, juniors.

Senior players rally up spirits to instill fear in the hearts of every junior before they hit the field.
Moving on towards a first down, junior Sally Means stays clear of any senior in her way.

Senior Coach, Chris Brown, talks to Grace Jones about future plays that would help capture a senior victory.

Running for a touchdown, Junior Kim Wegerowski avoids Senior Terri Fields as they fight for their respective classes.

The Junior Powder Puff Cheerleaders, Shawn Bliss, Steve Kitzman, Mike Alazraki, David Sian, Andy Robinson, Steve Costner, Mike Jenkins, Danny White, and Jeff Schwitters display their newly acquired skills in what they tried to pass off as a pyramid.

Fighting her opponents with all she's got, Kim Steinberg runs the ball for the seniors.

Our Community

A spectrum of careers lies before the students in our area. Equal support stands between the two, providing a union between the educated young minds of today, and the businesses of tomorrow.

Living Out A Life of Fantasy

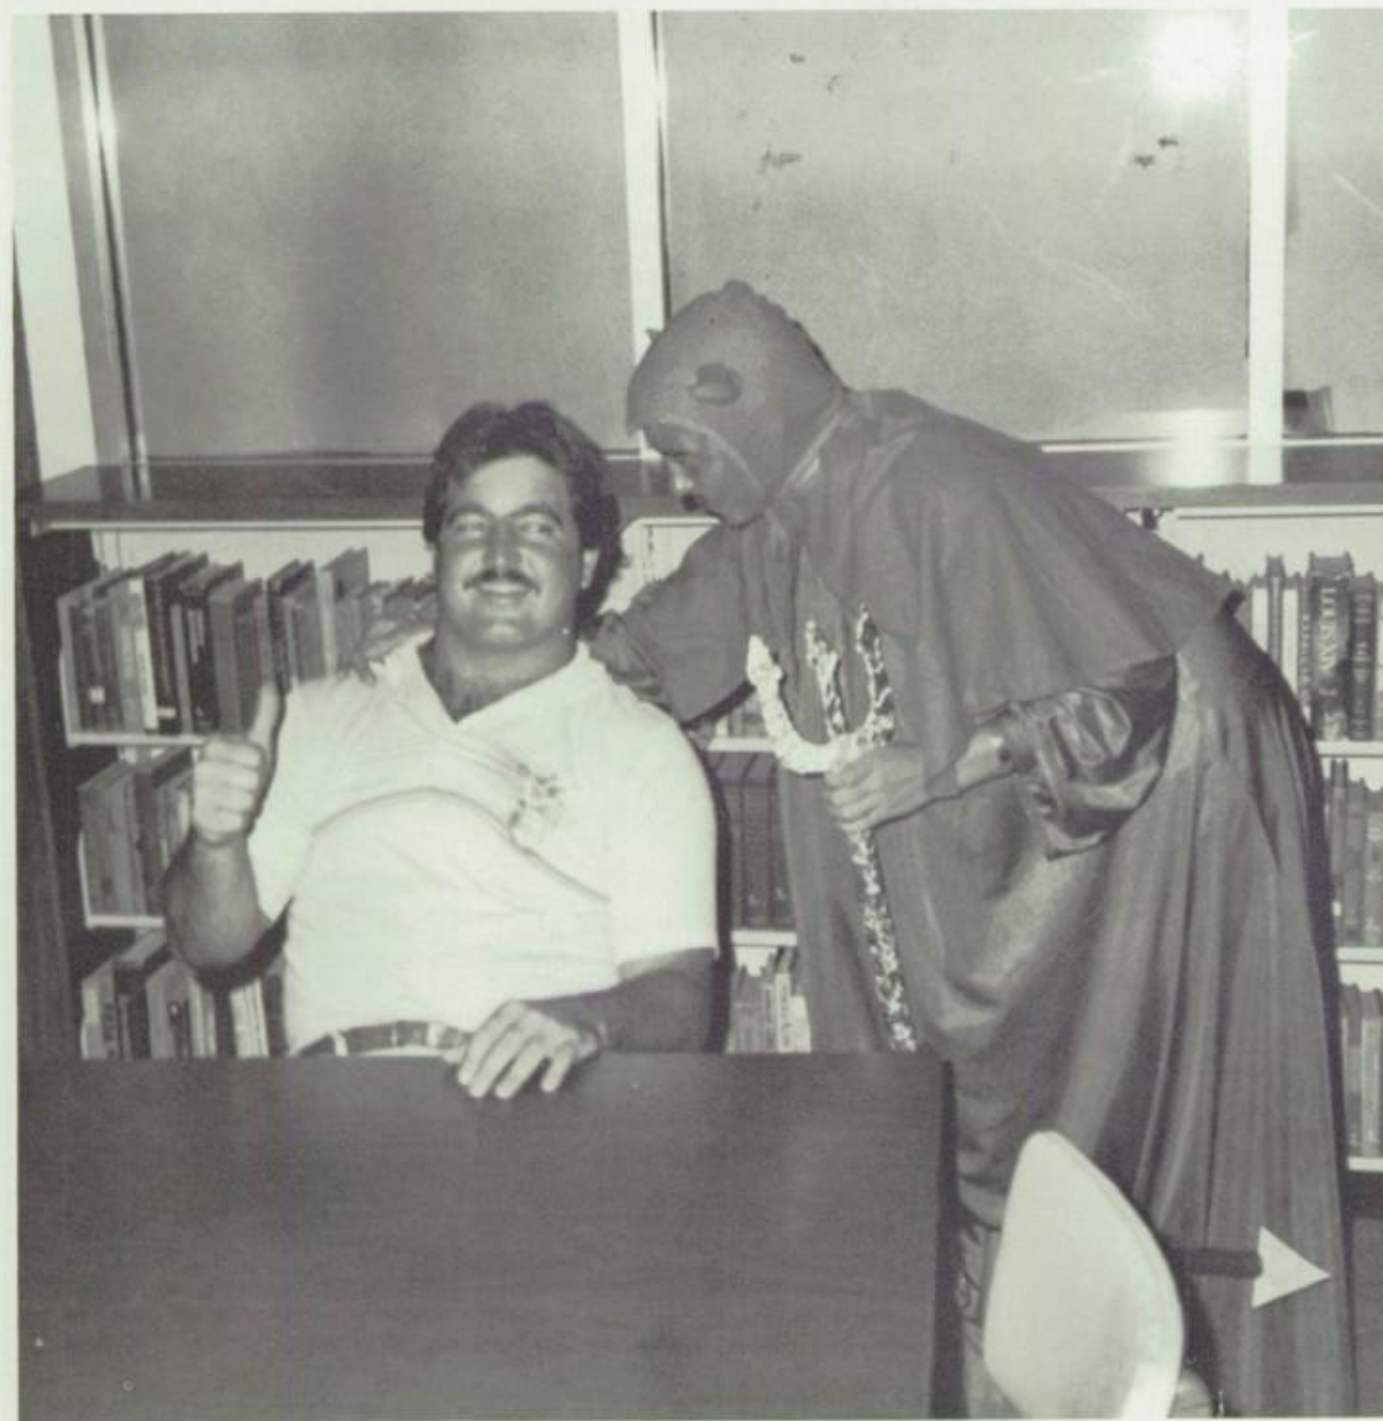

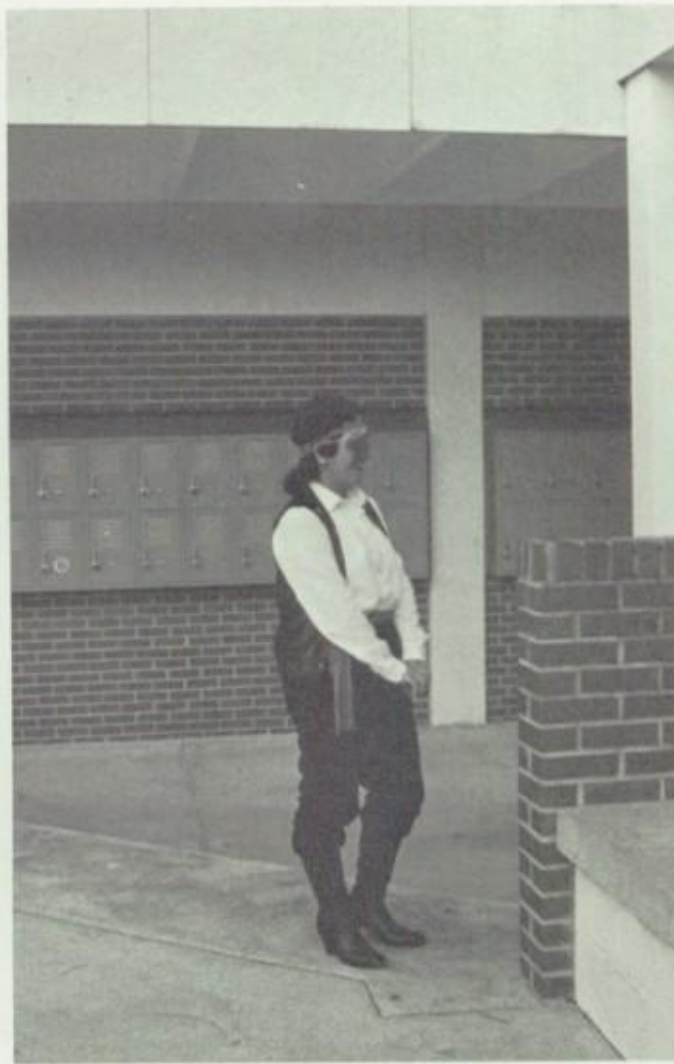

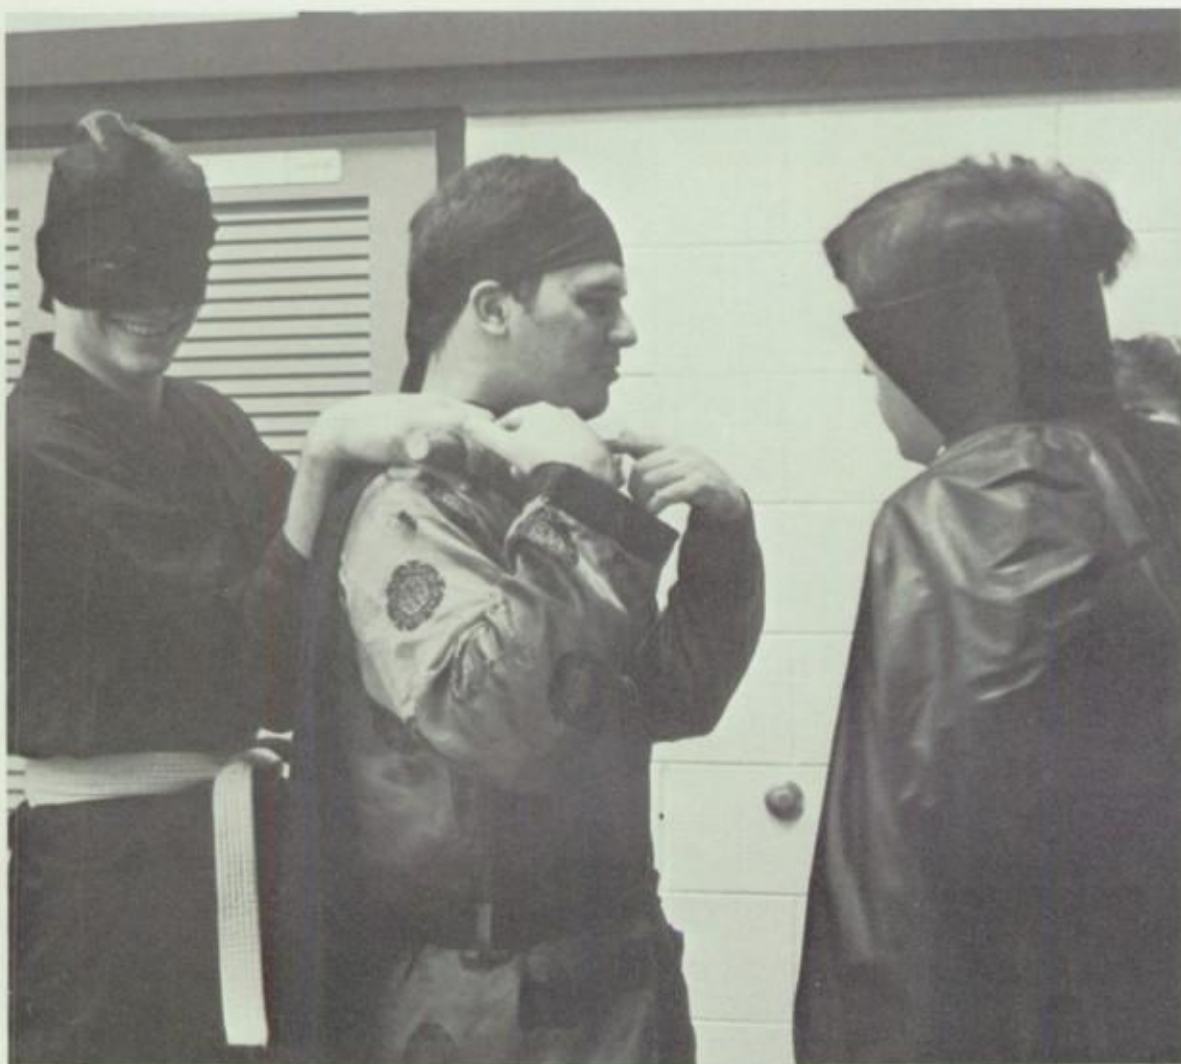

During Homecoming Week, Dress-Up Day just happened to fall in the days prior to Halloween. This may have inspired students to come to school in their craziest apparel. Doctors, devils, bunnies, pirates, and any other imaginative characters roamed our halls provoking stares, laughs, and good-natured jokes.

The Spirit of Zorro takes over as Melkin Thomas walks the halls with the power of the Mexican hero behind him.

Posing as a Spirit Bunny of a different kind, Dawn Botzong confers with Sue Kampmeyer and Lydia Ellul (the princess) about plans for other charades.

Carefully planning the perfect entrance, Gail Botzong, Sue Kampmeyer, Dawn Botzong, and Anne Fernandez (all members of the Girl's Cross Country Team) prepare to introduce the "Blues Sisters" during Spirit Week.

With thoughts of Samari and Ninji in mind, Joe Dibelli, Tony Hudson, and Donald Duchrapper prepare for the perfect match of skill and strength.

In the proud stance of a true pirate, Marla Gordon stands for all her fellow classmates.

When Coach Armstrong tended to agree with Gail Botzong on every point in the conversation, you might think the devil made him do it.

Is there a doctor in the house? If so please contact Brad Hinchman and help him overcome his childish plans of becoming a gynecologist.

Joy for the Season

The Christmas party held the day before Christmas vacation is a tradition. For one hour students enjoyed their friends' company without the confines of a classroom.

The teachers and administration set up many activities in which students became involved. Activities included the favorite — tug-of-war, volleyball in the gym, a bicycle race, and many places were open for just socializing.

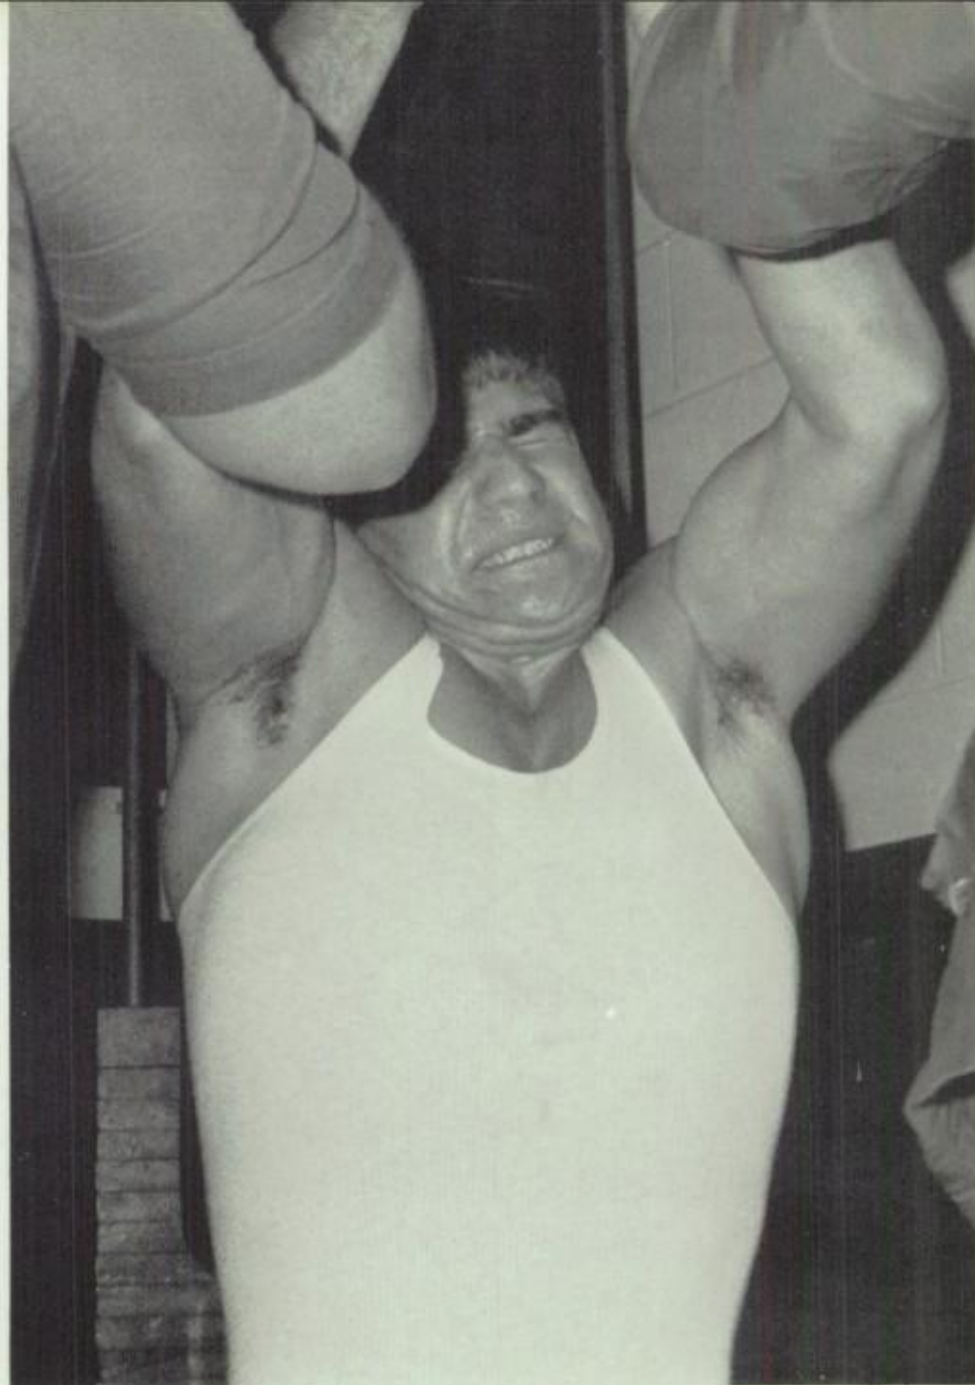

The students left school grateful that the administration gave them a chance to get in the Christmas spirit early.

A physique to be proud of is sported by Doug Patterson, as he "gets physical".

The Christmas party hosted many events. Tim Elmer, Reggie Scott, Eugene Mack, Antel Baugh, and Tracy Linger chose to attend the tug-of-war.

Clowning around in front of the goal, Dan Alicia and Keith Waldron wait for Angel Alicia and Coach Osborne to repair the net.

Taking advantage of the free time provided by the Christmas party, Anne Fernandez settle down for a "Yuletide Snooze".

The view of the tug-of-war wasn't so hot from the ground so Segan Darby, Ken Moyer, Rudy Tuten, Jerry Washington, Gary Boiken, David Calton, Stacy Peterson, Mac Harmon, and Linda DeCaprio decided to find a better seat:

Tugging for the "Black Pack", Todd Prentice and Zuri Pinder give it everything they've got.

In the cafeteria, Vincent Price, Yolanda Price, Danny Scott, and Tessie Thomas enjoy their own private party.

Helping Hands

During the past year, eight of Palm Bay student's mothers became Grey Ladies in the Red Cross Volunteer program. Because of their gift of time, our clinic ran much more efficiently and those who visited felt better instantly after a smile from a friendly face. We would like to "advertise" this great quality in our parents, and show our appreciation for all their support.

While waiting for an empty bed Keith Waldron looks as if he doesn't feel very well.

Shaking hands is a good way to say hello Julie Ulmer and Marlene Tiller show us how proud they are to be an American Red Cross volunteer.

Sitting in for the grey lady on duty, Amy Henshaw kept an eye on the clinic.

Missing a test seemed to help Kevin Dziegiel, overcome his illness.

After completing her training as a Red Cross Volunteer, Gail Ball was officially capped.

Representing the Red Cross Volunteer organization, these ladies installed the Palm Bay mothers as Grey Lady Volunteers.

A Word to the Wise

Dedication is the key word when you ask students to give up one of their only days off from school to participate in club activities.

Speech club members Christy Oppermann, Amy Liddle, Lisa Robinson, Jim Moliski, Bill Moliski, Louis Bonsteel, Lisa Palieri, and Lisa Passmore stood their ground in the Merritt Square Mall on Saturday, December 3 to demonstrate the power of words and to show their pirate pride.

Sponsored by Mrs. Carol Cramer and Mrs. Pat Shelton, these speech club members participated in the "Reading in the Mall" program to stress the importance of reading skills. Palm Bay joined many other district schools in this program which hopes to inspire reading for sheer enjoyment.

When speaking in public, the audience's attention must be held. By using a strong voice and unusual facial expressions Amy Liddle did just that.

During that one last run-through before his performance, Bill Moliski skims over his reading with sponsor Pat Shelton.

With the true feeling of the holiday spirit, Lisa Palieri shared stories of Santa Claus with all who cared to listen.

Speech club members Lisa Robinson, Lisa Passmore, Lisa Pelieri, Bill Moliski, Amy Liddle, "Santa", (Jim Moliski), and Louis Bonsteel performed the classic holiday poem, "The Night Before Christmas," with a new twist of flair.

Both Lisas, Robinson and Palieri, remained at the Merritt Square Mall to enjoy the readings of comrades.

Using the gifts of Erma Bombeck's pen, and her own silver tongue, Christy Oppermann shares a word with passersby.

The stories of Madeline were never told better than by Lisa Robinson, as she professed the plights of a well known friend.

Pirate Pride Lives On

Pep Rallies are one of the biggest events of the year. It's a chance to yell, scream and get rowdie.

One of our best pep rallies was when our faculty decided to become cheerleaders. It was the laugh of the century.

Our teachers and football players cheered in competition. Our teachers won. Our teachers performed a cheer called Kawasaki — "We ain't bad and we ain't cocky, we're gonna run over you like a Kawasaki-zoom zoom!"

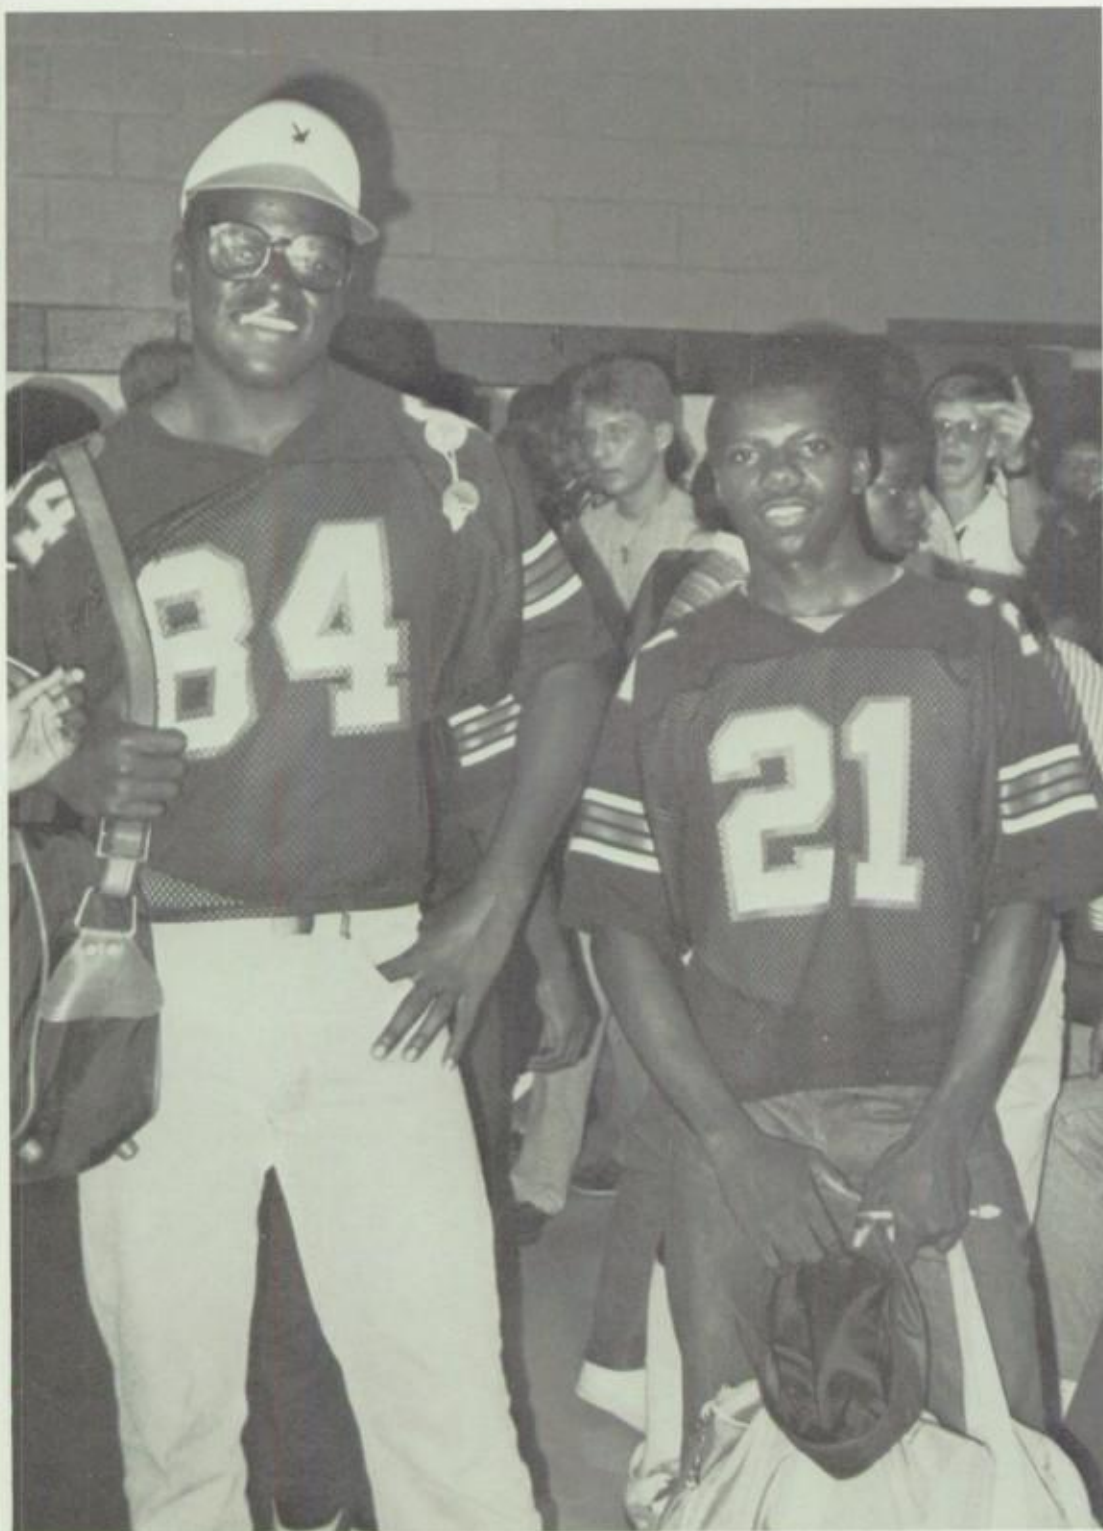

Another type of pep rally experienced by the student body was the movement of the cheerleaders and band through the halls performing cheers and playing music.

Looking on anxiously two seniors, Sue Holstein and Jessica Taylor, check out the scene at the Astronaut Pep Rally.

Keeping to the rhythm of the beat, Tina Woods and the other flag corps members perform a routine for the student body raising the school's spirit for the Rockledge game.

Preparing to perform their appointed task of flagging down pirate fans, Jackie Woods, Kim Rivett, Joanne Mohrmann, Dee Dee Batien, Debbie Myhre, Tina Woods, and Tina Petitt wait anxiously for the signal to begin.

Knowing that they are two of our many powerful football players, Travis Riddick and Mike Wright proudly display their numbers.

Are those cheerleaders? No, it's just some spirited faculty teachers participating in a cheering competition against the varsity football players. This is just one of the many crazy skits our faculty performed to light the spark of spirit.

Under Mr. Worthington's watchful eyes, the band members show their pirate pride by marching through the halls.

Cheering our team on, J. V. Cheerleaders Corrine Hintze, Becky Myhre, Martha Layer, Julie Ulmer, and Varsity Cheerleader Stefany Meyers attempt to get pirate fans pepped up for the big game against the Kowboys.

Pulling Apart at the Seams

This year saw a tightening of academic standards across the nation. The administration realized that the students needed time to relax and once again implemented their unique activity.

The last hour of the last day before Christmas vacation played host to the 5th annual Christmas party. The majority of the student body participated in the Tug-of-war contest.

There was plenty of competition this year. The "Mud-Diggers" (Mechanics) gave the "Black Pack" (cross-country) a run for their money, but the "Black Pack" pulled through for the fourth consecutive year.

The following teams participated but didn't make it to the final round: ROTC (white); ROTC (red); ROTC (gold); Mud Eaters; Mud Slingers; Mud Runners; Dirty Deeds; Beatles; Commies; and Bandits.

They may not have won, but Shawn Chapman and Trey Smith put up a good tugging battle for their opponents.

Pulling with all of his might, Brad Hinchman refuses to admit defeat.

Out to give the opposing team a run for their money, Marcum Thomas, Tyrone Dixon, Mark Gross, and Kim Dixon pull with all of their strength.

Concentrating on becoming winners, Jeff Tobart and Carlton Davis put their minds and body into full swing.

Patiently waiting to pull again, Gail Botzong takes a rest while sizing up the opposite teams.

Concentration required to emerge victorious in the tug-of-war is shown by David Bookstein.

In an attempt to avoid the merky depths Robbie Dillard, Nick Evangelo, Jeff Beard, Gail Botzong, Bonnie Lucci, Todd Prentice, Zuri Pinder, Chris Conner, and Darin Miller use all of their strength in an attempt to pull their unseen foes into the pit.

Another Drop in the Bucket

In the school's few years as a high school, we have been one of the leaders in the county when it comes time to donate blood. In the last three out of five years, Palm Bay High has taken home the trophy for most blood donated by a high school.

When the blood bank of Melbourne sent the bloodmobile to Palm Bay in the spring and fall, the students were ready and willing to part with a pint of blood. Over the last five years we have donated three hundred ten pints of blood.

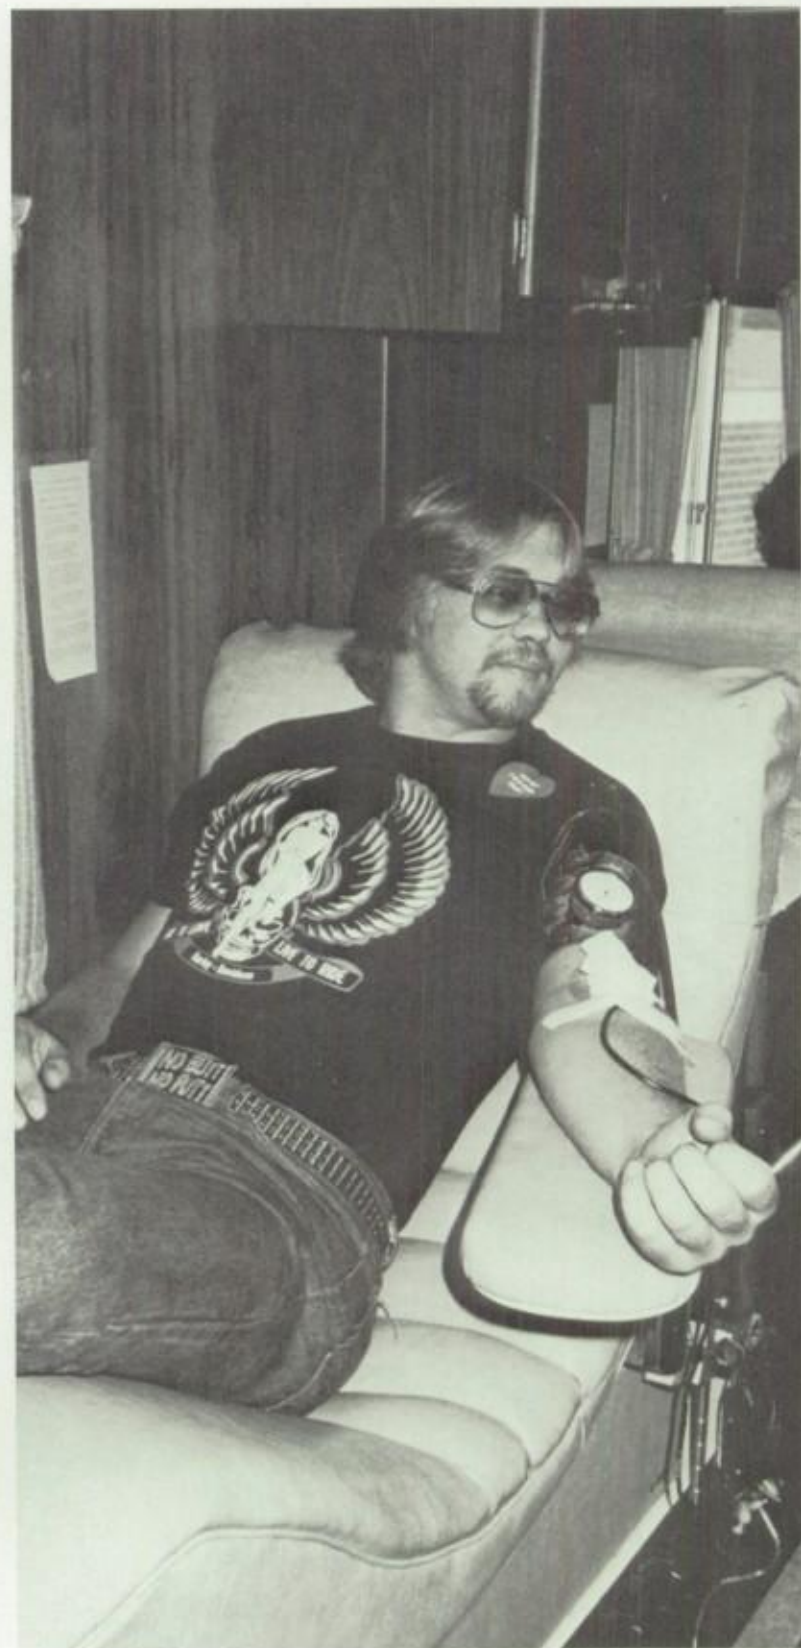

HOSA sponsors the blood drive every year and its members work inside the bloodmobile volunteering their time. Our student body should be proud to be a leader of such a worthy cause.

HOSA members Suzie Santiago and Amy Whalen prepare to store blood donated by a student.

Reclining back in his chair, Pete Loomis decides giving blood is not so bad.

Not at all enthusiastic after having her finger pricked, Patty Sherman wonders if being a Good Samaritan is worth the pain.

Grimacing in pain, Chris Kellum braves the needle.
Mildly concerned, Ted Cassell watches as the nurse tends to his arm.
Comparing battle wounds, Steve Binder and Terri Fields decide it IS a laughing matter.
Innocent of what lies ahead, Maria Gonzales smiles unconcernedly.*

Have It Your Way

In the lunch mods, our students have the use of two different areas, the inside and outside cafeteria, and the commons area. These places are the most popular places on campus, where students can eat lunch, talk to friends, play cards, and do homework. These two mods are a way students can get refreshed for their upcoming classes.

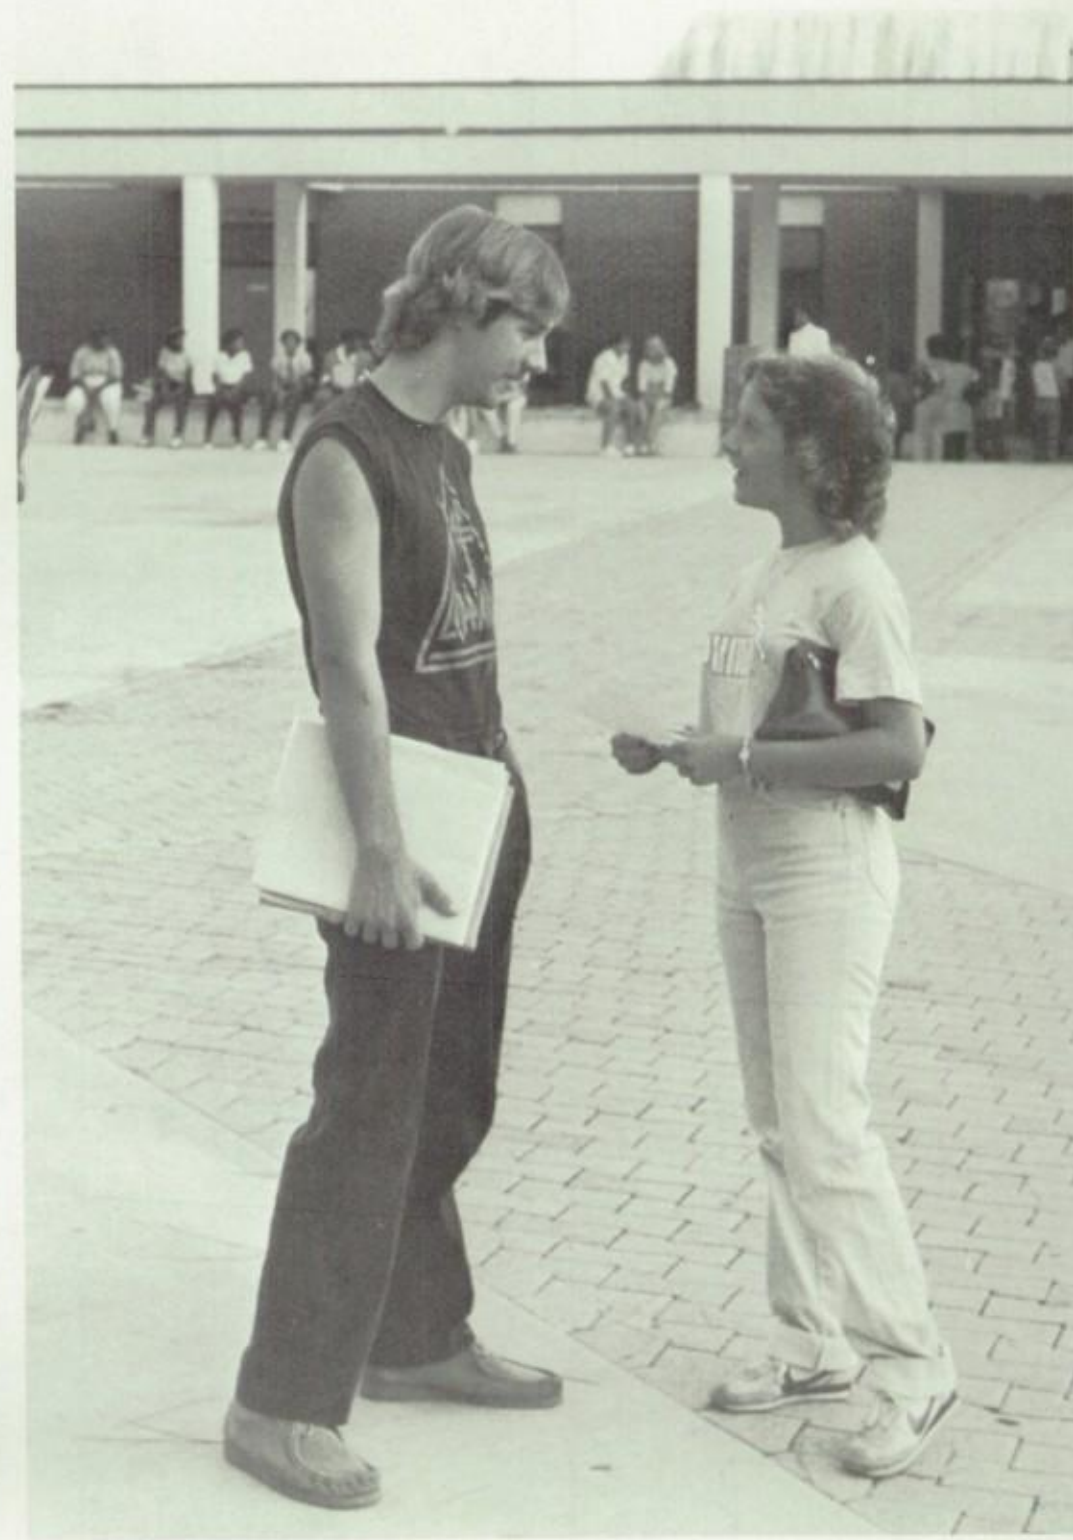

The cafeteria is used when Josten's shows and distributes class rings to students. The spirit chain sale, sponsored by the Junior Civitan club, pits class against class to raise spirit for the crosstown rival game against Melbourne High School. The commons area is one of the most attractive areas in the school. It is elevated above ground, floored with brick, and possesses sunken landscaping. It is a meeting place for students before school. It acts as a voting center for school elections held during the school year. No wonder the commons area and the cafeteria rank as the most popular places on the school campus.

Greeting Danny Bexfield with a warm handshake, Jerry Johnson says "hello" to his old friend.

In the morning, the commons area is a good place to see friends. Mike Dotson greets Terry Zampella.

During her lunch mods, Mary Burk sneaks a look at her friend's magazine.

In the outside cafeteria, Rachel Burgman labors on her homework for her next class.

The commons area is a good place for relaxation. Travis Riddick, Tony Nieves, and Fella Mapp enjoy the sunny day.

Reading the outside bulletin board, Jennifer Chase learns about the evils of smoking.

Out in the commons area, an interesting subject catches Kim Baker's eye and she points it out to Betty Bray, Latricia Pittman, and Val Gerry.

PALM BAY'S Let's Advertise

After entering part two of our tour, a very important aspect of high school life came into view, organizations.

An extensive list of skills were learned from active participation in clubs. Leadership qualities and cooperation number at the top of the list. However, one of the most important skills acquired was salesmanship. (M&M's being the number 1 seller sold almost twice a month.) If a student sold one case of M&M's in a candy sale, they sold approximately 3,000 little green, brown and yellow bite size, melt-in-your-mouth morsels. Multiply this number accordingly and the results are staggering.

Several of the clubs and organizations were involved at the state level. For the second year, both the FHA/HERO and the Student Council hosted district meetings at the excellent facilities our school affords. What they learned at conventions and workshops will remain with them forever.

In a show of strength and skill that would make any Roman Gladiator jealous, Warren Pyle attacks an unknown foe while Michael Scheele cheers the battle on.

Adorned in their respective Dungeons and Dragons apparel, Bill Garrett, Joe Dibella, Steve Radke, Tony Hudson, Carlos Martinez, and Danny Bexfield enact a scene in D&D style.

Presenting themselves for inspection, trumpet players Tim Westernbarger, Rob VanWart, survive close scrutiny by drum major Carol Reese.

ORGANIZATIONS

Dancing in the Street

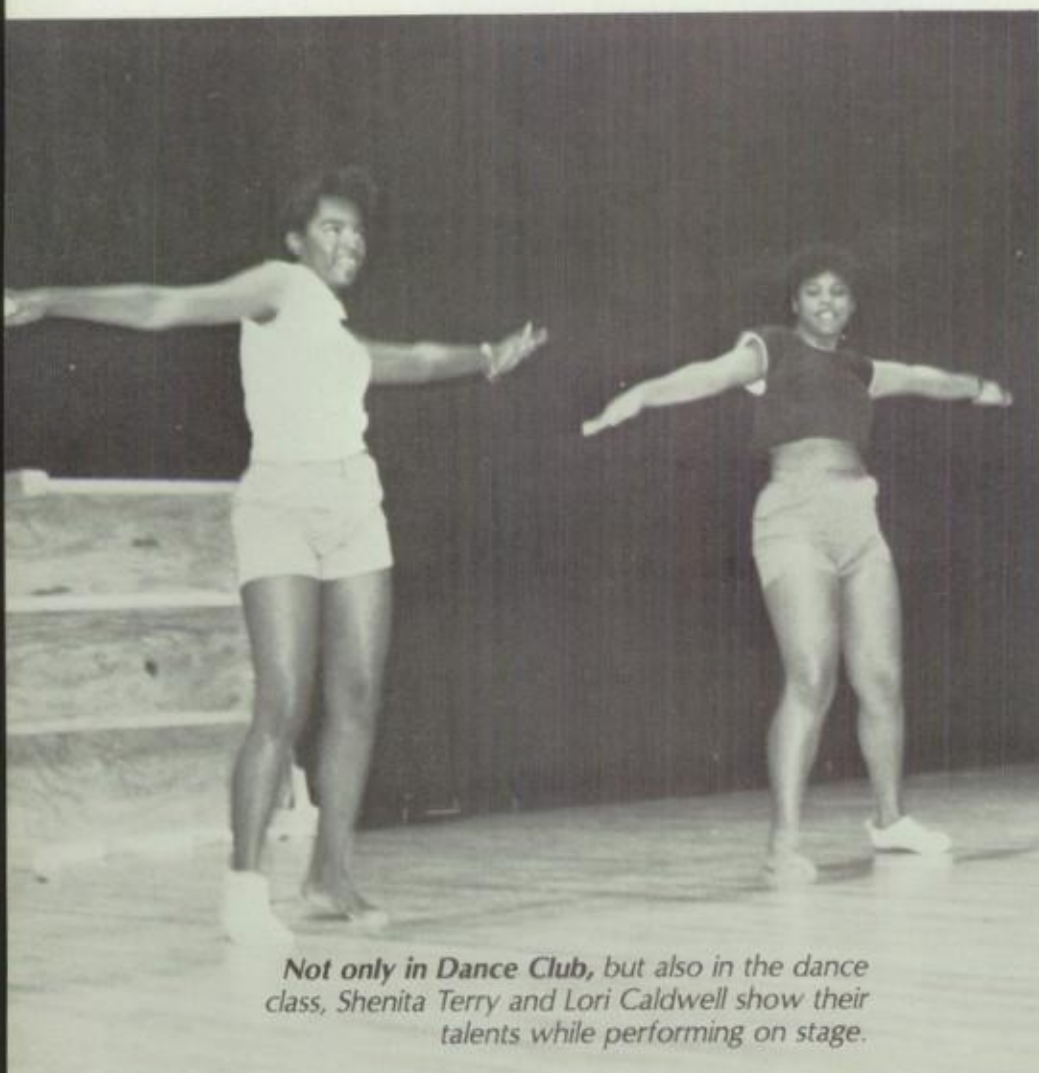

Students were able to dance and have the knowledge of what it involved.

All members were encouraged to develop new dance routines rather than hold to old ones. They participated in free Jazzercise warm-ups, and basic movements. Mrs. Mariel Cucuel donated her time and studio for the students.

The dance club, sponsored by Mrs. Garcia and Mrs. Saxman gave students the opportunity to creatively express themselves through dancing.

Not only in Dance Club, but also in the dance class, Shenita Terry and Lori Caldwell show their talents while performing on stage.

OFFICERS Kathy Mills — Treasurer, Lori Caldwell — President, Michele Wrobel — Vice President, Marla Gordon — Promotion Agent.

To Be, or Not to Be.

The Palm Bay players are made up of the students with an interest in acting or technical theatre activities.

Members of the club learn all facets of the theatre by participation in productions. Some of the areas can include: acting, stage managing, lighting, sound, set, construction, costumes, make-up, props and publicity.

Entertaining the Port Malabar Elementary School patrols at the Homecoming parade held at Roach Park, Lisa Robinson demonstrated her talents.

Leaders of the Pack

Members of the Student Council began their school year early in the summer. Five members attended the Florida Association of Student Councils leadership workshop in Eustis, Florida. Under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Kennedy, council members were busily planning homecoming activities in September. The festivities were set to begin in mid-November and members spent all of October finalizing plans for the homecoming parade, powder puff game, the crowning of the queen and her court and the dance. The two weeks went well. The Homecoming Dance climaxed the Festivities.

Members of the student council, in conjunction with the Muscular Dystrophy Association sponsored a skating party at the Galaxy Skateway in Eau Gallie.

Teachers as well as students attended this event to raise money for "Jerry's Kids". Christmas time brought with it a record breaking candy gram sale. Over 8,000 grams were distributed among the student population December 16. Those canes left over along with some candy bars from a previous sale were donated to the Florida Children's Home.

In March, the council sponsored the snack bar at the regional science fair that was hosted here. They also played host to the participants of the state science fair in April.

Throughout the year, the Student Council strove to uplift school spirit and make everyone proud to be a Pirate.

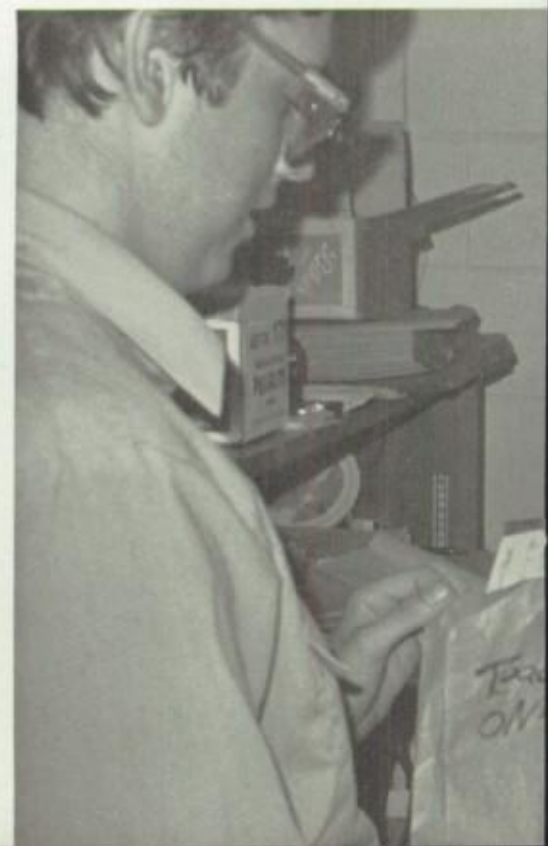

Faculty members enjoy a relaxing afternoon at a luncheon hosted by the Student Council at the end of the '83 school year.

Sorting candy grams is an endless task for councilors. Jackie Woods plows through a huge pile.

Manning the snack bar at the science fair is a rough job for Hector Tobon and Lisa Robinson.

Countless candy grams were sorted, Lisa Robinson and Donald LaChapelle separated those for the faculty.

Student Council officers are Becki Caswall, President; Amy Whalen, vice-president; Gloria Restrepo, Secretary; and Derrick LaChapelle, Treasurer.

Senators and officers for 1983-84 were: From Top — Gloria Restrepo, Tracy Harmon, Valerie Michaels, Missy Call, Derrick LaChapelle, Lisa Wintrouble, Michele Smith, Lyndi Steiner, Donald LaChapelle, Amy Steiner, Julie Carroll, Becki Caswall, Jackie Woods, Tonya Mederos, April Wright, advisor — Ken Kennedy, Amy Whalen, To Bottom — Michelle Freeman, Lisa Robinson, and Danny Scott.

A Step Above

Throughout the year, many community oriented activities were done by Beta Club, a prestigious organization composed of some of the best students in the school.

This year they visited the Bethesda Baptist Retirement Center to share some of their joy with a few of the residents.

In February, the Beta Club went to Florida Children's Home for a Valentines Day party.

State convention was held in April, and Beta Club played an active part.

During the years to come the Beta Club will continue to serve its community and school while they expand in membership.

Viewing the Christmas spirit of a resident of Bethesda Baptist Retirement Center are Beta Club members Mike Kelly, Jennifer Roberts, and Daman Philips.

A Club That Cares

One of the most respected clubs around, Junior Civitan, is one with a high reputation and isn't about to give it up. They are a part of a nationwide non-profit organization competing in civic projects in the immediate area.

This year, they went to Carnegie Gardens convalescent home. They helped with such activities as shuffleboard, bingo and throwing Christmas parties for the residents.

Some of Junior Civitan's other activities are selling fruit cake, and holding car washes to raise money to send people to convention at the end of the year.

Pride has many faces, as the Junior Civitan entry in the Homecoming parade rolls down the boulevard.

Polishing Off Writing Skills

Writing was a talent that each member of the Tradewinds Staff attempted to master. Students worked hard during the year perfecting other skills such as photography, editing and drawing. These were put to use when the staff published the 1984 edition of Tradewinds, a literary magazine made up entirely of student work.

Overseeing the staff was Mrs. Jamie Bruton, she employed her literary talents to help ensure a high quality publication.

Polishing up an essay before submitting it for publication takes many hours. David Whitford adds some finishing touches to his work.

Constructive criticism can have interesting results.

Leslie Ray listens to everyone's opinion of her work.

Valuable tips were learned from speakers, Tina Wagner and Taylor listen attentively to Mrs. Jamae Bruton.

Advisor Mrs. Bruton offers her advice to the staff.

TRADEWIND MEMBERS — Kim Catcher, Pam Sheeler, Leslie Raye, Sandra Willis, Christy Taylor, David Whitford, Brian Lazusky, Sue Sheffield, Jim Malisky, Tina Wagner.

A Drop in the Bucket

The Health Occupations Staff was made up of very enthusiastic young people. These students cared enough to put forth a great deal of their time to help other people.

By taking Mrs. Cargill's Health Service Aide class, the students worked at the hospital for two hours a day. This hospital-time enabled the students to receive their certificates as nurses aide without further training. This course is a benefit to students because it saves them time and money. Often they are hired as soon as they graduate from high school.

Mrs. Diane Cargill was chosen by the faculty as "teacher of the year." This news was received by her students with great enthusiasm. Mrs. Cargill has proven herself to be dedicated to the students, and in return her students are dedicated to her and their field of study.

When receiving this honor Mrs. Cargill said, "As a registered nurse, with no past teaching experience, I feel honored to be the recipient of this award. I feel as though I have crossed over the line, from nurse to teacher. Thank you."

Being elected president of the HOSA staff, Robin Moore explains the goals she hopes to achieve.

HOSA MEMBERS — Amy Whalen, Sue Harris, Tony Nieves, Robin Moore, Mrs. Cargill, Roberta Clapp, Diane Levesque, Tom Raulen, Norma Rivera, Wynolla Robbinault, Tamara McCartney, Ute Schaeffer, Suzette Santiago.

Supporting the HOSA staff, Suzette Santiago and Tony Nieves send the Eagles a message from our mighty Pirates.

After collecting blood, Amy Whalen and Suzette Santiago label the blood in preparation for its transportation to the hospital.

LET'S ADVERTISE Our Community

Our area patrons would like to welcome graduates into a new world of business career opportunities. In every field, they stand back and wait for the application of talents presented by the Class of 1984.

Using Word and Thought

Although the Speech Club was not a major organization in the school, the students who participated were pleased with their results. Through tournaments and other forms of competition they gained the experience needed to become a stronger force in the future.

There is a wide variety of people who make up the Speech Club: Jim Moliski, Amy Liddle, Dan Collison, Buddy Bonsteel, Christy Oppermann, Bruce Pulver, Lisa Robinson, Bill Moliski, Chris Cecilione, and Rachel Bauman.

Taken by surprise, Buddy Bonsteel doesn't even have time to smile on this busy day.

Serving as officers of Speech Club: Lisa Robinson, Public Relations; Daniel Collison, Vice President; Christy Oppermann, President; Buddy Bonsteel, ICC Rep.; and Secretary-Treasurer, Amy Liddle.

As a member of Speech Club, Lisa Robinson represented Palm Bay at the Merritt Square Shopping Mall.

Preparing for her presentation, Amy Liddle gives her time and effort to one of her hobbies, Speech Club.

Home Front Heros

Future Homemakers of America is a national organization of young men and women with chapters located in all 50 states. Any student with a classroom background in Home Economics related occupations is eligible to be a part of this organization.

Each year the state chooses a theme and target for students to achieve. They based this choice on what they felt were particularly current and in need of emphasis.

Honors for the Honored

In order to be a National Honor Society member, one must maintain a 3.5 G.P.A. The school is proud of these students for their academic accomplishments. Their activities for the past year included two canned food drives, one at Thanksgiving and the other at Christmas time, both were very successful.

The officers of National Honor Society are: President: Dan Zychowski, Secretary: Lydie Ellul, Vice President: Jim Moliski, Treasurer: Katie Redmond. As a member involved in the morning announcements, Paula Alderman speaks her piece.

The Root of Languages

Latin Club was created for students who are serious about the language of Latin.

The Latin Club competed in the district forum and went to the state forum. At district, two second place trophies were won both by Chris Nappa in the Latin I and Mythology category. Jon Watkins won a fourth place trophy in the History of Roman Empire category, Renee Clary in the Arts and Crafts area. Joe Feike won two fifth place trophies in Mythology and Arts and Crafts.

The President of the Latin Club, David Sian, tries to think of ideas for fund raisers.

South of the Border

The Spanish club consists of students in Spanish classes who share an interest in learning more about the cultures and customs of Spain, and Spanish countries.

Club Sponsor, Mrs. Flo Thomas, leads club members on adventures, such as the annual trip to a place of Spanish culture. In the past, they have traveled to St. Augustine, and the Spanish section of Tampa. These trips have left club members with a flavor of Spanish culture, which will add extra spice to both their high school years and their future.

The "Head Honcho", Mrs. Flo Thomas plays a game of hide and seek.

Sampling Spanish food, is said to be one of the better portions of Spanish Club, Maria Urbina fills her plate up.

Salut Mes Amis

With great spirit and enthusiasm, the French Club members built an incredibly unique float for the Homecoming Parade. Although it didn't place in the judging, they were all very proud of it.

The annual parlez-athon brought in over $100. This event takes place during a school day and the participants are allowed only to speak French.

In past years the French Club has given scholarships to an outstanding student and member of the club. This year they will follow the tradition.

Writing to pen-pals across the ocean is a main event in the French classes. Mrs. Viglianco has kept in touch with a teacher in France and their classes write to each other. This is an excellent way to learn the language and the culture. In the past, the publications class has donated a year-book to the annual exchange package between the two countries. Reportedly it has been received with great enthusiasm.

Increasing the size of sunglasses doesn't always help vision. Laurel Stone blocks the rays of the sunshine with her extra-ordinary glasses.

While waiting for the Homecoming Parade to begin, Saskia Izaquire prepares to take her place in line with the French float.

Caught in an embarrassing moment, Andrea Semas attempts to hide her face with little success. Denise Finneran laughs at her friend's embarrassment.

Asking the typical question — café, thé ou lait — Denise Lamp gracefully serves her customers.

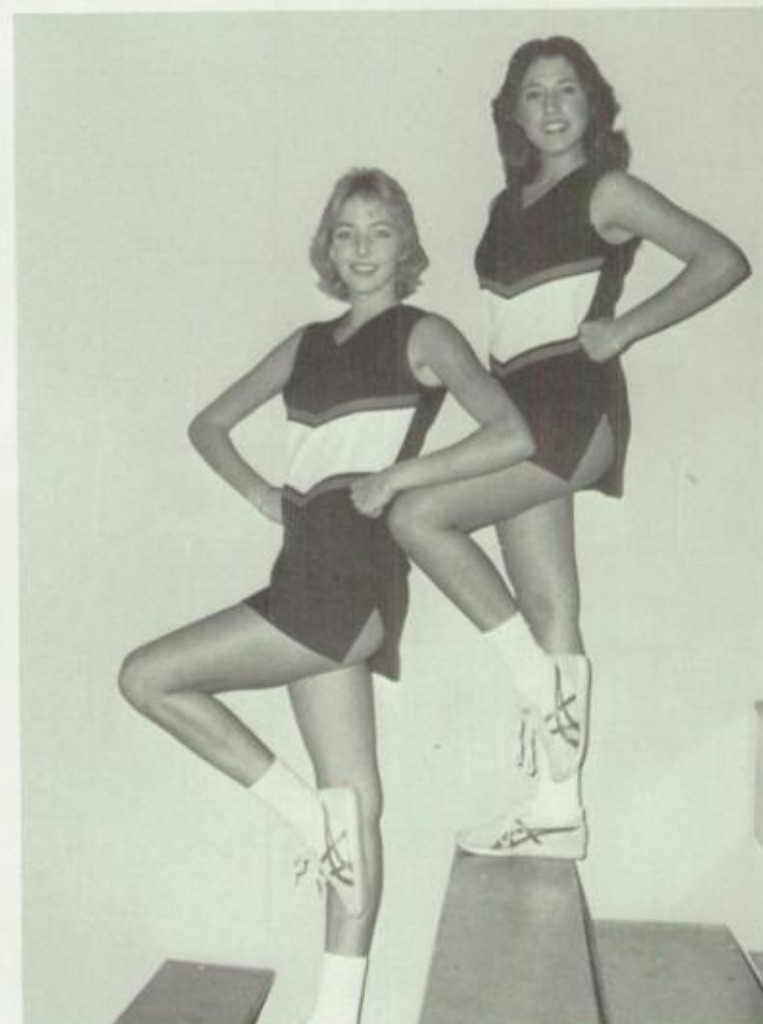

Pep With Step

This year's girls were all new to the varsity squad, except one. In spite of this they received all blue superior ribbons and spirit awards each night at camp during the summer of '83.

Tough times were many, but everyone soon became the best of friends.

Cheering is not all it cracked up to be. Indeed fun times were experienced, but the responsibilities were many.

The sponsors, Mary Yates, and Anne Lockman, were very supportive of the girls.

Showing off their flexibility Michelle Goodman and Kerrie Herndon touch elbows to knees.

Spirit comes easy for Lisa Fry at a varsity football game.

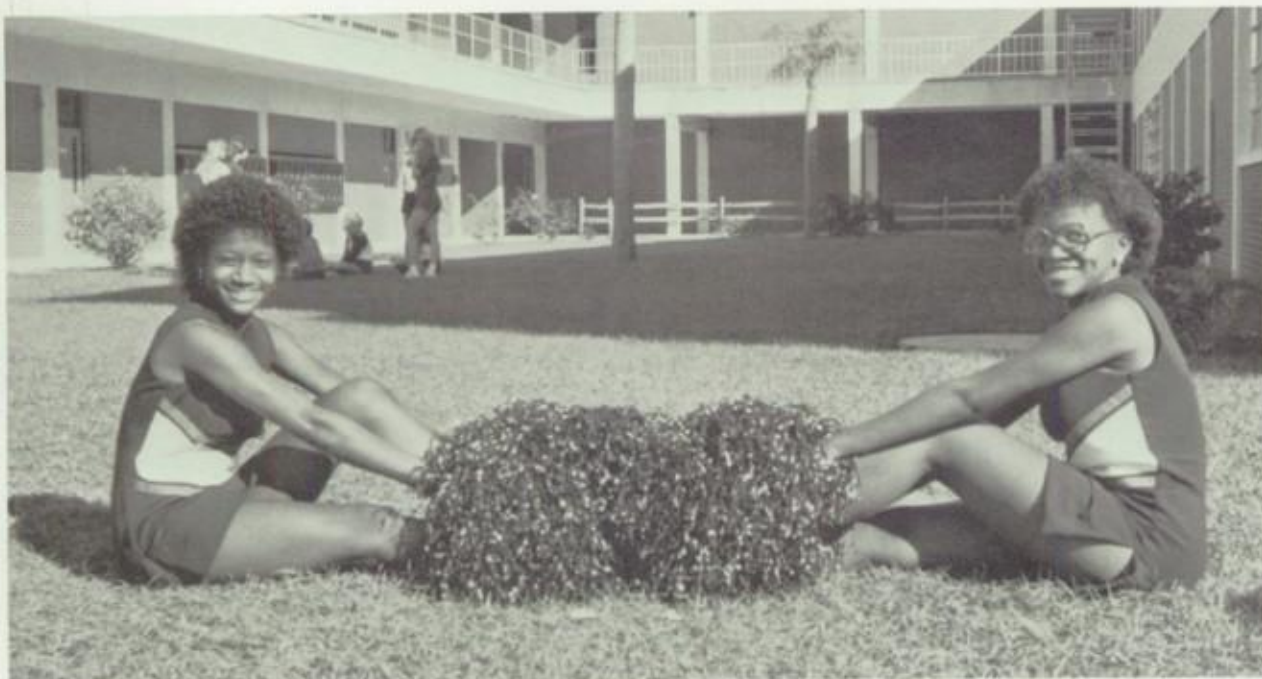

Closeness of friends on the squad is proven by Debra Shackelford and Monica Holmes while they pose arm in arm.

Hands on hips, smile on lips is the rule for Lisa Fry and Karen Batten.

The reliable co-captain and captain are Michele Vitaliano, and Stefany Meyer. They led the squad through thick and thin.

Two sisters posing together, Cheryl and Vicki Foreman, are new to cheering. They both participated on a dance squad at Hoover Jr. High School.

Another new, smiling face, Kim Steinberg, was devoted to the soccer team. Julie Baker is the only returning varsity cheerleader.

Way to be, J.V.

Junior Varsity Cheerleading is quite a step up from the freshmen squad. The girls attended summer camp where they all earned blue superior ribbons. Also, they competed in the county cheerleading competition, placing fourth.

Cheering is hard work, but fun times were shared too. Each girl gains nine great friends.

Using enthusiasm, Jennifer Kent gets the crowd involved.

Letting everyone know that the Pirates are #1, Jennifer Red and Becky Myhre cheer their team on to a victory.

Defying the law of gravity, Corinne Hintze takes flight while Carrie Walker watches the game.

While waiting for the Homecoming Parade to begin, Regina Kennedy puts last minute touches on Julie Ulmer's hair.

As they wait for the beginning of the parade, Martha Layer and Becky Myhre observe some of the floats.

At the Palm Bay-Mel-Hi football game, Lisa Whitlock and Jennifer Vickers offer suggestions for the next cheer.

From Bottom to Top

Cheering on the Freshman squad is the beginning of a long road for a girl's high school years. Each girl involved gained experience and made many new friends. With some help from their sponsor, Mickey Kloepell, they learned skills that will help boost them to a J.V. position next year.

The 1984 freshman cheerleaders show three of their favorite mounts. In the upper left-hand corner, Tracy Rhinehart, Serena Crawford, Becky Smith, Terry Montgomery, Debbie White and Christina Condart demonstrate a "stack" mount. Some "double stunts" are shown in the picture immediately to the left while the "fan" is done to perfection in the picture below.

Competing for the Lord

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a nationally recognized club that is new to Palm Bay this year. Sponsors Tom Armstrong and Joyce Thomas have done a great job in building the club from 2 or 3 people to the 15 members they have now.

FCA has established several projects for the good of the students. The peer council enables students to come in and share a problem that they may not be able to handle themselves. A tutor program is set up to help students. The members of FCA incorporate their belief in God with good sportsmanship.

President Brad Hinchman discusses activity with sponsor, Tom Armstrong. All decked out in his ROTC uniform, Travis Riddick attends an important meeting. FCA member Chuck Haynes adds his views to a club decision.

CLUB LEADERS: Sponsor, Tom Armstrong, Vice President, Betty Whedbee, President, Brad Hinchman, and Treasurer, Jeff Rice.

THE CLUB MEMBERS are: Cindy Michaels, Travis Riddick, Tom Armstrong, Juan Restrepo, Jeff Rice, Julie Baker, Chuck Haynes, Robbie Haynes, Eric Cline, Laura Morris, Betty Whedbee, Lounette Quinn, Linda Borie, and Diego Tobon.

At a meeting, Linda Borie and Diego Tobon pay attention to the club chaplain, "Mac".

Some class books are the subject of interest to Jeff Rice, Betty Whedbee, Chuck Haynes, Eric Cline, and Juan Restrepo.

Side Line Support

The basketball team had an advantage over most of the other teams because they had lots of support from the hard-working Foul-Line Club. They gathered funds in order to buy the girls' and boys' basketball teams new warm-ups. The organization raised money by working car washes, selling candy grams, gathering bottles, and sponsoring the Faculty-Student Basketball games. Money is not the only thing that Foul-line donated for the basketball teams. They also attended all of the games and acted as managers by keeping statistics.

Possessing great leadership qualities, Pam Torres, Shenita Terry and Lainey Willis led the crew of Foul Line supporters. Working with friends lessens the hardship of car washing. Tony McNair and Mark Clennon work together for better results. Playing a supervising role in the Foul Line car wash, Anthony Presley kept Mike Shiele on his toes. Attracting customers that would normally pass by, Corretta Seals and Lenora Scott advertise their car wash.

The 1983-84 Future Business Leaders of America were Barbara Piper, Buddy Bonsteel, Donald LaChapelle, Bernard Misch, Thury Claugh, Wendy Jenkins, Jodi Mount, and Carol Caparella.

We Mean Business

F.B.L.A., the Future Business Leaders of America, worked hard to qualify for the District Tournament, February 10. The tournament was held in Fort Pierce.

In only a few years of existence, Dungeons and Dragons expanded their number of members and developed new ideas for the game. Bringing their game characters to life for Halloween showed how advanced and complicated Dungeons and Dragons has become.

Preparations for entering the field of data processing are many. Carol Caparella, Wendy Jenkins, and Jodi Mount are beginning their training with a class in basic data processing.

Explaining the intricate facets to her classmates Barbara Piper demonstrates the correct way to input data.

Gathering at a simple wooden table, the complex minds of Joe Dibella, Steve Radke, Mike Bernin, Scott Lewis, Tony Hudson, Carlos Martinez, Jeff Labbe, and Danny Bexfield met to match their wits.

While dressed appropriately on Halloween Dress Up day, Danny Bexfield, Scott Lewis, Carlos Martinez, Tony Hudson, and Jeff Labbe shared thoughts and new ideas.

PALM BAY'S Let's Advertise

The facet of our tour that cannot be overlooked is people. Without the teachers, administrators, custodians, staff and most importantly students, there would be nothing to advertise. They made the year what it was.

Achievements such as the Girls Cross Country Team placing sixth in the state, and the Math Team earning the highest score in the county as well as one of the highest scores in the state in the Florida Mathematics League gave this year a special glow. That glow will shine on for future times. The students on whom it reflects will change, but they will all have something worth advertising.

Preceding the Homecoming Parade, Principal Boyce Padgett consults Ken Kennedy concerning the positioning of the Homecoming Parade.

Clubs are made up of people who care. Foul-line members Jennifer Blanding and Tammy Jackson assist Tom Armstrong at a car wash which will benefit the basketball team.*

Cheerleaders are special people who give of themselves for school and team. Regina Kennedy and Julie Ulmer share a warm smile before the Homecoming Parade.*

It's A Matter of Principle

This past year the administration welcomed the new school year with a great deal of enthusiasm. During the 1983-84 registration, 1,700 students were enrolled to attend classes in our school. A new computerized attendance system was applied by our administrators as a test system for all Brevard County schools. With the help of those computerized cards, attendance time was cut in half as were other problems that consumed our administrators' time. The guidance offered and examples set by our administrators this past year were not only models for school, but also for life.

Strategy is one of the keys to a good card game. Coach Schack and Ann Glass discuss her next move.

Patrolling the halls, watching the cafeteria, and enforcing school board policies were only some of the responsibilities of the deans who managed our school. Mrs. Gwen Jenkins, and Mr. Chuck Keener had the very important job of trying to keep things running smoothly.

Mr. John Thomas was also a member of our distinguished deans, but was unfortunately transferred after Christmas break.

Another member of our staff, Mr. Charles Schack, took care of all special activities and sports. He held the title of Activities Director, and Sports Director. This was truly a hectic job well done by one man.

Working toward A Better Understanding

The Guidance Department made many changes during the past year that affected each individual.

After ten years on staff at Palm Bay, Mr. Douglas Shrewsbury left to become Curriculum Coordinator at Stone Middle School. Mrs. Donna Brennan moved to the senior counselor position while Mrs. Marilyn Buchanan stayed on in the junior spot. Mr. William Floyd left the ROTC program to fill the spot of sophomore counselor, and Mrs. Carolyn Clifford remained freshman counselor. Mrs. Dot Smiley, although not directly linked with one particular class scheduling and phasing, helped many find job placement in our community.

Working towards the sophomore class's senior year funds, Mr. Bill Floyd finishes all the paperwork that is necessary.

While making plans for second semester, Mrs. Marilyn Buchanan and David Sullivan make plans to assure a good schedule.

The Passing Grade

From preschool to college, teachers have paved the road of education for students. Teaching kids how to tie shoe laces and the letters of the alphabet eventually progressed into calculus and anatomy.

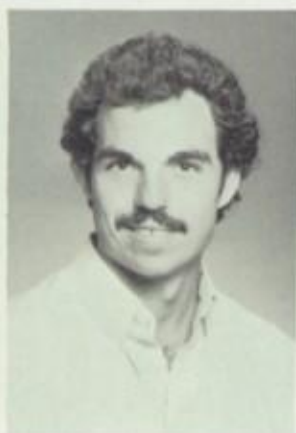

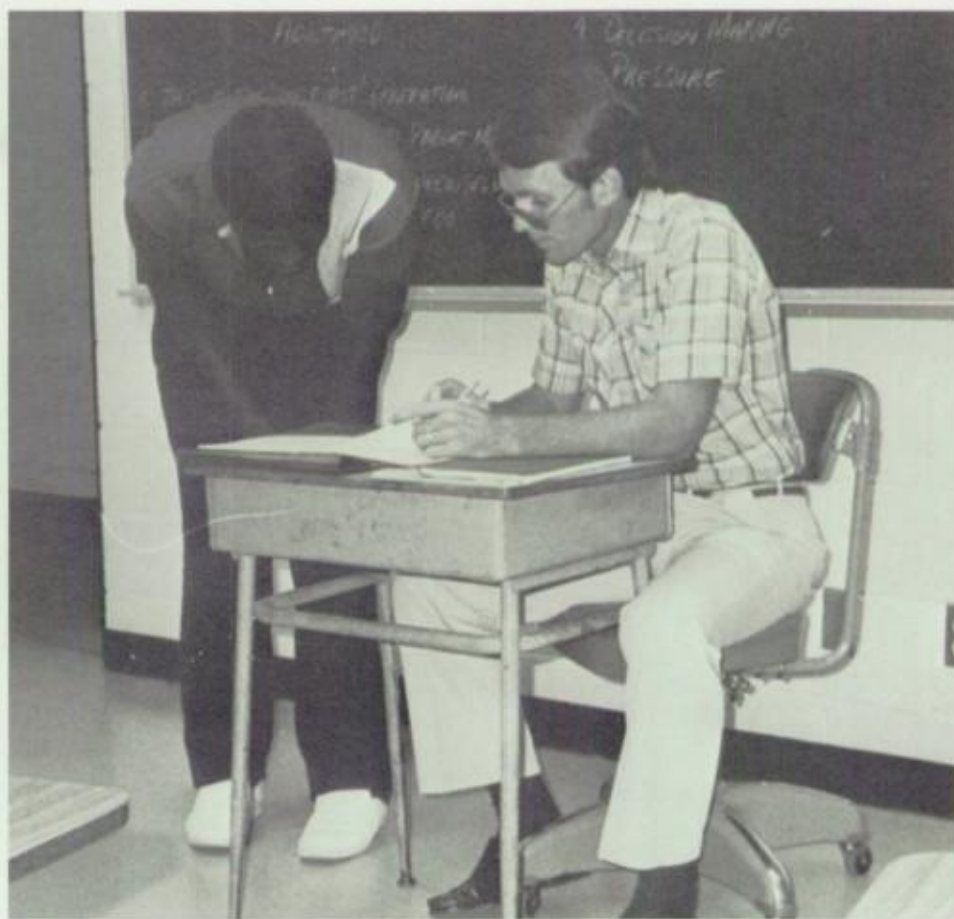

Education is not everything that the teachers did. Their out-of-school activities ranged from supervising a family to supervising lifeguards at a pool. They also coached sports and involved themselves in various school organizations.

Teachers earned their passing grade — plus some — every day of the week. Their job took them from early Monday morning — through late weekends.

On her yearly trip to U.C.F. for the F.S.P.A. yearbook workshop, Mrs. Reams and her daughter Pamela ask a passing officer for directions.

Wearing a T-shirt sold by Track/Cross Country, Mrs. Slaughter displays her school spirit.

Along with his coaching abilities, Coach Graham demonstrates his knowledge of Sociology.

The A-Team

Shooting the breeze, Michelle Goodman, Mrs. Jones and Coach Schack converse on everyday matters.

The "A team", a classy act of teachers, provides a policy of error and correction for students five days a week. Teaching their students to learn from their mistakes and how to avoid repeating them, is this team's speciality.

Members of the team have their own personal specialties that they practice out of school, without taking away class time. Mrs. Brandt sponsors Mu Alpha Theta, an organization for excelling math students. Tradewinds, a group of experienced and unique writers is sponsored by Mrs. Bruton.

Sgt. Gary Beyer: MC JROTC.
Mr. Ron Blenis: Business Math, Computer Math.
Mrs. Barbara Brandt: Algebra II, Geometry, Mu Theta Alpha.

Mrs. Susan Gramham: American History, Sponsor — Cross-Country, Track.

Keeping a watchful eye on all corners of the classroom, Coach Stewart leans back and answers a student's question.

That's Incredible

The teachers of this school have colorful pastimes. The "Mind Painters" relax in their own special ways.

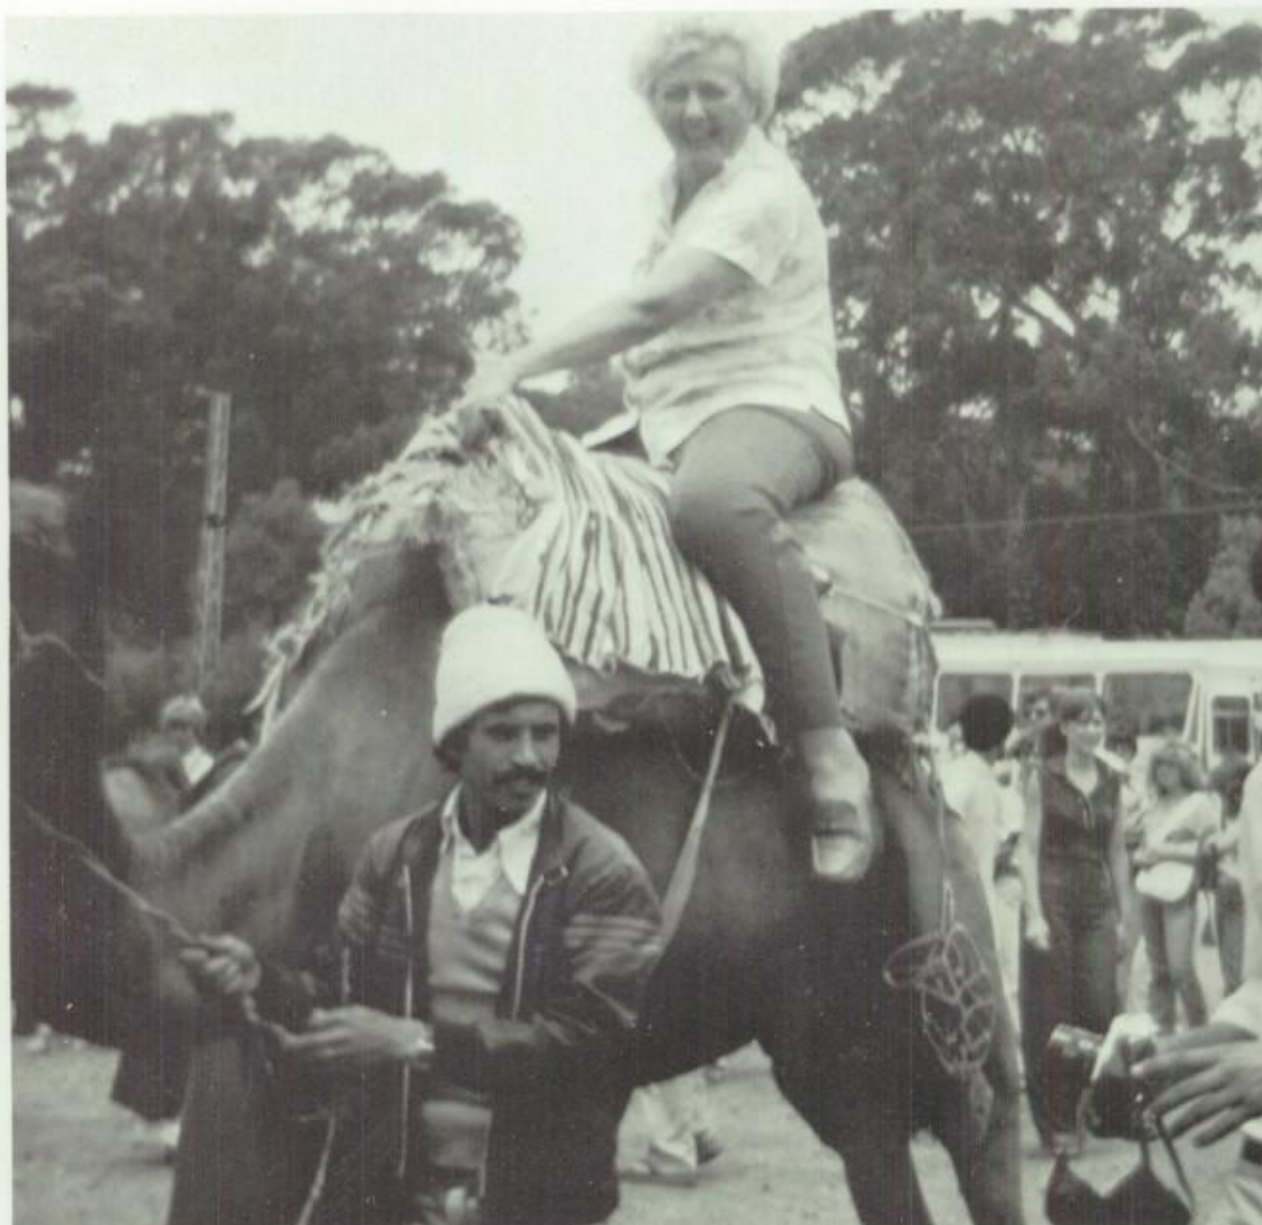

Mr. Bill McLeod spent his time off at the Wickham Park test range where he performed target practice.

Ms. Ardyth Heller volunteered her valuable time recording books for the blind. She was also a member of the First Methodist Church of Melbourne Choir. She has other interests as well; she worked as a soloist for the First Church of Christ Scientist.

Visiting Tangiers, Marocco in North Africa, Mrs. Margaret Harlan is not afraid as she shows her bravery by being the only one of her group to ride the camel.

Coaching the catcher, Miss Mickey Kloeppel attempts to guide Susan McGuire in the right direction.

Mrs. Darla Gray: Communications, Writing, Coach—J.V. Volleyball, Coach—J.V. Girls Basketball.

The Band Wagon of Education

The bandwagon of education travels from school to school picking up stray students. The wagon, as it travels, educates the students until they are ready to enter the sophisticated world.

The bandwagon makes various pit-stops. The teachers participate in different out-of-school activities. Mrs.

Barbara Paulillo continued her education as a doctoral student at Florida Institute of Technology. Mrs.

Linda Rapp supervised a play for children during the past summer, and Mr. Dave Pifer organized recreational youth activities at First United Methodist Church in Melbourne. Students and teachers alike ride on the bandwagon of education.

Mr. Dave Pifer: Conditioning & Fitness, Co-ed. P.E. Coach — Football, Wrestling.

Mr. Frank Poole: Physical Education, Health, Coach Football, Girl's Basketball.

Mrs. Linda Rapp: Writing I, Drama, Sponsor — Palm Bay Players, Thespian Society.

Mrs. Diann Reams: Comparative Political Systems, Publications.

Ms. Claudia Roberts: 9th Co-ed. P.E. Coach — V. Volleyball, V. Softball.

Mr. Bruce Steger: American Government Law Awareness, Sponsor — War Games Club.

Flaunting her skills as an ATC cyclist, Mrs. Flo Thomas expresses her Spanish heritage.

Airway of the Future

Teachers spent most of their time and patience flying the upcoming generation through the airway of the future. Because the teachers were so consumed in the school's happenings, one would have thought they wouldn't have had enough time for a family life. Most teachers would surprise you.

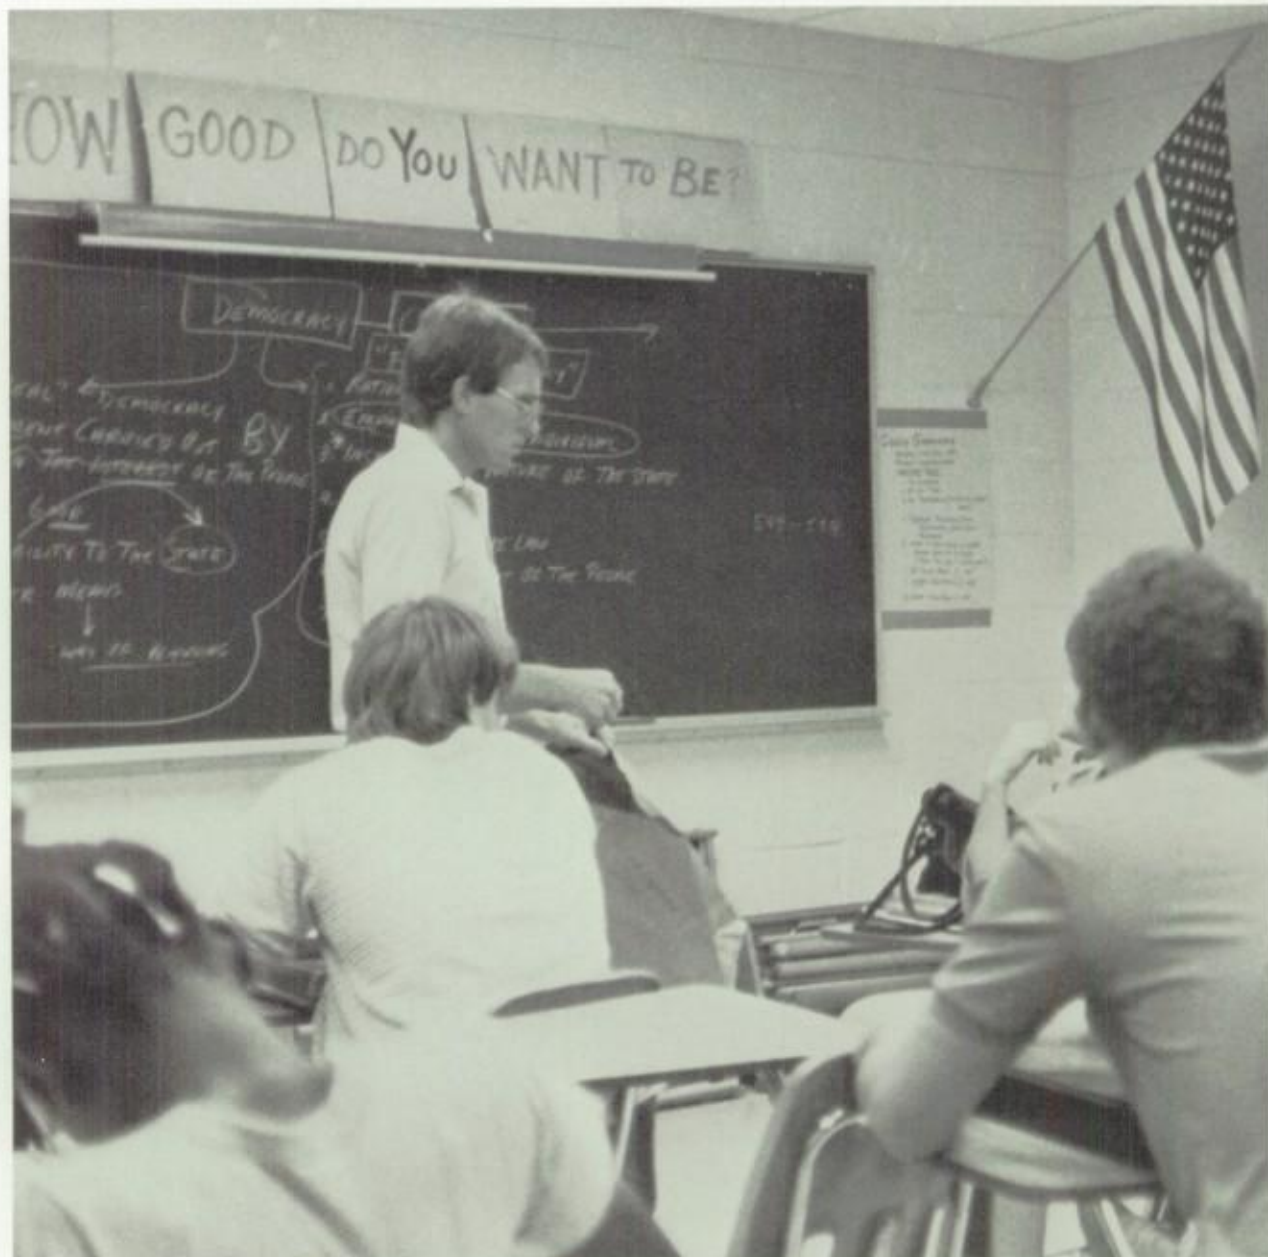

Mrs. Elnora Willis raised a boy and a girl outside of her classroom hours. Mr.

Artie Ulmer also carried on a family circle with two daughters and a son. Mr. Bill Stewart raised two boys and coaches the elder son in wrestling. Mrs. Flo

Thomas raised two girls, one of which was a senior at this school.

Other teachers besides the above mentioned, were also mothers and fathers that raised children ages pre-school to college. Busy at home or busy at school, teachers are forever moving around.

Describing the facts of a Democratic government, Mr. Jim Graham lectures to his C.P.S. class.

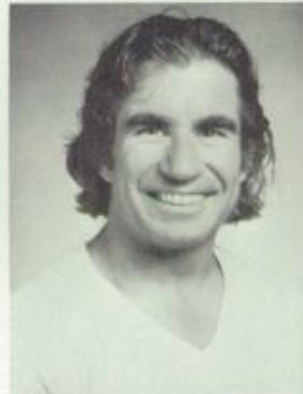

Mrs. Judith Steger: Reading Lab, Speed Reading, American Literature.

Mr. Bill Stewart: Basic Intervention Center, Coach—V. Wrestling, Coach—Boy's Golf.

Mrs. Flora Thomas: Spanish I, II, III, IV & V, Sponsor—Spanish Club.

Mrs. Joyce Thomas: American Literature, Sponsor—Beta Club. Sponsor—J.V. Cheerleaders.

Mr. Larry Trent: Driver Education, Coach—J.V. Baseball.

Mr. John Tuttle: Conditioning & Fitness, Coach—V. Football, Coach—V. Baseball.

Mr. Artie Ulmer: Job Entry, Coach—V. Football.

Mrs. Elissa Viglianco: French I, II, III & IV, Sponsor—French Club.

Mr. Tom Ward: M.C.J.R.O.T.C., Coach—9th Football.

Mrs. Susan Wells: Latin I & II, French I, Spanish I, Sponsor—Latin Club.

Mrs. Elnora Willis: Biology I, Sponsor—Junior Class.

Mrs. Mary Yates: Writing I, American Literature, Sponsor—V. Cheerleaders.

Behind The Scene

Any organization is unable to function without those who work behind the scenes.

Countless vital tasks were performed by the secretaries, bookkeeper, janitorial staff, and cafeteria staff.

At the change of the semesters a new computerized attendance system was introduced. Members of the front office support staff, as well as the attendance support staff spent hours mastering this system, to ensure that the new system would function properly.

Mrs. Judy Davis
Mrs. Beverly Douglas
Mrs. Garnet Howell
Mrs. Judy Kidd

Mrs. Mauvelene Pyron
Mrs. June Rayburn
Mrs. Dot Smiley
Mrs. Beverly Vitaliano

The 1983-84 cafeteria staff consisted of: Top Row: Alice Allred, Lula Watson, Ann M. Johnson, Jean Kayse, Grace Courson, Zell Brewton, Audry Dickenson, Anita Lenti, Lita Myers, Millie Kitzman; Bottom Row: Marie Rubel, Shirley Maye, Helen Higginbotham, Juanito Mechling, Rith Kuntz.

The Janitors worked hard to keep the school grounds clean and respectable. Head Janitor Ronnie Schlemm, Jettie Mitchell and J.C. Thompson kept the school in working order.

A Fresh Start

The largest class ever to attend Palm Bay High School is that of the freshmen. Five hundred twenty-five students makes them an outgoing, energetic class ready to take on high school.

"Big Man on Campus," Jeff Oishi stands four feet high, has brown hair and eyes, and is a member of the freshman class. This title was won by an overall 2,000 vote count.

Another example of these ambitious freshmen was their football team. This year four out of six games were won, a first in the history of the ninth graders here at PBHS.

Only a few of the outstanding members of this group have been mentioned, but they have a few more years to catch up with and surpass the "upper" classmen.

Pride Inside

Being far from the bottom of the "underclassmen" ladder, but not quite at the top, stood the sophomores.

This was the year high school life started in earnest. No longer worried about being harassed, the sophomores began shaping up their act.

Certain students, such as Damon Phillips, showed their leadership qualities. Damon held the distinction of serving as president of his class for two succeeding years. Under the guidance of their sponsor, Mrs. Patricia Shelton, and the other class officers David Boyle (Vice-President), Michelle Morissette (Secretary), and Colleen Klecz (Treasurer), money was raised to help defray the costs of future senior activities. Through candy sales and supplying candy-grams, the profits of the class treasury mounted. Star athletes began popping up during the year. Ronald Scott followed the family tradition of boxing. Chris Cimino began a new tradition in Judo.

Brad Stewart competed all summer for the wrestling titles he had held during the year, and Steve Gates was second only to Pat Stephens as quarterback. These were just a few of the sophomores the class of '86 felt proud to advertise as the "cream of the crop".

The class of '86 pulled themselves up from being freshmen to being half-way there, not a difficult accomplishment for this group, but quite a task for most.

Let's Advertise The Junior Class

A big step toward respectability is taken when one becomes a junior. The days of being stepped on by upperclassmen are gone. Now are the days of school involvement, hectic schedules, studying and all the fun that goes with it.

Future leaders in the junior class are making their moves to be noticed. We have stood up for our rights and have begun to create our own situations and solve our own problems together.

The Class of 1985 is on the move. With a school account greater than any other in history, we prepare for our senior year looking forward to our last year of high school with plans for a spectacular finish.

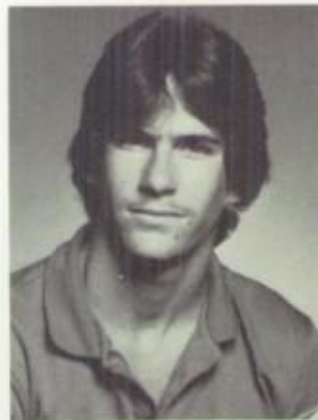

After performing in the Chorus' Fall Concert, Lisa Robinson receives congratulations for a job well done.

Let's Advertise The Junior Class

Working hard toward goals in 1984, the Class of '85 officers strove to accomplish all their plans. Fundraisers, including candy sales and carwashes, kept our officers busy during the course of the past year. Many thanks should go out to our officers, their leadership has given us the base we needed for a very productive and profitable junior year.

Junior Class President Valerie Gooding discusses fund-raising plans with class sponsor Mrs. Willis in style in the plush surroundings of Diann Reams' custom van.

Working with pride on the Junior Float entered in the Homecoming Parade, Junior Class Vice-President Bobby Spychalsky exhibits the fruits of hard labor.

Involved in both ROTC and his class, Treasurer Dwayne Miller shows that he can rank among the best in both categories.

Beauty and brains qualifies Sonji James as best candidate for secretary of the Junior Class.

If Junior ICC Representative Janet Cymbalak was as tough on the court as she is fighting for her fellow class members in meetings, volleyball fans would receive quite a show.

After meeting with fellow officers, Ana Aquiar prepares to move out to pick up supplies needed for their next fund-raiser.

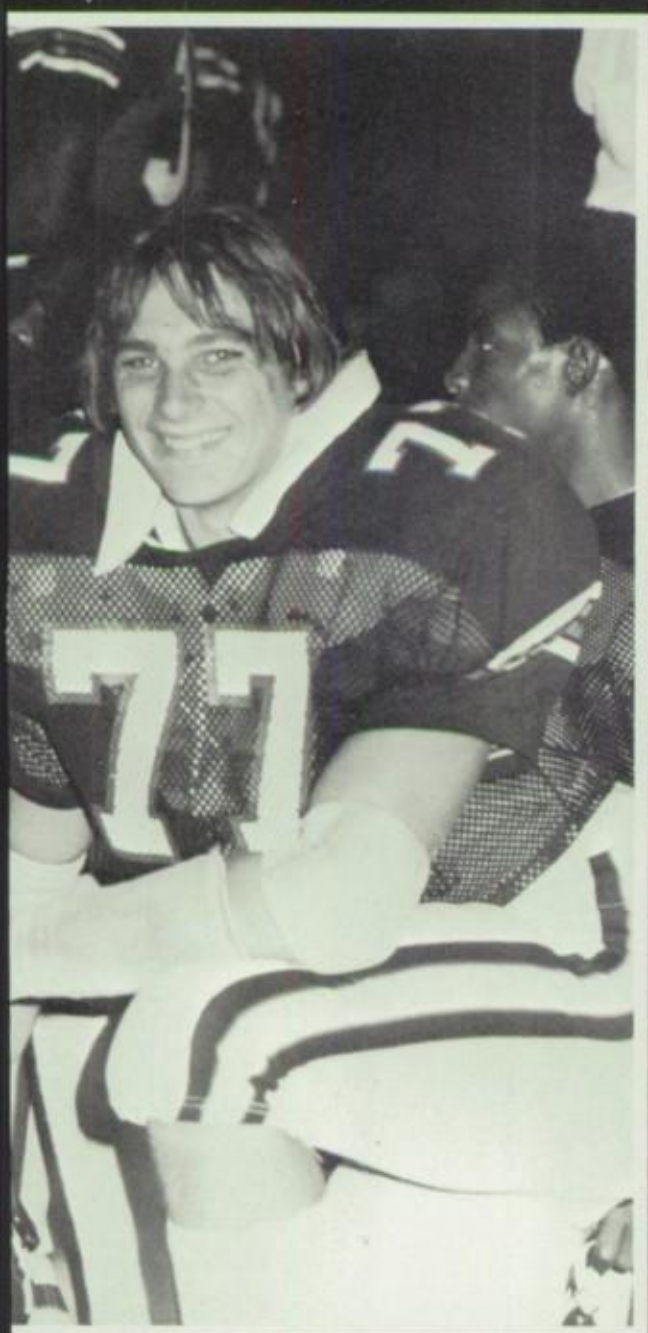

Supporters of a Worthy Cause

The Royal Fortune staff would like to thank each patron for their contribution which helped to defray the cost of the 1983-84 yearbook.

Showing the spectators he's got the beat, Goode Wyche keeps the band in step.

Taking time out from the game, Tom Maxwell flashes his crowd-pleasing smile.

Physical fitness is an important attribute in the military. Nina Norberg, Cassandra Rivoli, Kim Steinberg, Julie Baker, Karen Batten, and Robbie Haines strengthen their push up skills. Dress-up day provides the opportunity for the girls to live their fantasy.

Community Partnership

The character of a community reflects the sum of many parts. Tangible elements, such as location, climate and services, are important ingredients. But distinctiveness of character comes from the people of a community.

Brevard is rich in this distinction — rich in the spirit, warmth and community pride of its people. Harris is proud to be a member of this community partnership. In addition to providing job opportunities and a substantial tax base, Harris is working with the people of Brevard to preserve and enhance the natural beauty of our environment, to provide improved services, and to encourage the cultural life of our community.

Working together, Harris and Brevard form a powerful partnership for the continuing enrichment of our community.

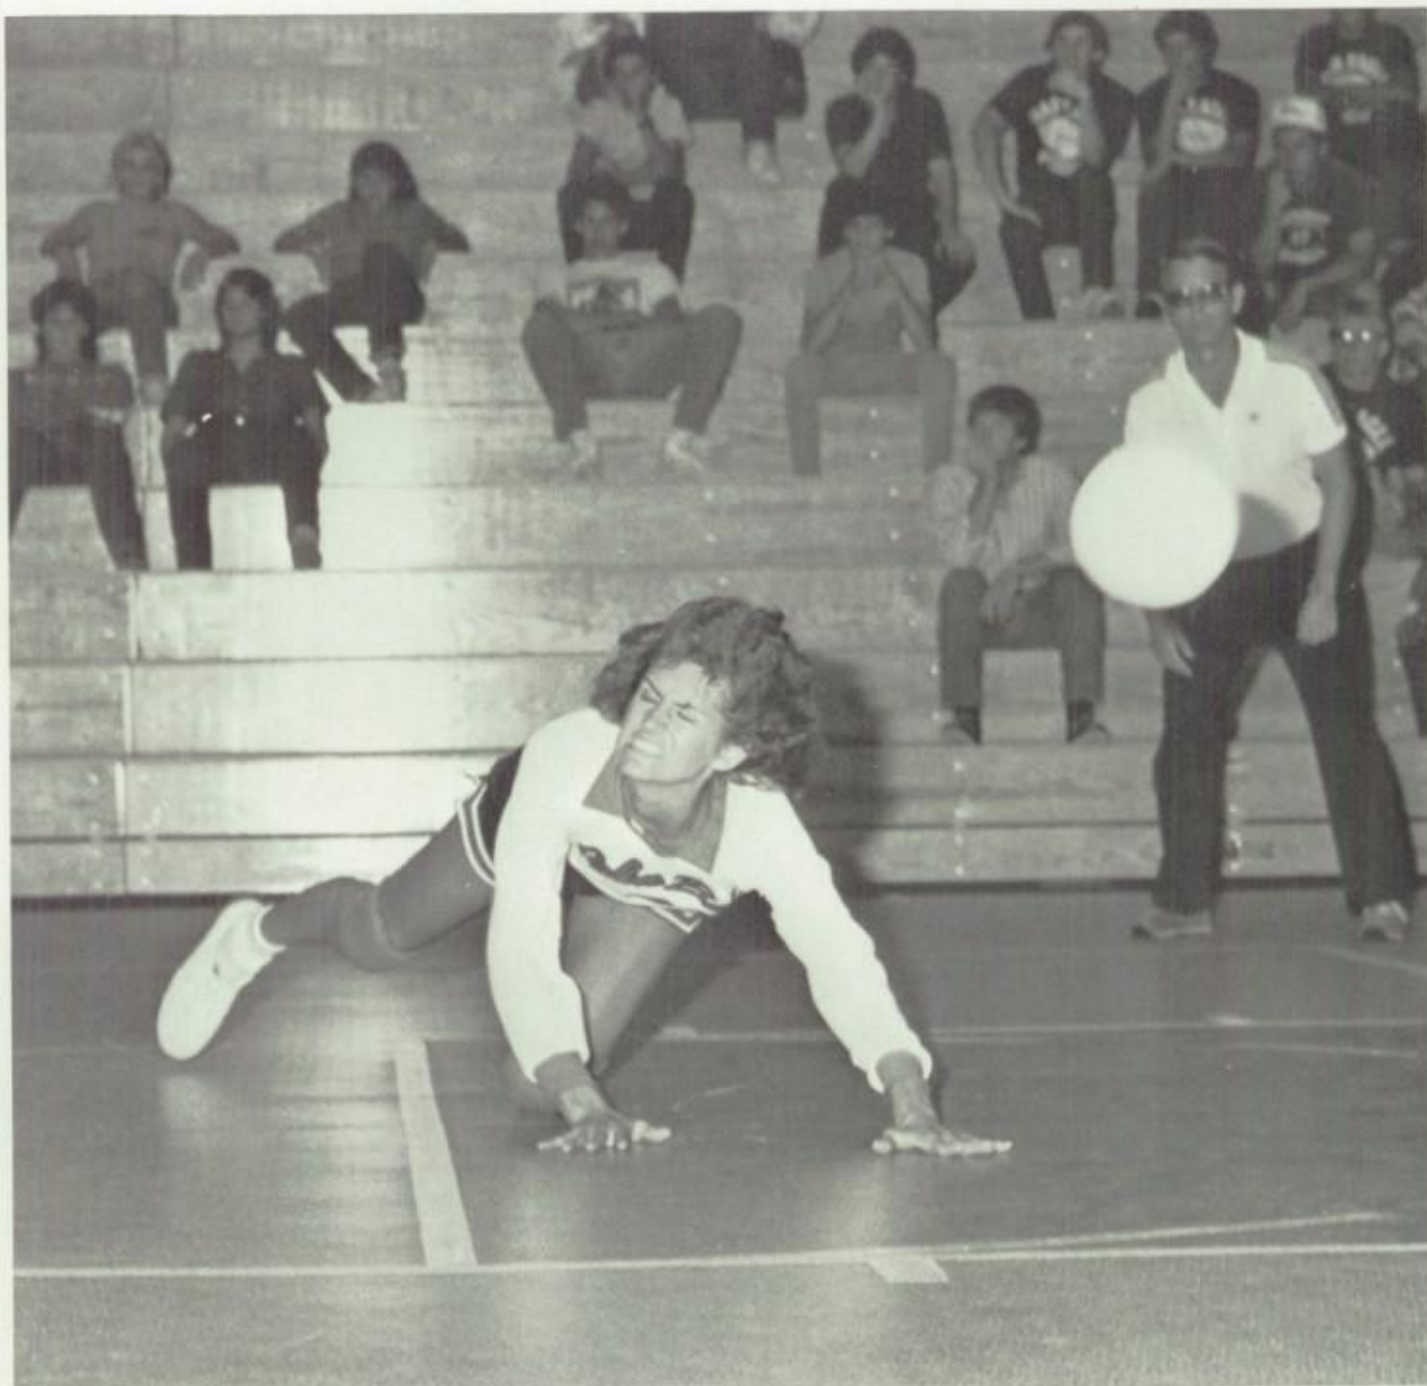

One Step Ahead

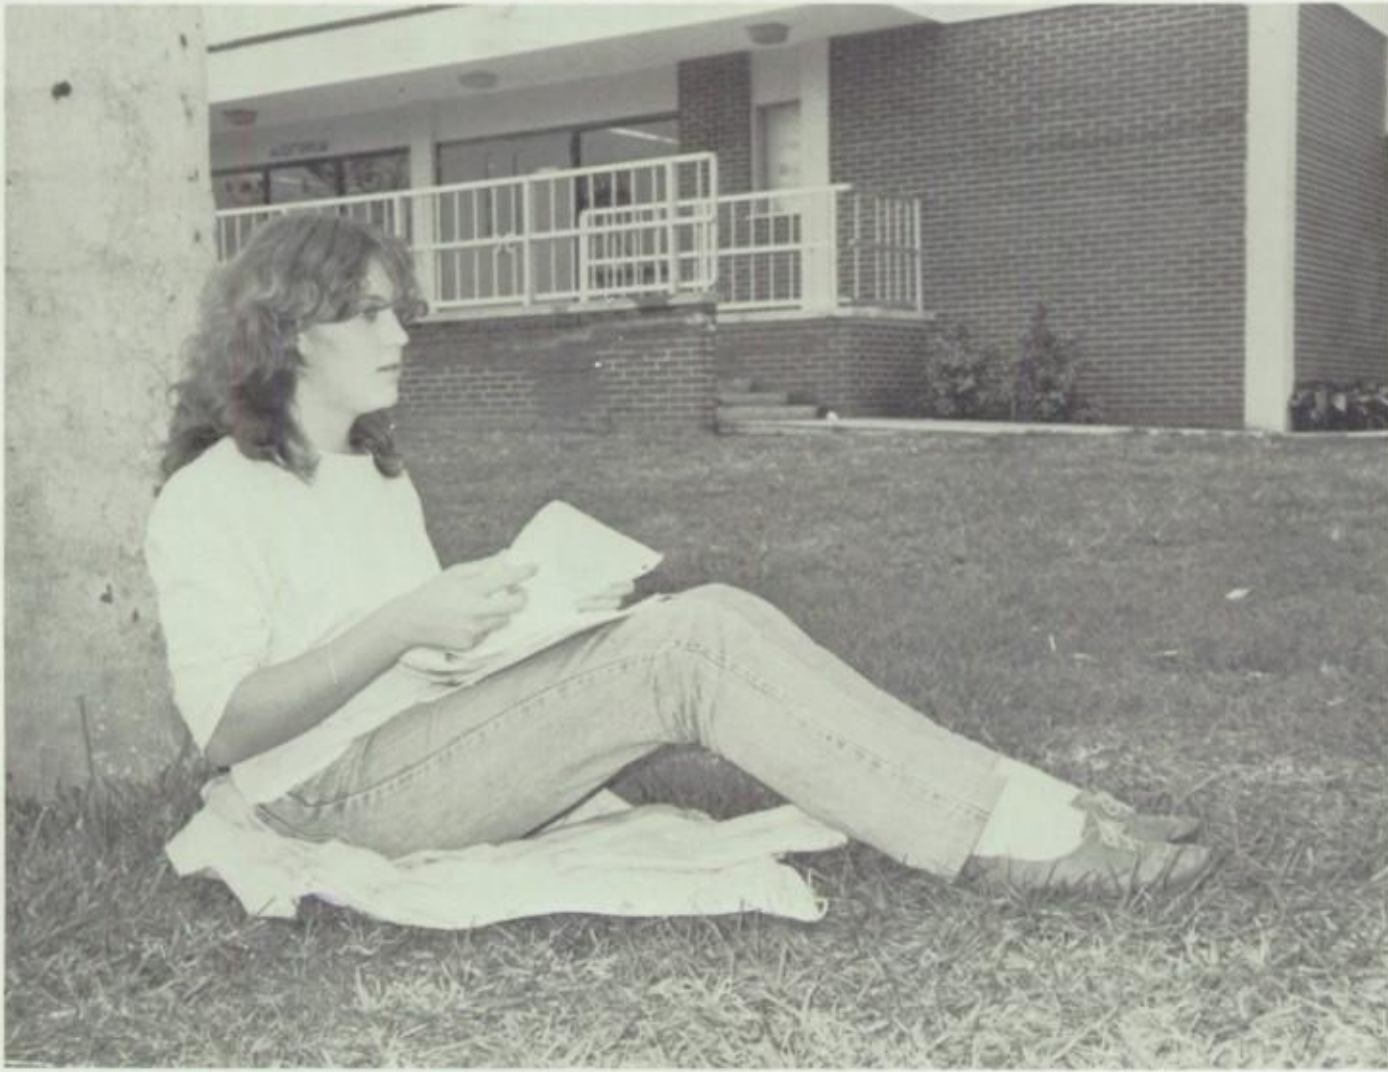

Many of our students were involved not only scholastically in our school system, but they were also athletically involved. They participated in Community activities, and made our clubs and organizations special parts of their high school years.

Usually a girl who is the most valuable, varsity volleyball player, and a varsity softball player, would not be expected to be the senior Homecoming Princess. Linda Borie shows her stuff on the court as Captain of our varsity volleyball team.

Playing varsity football is a great accomplishment in high school for Dan Zychowski, but also being President of the National Honor Society makes this twice as impressive.

After exhibiting athletic abilities in softball, and achieving a Varsity spot in her sophomore year, Robin Moore moves on in her senior year to represent HOSA as president of the state organization.

Being away from home for an entire year is an ordeal in itself, but one of our Swedish foreign exchange students, Eva Rydegram, makes the very best of her senior year in America.

Being a major support in both our symphonic and marching band for all four of her years at Palm Bay, Helga Fuenthousen also participates in activities such as Speech Club, and Brain Bowl.

Working in many outside activities, and school sponsored ones, Varsity Cheerleader Kim Steinberg astride her Palomino, Blazer, competes in a trail riders horse show.

Being selected the only male senior to be elected on the Cape Coast Boys' Cross Country Team, Carl Christman proved his abilities as Captain of Cross Country here at home.

A Driving Force In '84

The Class of '84 was filled with the minds that will lead our world in the future. Students excelled in the areas of math, science and school pride.

School pride was demonstrated during the annual senior magazine sale. The Class of '84 topped $14,000 during the week long sale. This figure represented the highest total sold by a senior class.

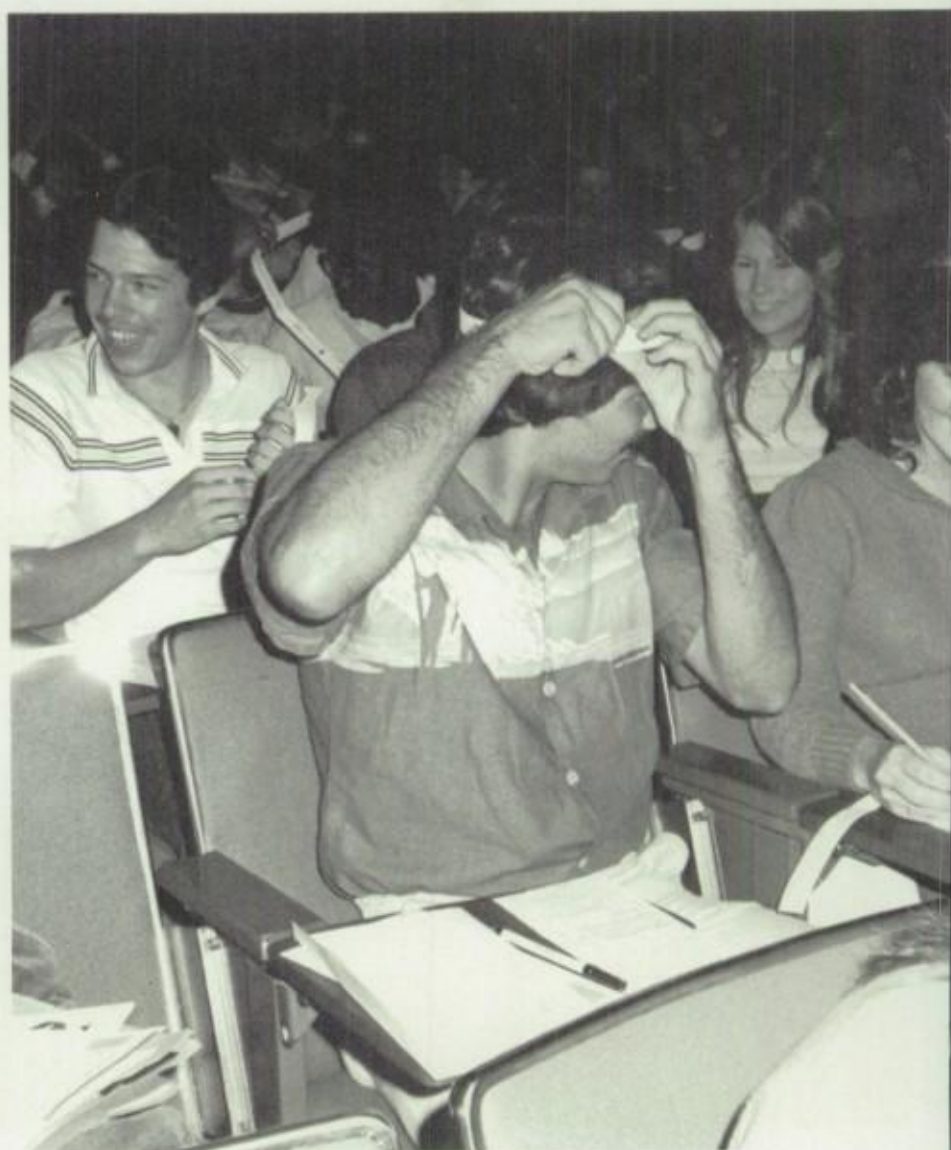

As the class of '84 began their last year, they witnessed fighting throughout the world. Countless military personnel were called to fight in Beirut and Grenada. Members of the Class of '84 watched their friends and relatives leave for battle. Many anxiously waited, some with fear and some with anticipation for the time when they would be called forth to defend their country.

The members of the Class of '84 accepted each loss with grace and proudly stood to receive their many awards. Their hard work and dedication left no doubt as to their future. The members of the Class of 1984 are destined to remain forever in the spotlight.

Taking a break from the long hours class officers must put in, Jenny Sego, Brad Hinchman, Renee Clary, Kim Steinberg, and Cheryl Davis enjoy a minute of camaraderie.

Throughout all the hard work, the officers of the Class of '84 remained fast friends. The officers were Vice-President Renee Clary, Treasurer Kim Steinberg, President Brad Hinchman, Secretary Cheryl Davis, and Public Relations Jenny Sego.

Measuring for a cap to be worn at graduation is an important task for any senior. Ryan Cagle asks Betty Whedbee to assist him in reading his measurement.

'84 - ALWAYS IN THE SPOTLIGHT

SENIORS NOT PICTURED

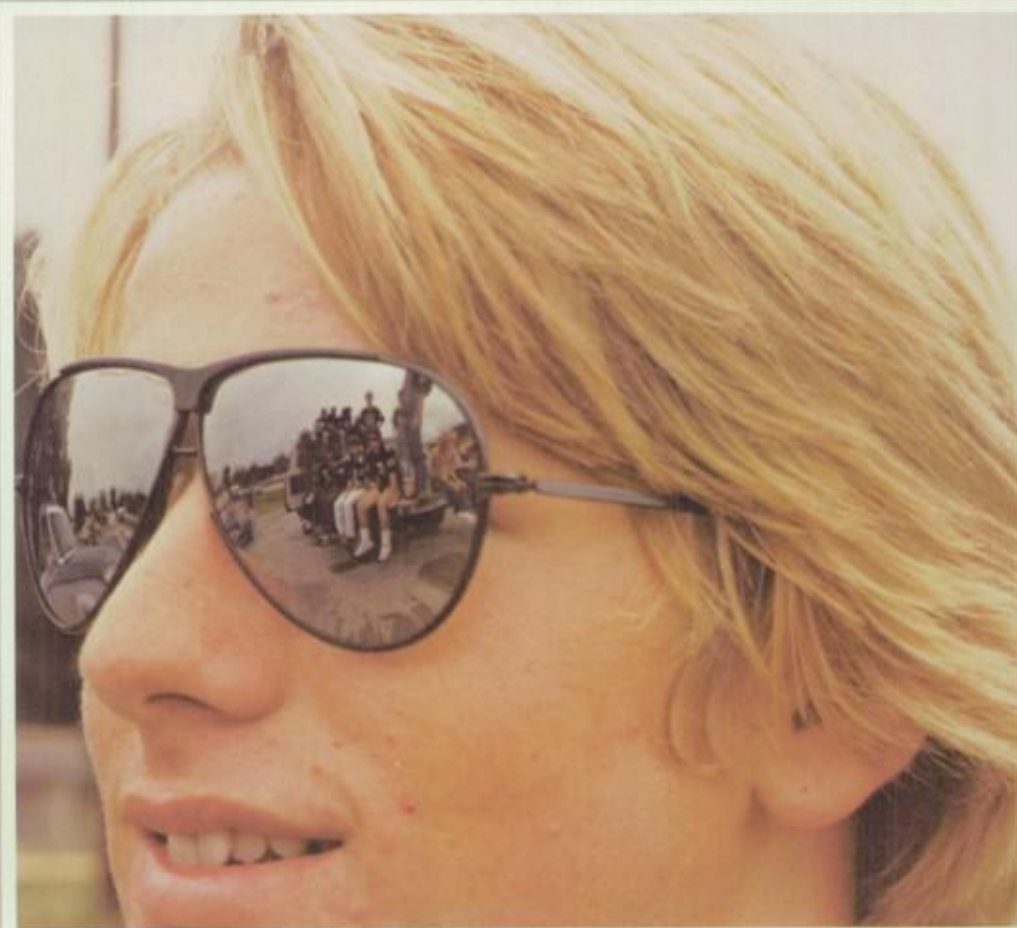

You have met the class of '84 and have seen through their accomplishments what potential they have. Each student possesses something that makes him/her worth "advertising," whether it be their awards or their ambition. The members of this class will be talked about within the community and the school for many years to come. Some will be in the spotlight of the entire nation and some will be in the spotlight of their friends and relatives. But the class of '84 will be in the spotlight.

Senior Princess, Linda Borie, rides in the homecoming parade as a candidate, she was to win her title the following evening.

A unique sight is afforded to those who attend the Homecoming Parade, they can witness the mighty Pirate team through the eyes of Jim Huff.

Throughout the school year the sport's program offered many talented students a chance to exhibit their skills. As we tour our sports year, we will learn of students who earned space coast as well as state wide recognition.

Another vital part of the sport's program will be recognized, the average team player. These are the students who attended each practice and gave 110% of themselves, they may not have individual honors, but they know that they were a vital part of a special team.

The Cross Country Team brought statewide recognition to the school when the girls placed fifth in the state and the boys placed eleventh.

The third leg of your tour is now set to begin. Come witness what talent, pride and courage the Pirates possessed.

Attempting to dash through Astronaut's offensive line for another touchdown, Chandler Edwards forges ahead.

Although Sally Means made a late start off the block, she applied her skills to the best of her ability in the meet against Titusville.

Missing a chance to gain a point can be a frustrating experience. Janet Cymbalak shows her aggravation while Jessica Taylor hurries to escape it.

Hoping to gain a decisive victory, Cathy Williams and Angie Kelly return the ball with great force to the awaiting Merritt Island Team.

Half-way through the race, the effects of heat and anxiety have taken their toll on Varsity Cross Country runner Carl Christman.

Football is a hard game that requires a lot of dedication and hard work, but team members George Moore, Scott Young, Jerry Butler, Billy Barnhill, Todd Young, Chris Baler, Sean Roberts, Mark Scott, Scott Hipsky, Kevin Mack and Pat Stevens know how to clown around. A little encouragement is provided by Diane Morelli.

As she rounds the curve to the finish line, Laura Reed pours on the steam to prevent the Titusville runner from gaining a few precious feet.

A year of upsets — and a year of disappointment was a good way to describe the 1984 varsity football season. What looked like the start of a bad season changed in the third game against Southfork.

A great team effort in the second half enabled the Pirates to come from behind to beat the previously undefeated Southfork.

The defense, playing against an all-American running back, played well the entire game and insured victory in the last minute with a goalline stand.

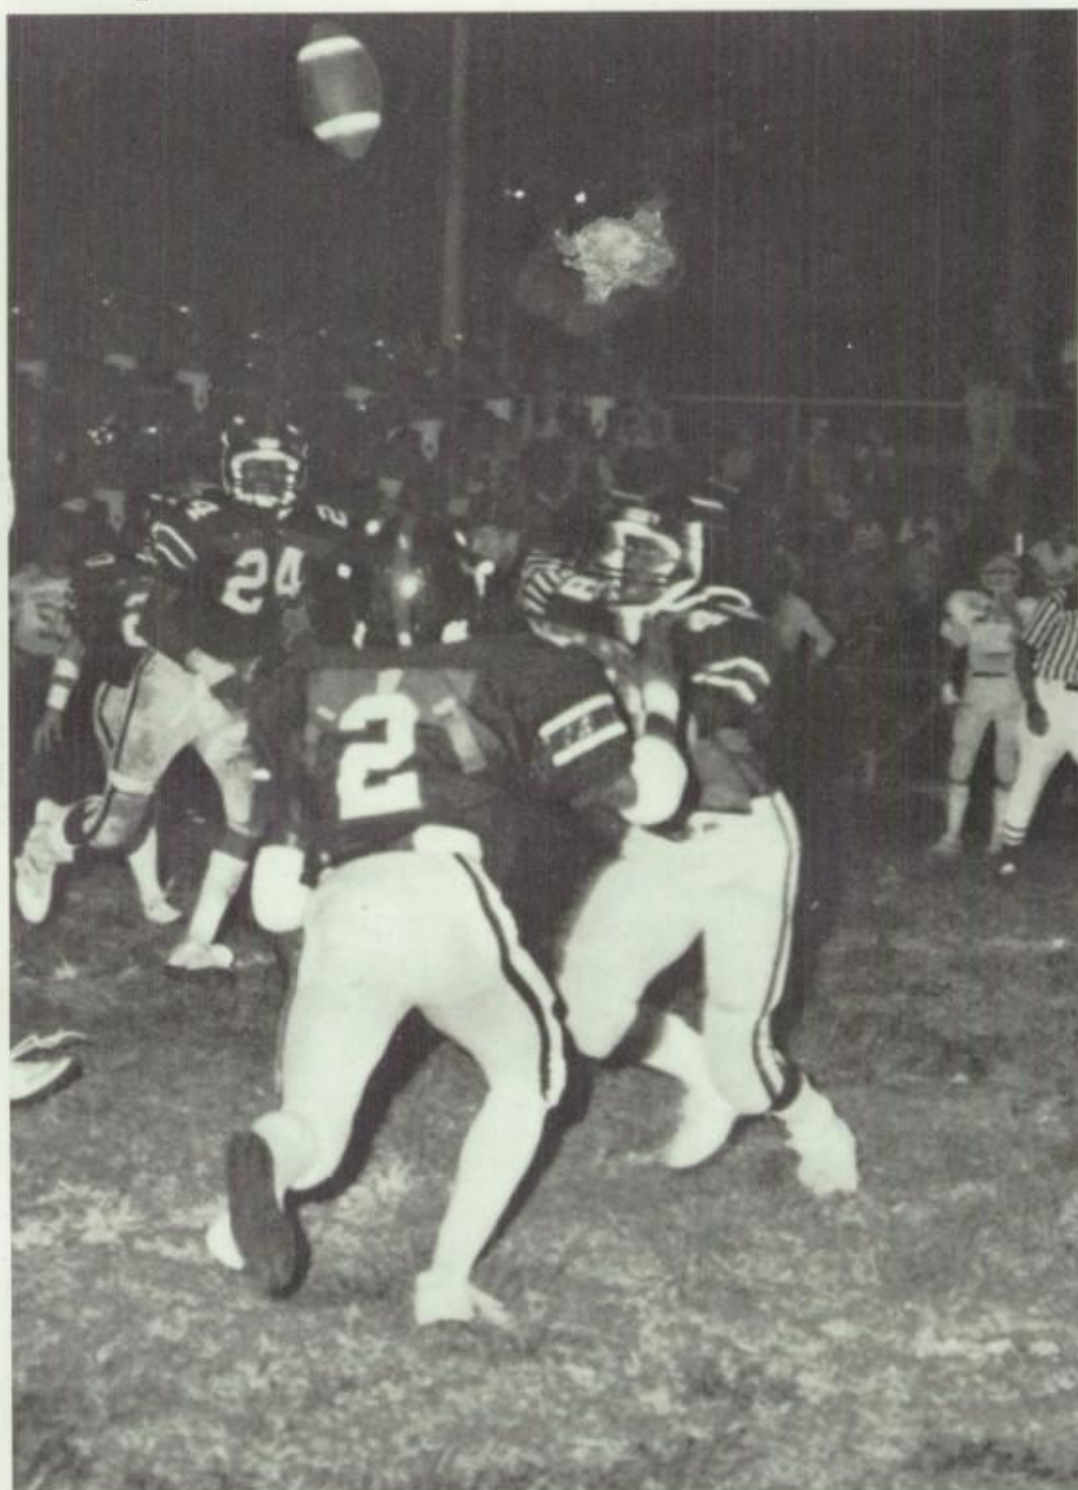

For the fifth year in a row, the Pirates rallied to beat the Commodores. The offense, led by Pat Stephens and Freeman Walker, scored two touchdowns. The defense, led by Alvin Payne, shut down Eau Gallie completely.

After three quarters of a scoreless, and tough defensive game against Astronaut, Cedric Chance turned a fumble-recovery into a touchdown run.

Pat Stephens followed closely behind with an interception and a runback for a touchdown. Roger Dixon scored the final touchdown to put a score of 28-0 on the board to beat the Astronaut War Eagles at our Homecoming Game.

Keeping his eye on the ball Terry Butler (#2) concentrated on making the pass complete.

Finding a hole was quite a task, but with blocking from (#75) Mark Scott, (#33) George Moore had no trouble.

In hopes of putting 6 points on the score board for Palm Bay, (#48) Cedric Chance ran to find the goalline.

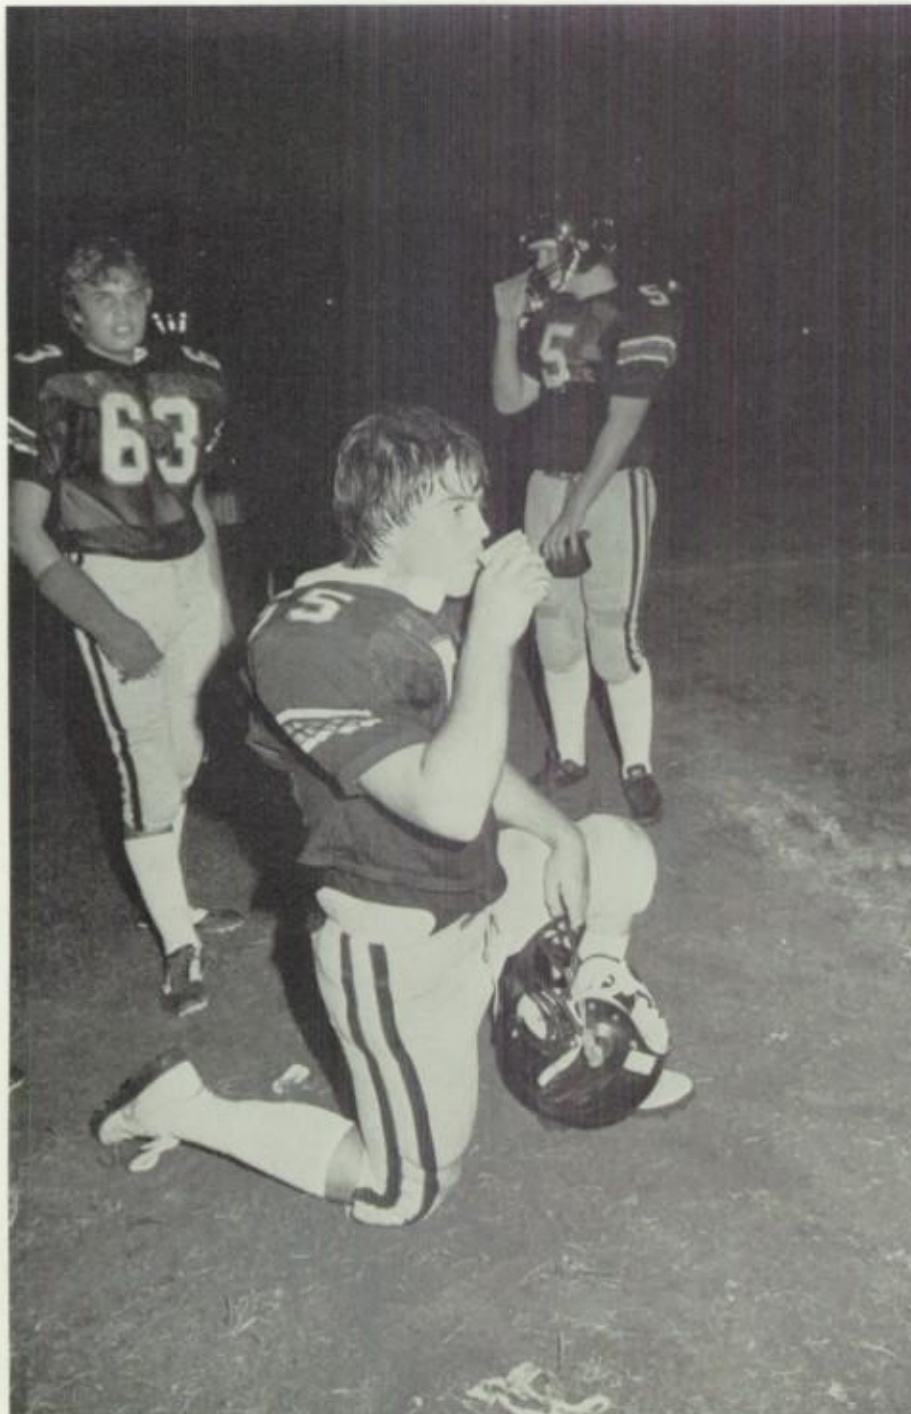

(#45) Alvin Payne found some room and headed for the endzone.

... And Disappointment

In between the Astronaut and Mel-High games, came the disappointment. Losing three games — Titusville, Satellite, and Cocoa — the team was fired up and ready to beat Melbourne, as in previous years.

The Pirates beat Melbourne, with a score of 17-3, for the seventh time in seven years. This gave Palm Bay one installment on the new Grant Community Trophy. Hopefully, a third trophy will be the team's prideful possession.

At the end of the season, the football players attended an Awards' banquet at Duff's.

Taking a break from the action, (#55) Billy Barnhill quenches his thirst on the sideline.

Two steps ahead of the opposing team, (#21) Mike Wright has the ball within his reach.

Attempting to make a flighty rescue, (#2) Jerry Butler jumps to meet the ball.

Flipping the coin to decide who will kick-off, and who will receive, captains (#44) Roger Dixon and (#45) Alvin Payne wait patiently for the coin to drop.
Preparing to hand-off the ball to a teammate, (#12) Pat Stephens waits for the receiver.

Junior Varsity football is a stepping stone between Freshmen and Varsity football. Showing that they were a team, on and off the field, they showed their pirate pride wherever they went. The knowledge and techniques learned this year, will be a great asset for those who go on to play Varsity football next season. Outstanding players on the team were Robert Farrell, Brad Stewart, James Jordan, and Darren Taylor. These players gave 110% of themselves, helping to synchronize the team. As a stepping stone to the Varsity team, the J.V. team has many good skills.

Preparing to block, the defensive line got set for the snap. Elated over their victory, (#7) Brad Stewart shows his pride.

The past year was a very successful year for the 1983 Varsity Volleyball Team. With an even record of 13 and 13, the squad fulfilled their ambitions with a .500 average season.

Placing third out of 12 teams in the first annual tournament sponsored by Palm Bay, they proved to others that Varsity Volleyball was on the rise. They also placed fourth out of 12 teams in the Lake Sumter Tournament.

Celebrated player Linda Borie was selected as the Most Valuable Player and was also a member of the All Cape Coast Conference Team. Lounette Quinn strove to improve throughout the season and developed her talents to surpass her own goals; through these efforts she was named The Most Improved Player.

Although state and conference titles were not captured, the past season was one to be proud of and remembered.

Blocking the ball from the War Eagles, Jennifer Roberts gains the point.

Getting the ball over the net looks like a pretty easy job, but Darlene Johnson makes it look like real work as she attempts to hit the ball over the net.

Starting out the year inexperienced and unsure of their actions, the girls' J.V. Volleyball team plunged into the season with much vigor and vitality. The girls' record of 5-11 proved they had shaped up as the season progressed. With their newfound skills most of these girls will be able to pull their weight again next year when they make their upward movement to the varsity team.

Concentration and ability are two key elements of a successful volleyball game. Angie Kelley, (#17) stretches her skills toward a victory.

Teamwork is an important part of any sport. Deanna Cymbalak, (#1) sets up the ball for one of her teammates to return to the opponent.

Adding a new twist to the game, Pacharee Swirswan, (#18) returns the ball with great intensity.

This has been a year of firsts for the Palm Bay "Black Pack" Cross-Country team. During the year the boys' varsity team made it to State competition, coaches Jim Graham, and Craig Munger were voted coaches of the year by the Today Newspaper, and two boy runners were selected for the All-Space Coast Cross-Country Team.

Carl Christman and Darin Miller were voted 3rd and 9th places respectively on the prestigious team.

Under what most coaches call "perfect conditions"—72 degrees and very little wind—the team put everything on the line, and it paid off. The Pirates did qualify for State, placing fourth at regionals with five points to spare. After the meet, Coach Jim Graham called his team's effort "The proudest moment of my coaching career."

The following week at Deland, for the State meet, the "Black Pack" places 11th in the 3A race, making them the first State finalists from Palm Bay High School.

Running for the Pirates at State were: Seniors—Carl Christman, Rob Dillard, Nick Evangelo, and Paul Michels.

Juniors—Darin Miller; Sophomore—Jeff Beard; and Freshman—Trent Smith. Alternates were Zuri Pinder, Todd Prentice, Eric Hoffman, Wade Arnold, and Mike Defour.

These fine runners are definitely looking forward to next year's season.

At the Cape Coast Conference meet, Carl Christman runs to a third place finish to pull the Pirates up to second place.

Pacing each other, Seniors Rob Dillard and Nick Evangelo run to well-placed finished at the 3-A District meet, in Titusville.

The 1983 season was the best year for the Girls' Cross Country Team. They developed from a non-threatening team to a highly respected and well-ranked squad of young ladies.

"The Black Pack" conquered South County Championship beating seven of their rival teams. At the Cape Coast Conference Meet, Palm Bay Runners finished third out of eleven teams present.

The following week the "Black Pack" traveled to the 3A District Meet and qualified for Regionals with an outstanding third place.

At the 3A Regional Meet the girls advanced for the second consecutive year to the State Meet. They brought home a second-place trophy to add to their increasing laurels of victory.

The next week at Deland, the State Meet, the Pirates established a strong sixth place missing fifth by one point.

Although five of the top runners are graduating, the Pirates will come back next year with a strong team.

Showing signs of exhaustion, Katie Redmond puts forth her final effort as she dashes to the finish line.

Senior Dawn Botzong surges by the War Eagle contender placing in the top fifteen at the 3A District Meet.

Rising up to new heights, the Freshmen Basketball Team strove to achieve their high goals in the past season. Under the leadership of Coach

Allgeyer, they ended their season with a good record. Eddie Cooper, Chandler Edwards, Nelson

Gallagher, and Rob Hundt were named most valuable players for their skills and their spirit on and off the court.

Outjumping his opponent is not a rare thing for Chandler Edwards as he demonstrates in the game against Cocoa Beach.

Jumping to new heights, Corey Rutland hopes to add two points to the score.

Passing, dribbling and bouncing through their hot season, the Girl's Varsity Basketball team left their mark on the scoreboards. Showing great team effort the girls combined their strengths and weaknesses to make their season a dynamite one.

Practicing their jump shots, foul shouts and lay-ups really paid off for the girls. Each shot moved the players around the key. Making every basket a symbol of perfection. The girls remained at the "Top of the Key".

Gaining control of the ball, (#24) Tarralyn Callins dribbles down the court.

In hopes of making a basket and putting two more points on the board for Palm Bay, (#13) Darlene Johnson outsmarts her defender.

It's not easy to be a success, but the Girls' JV Basketball team rose above their expectations with a 11-2 record this past season. To achieve this goal, hard hours of practice were put in by all involved.

Under the training of new, Coach Darla Gray, the girls won game after game and were rated as one of the best teams in the country.

Outstanding players such as Maria Domingo, Aquanda Bell, and Ann Singleton were part of the driving factor of the team. At the end of their season they had passed the grade and proved the quality of their skills.

The jump shot at the beginning of the game proves successful for Ann Singleton (#22) as she beats the Melbourne players to the ball.

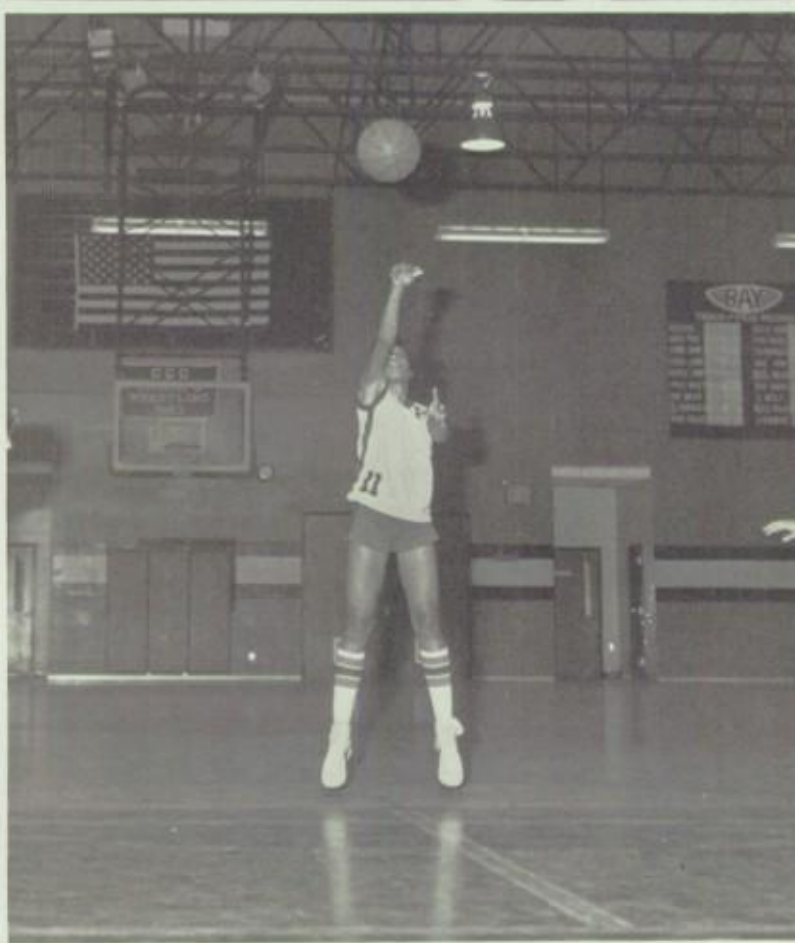

During a time out, Coach Darla Gray gives her players introductions to win the game.

Christine Cimino became the outstanding swimmer this year by her skill in her mastered events. Sweden's exchange student, Eva Rydegran, showed that hard work paid off by improving her time during each meet. Freshmen

Bonnie Kish and Bower Garrett worked hard towards a great season. Having challenged their goals to the fullest extent, the swimming pirates' season came to an end.

Down for the pin is what most wrestlers want to hear. Most of Palm Bays Wrestlers did hear it, not just once, but many times. Wrestlers like Brad Stewart, Kevin Mack, and Jim Huff were some of the few chosen as Cape Coast Conference Wrestlers. Mike Jenkins and Shawn Smith were chosen most valuable players for the J.V. team.

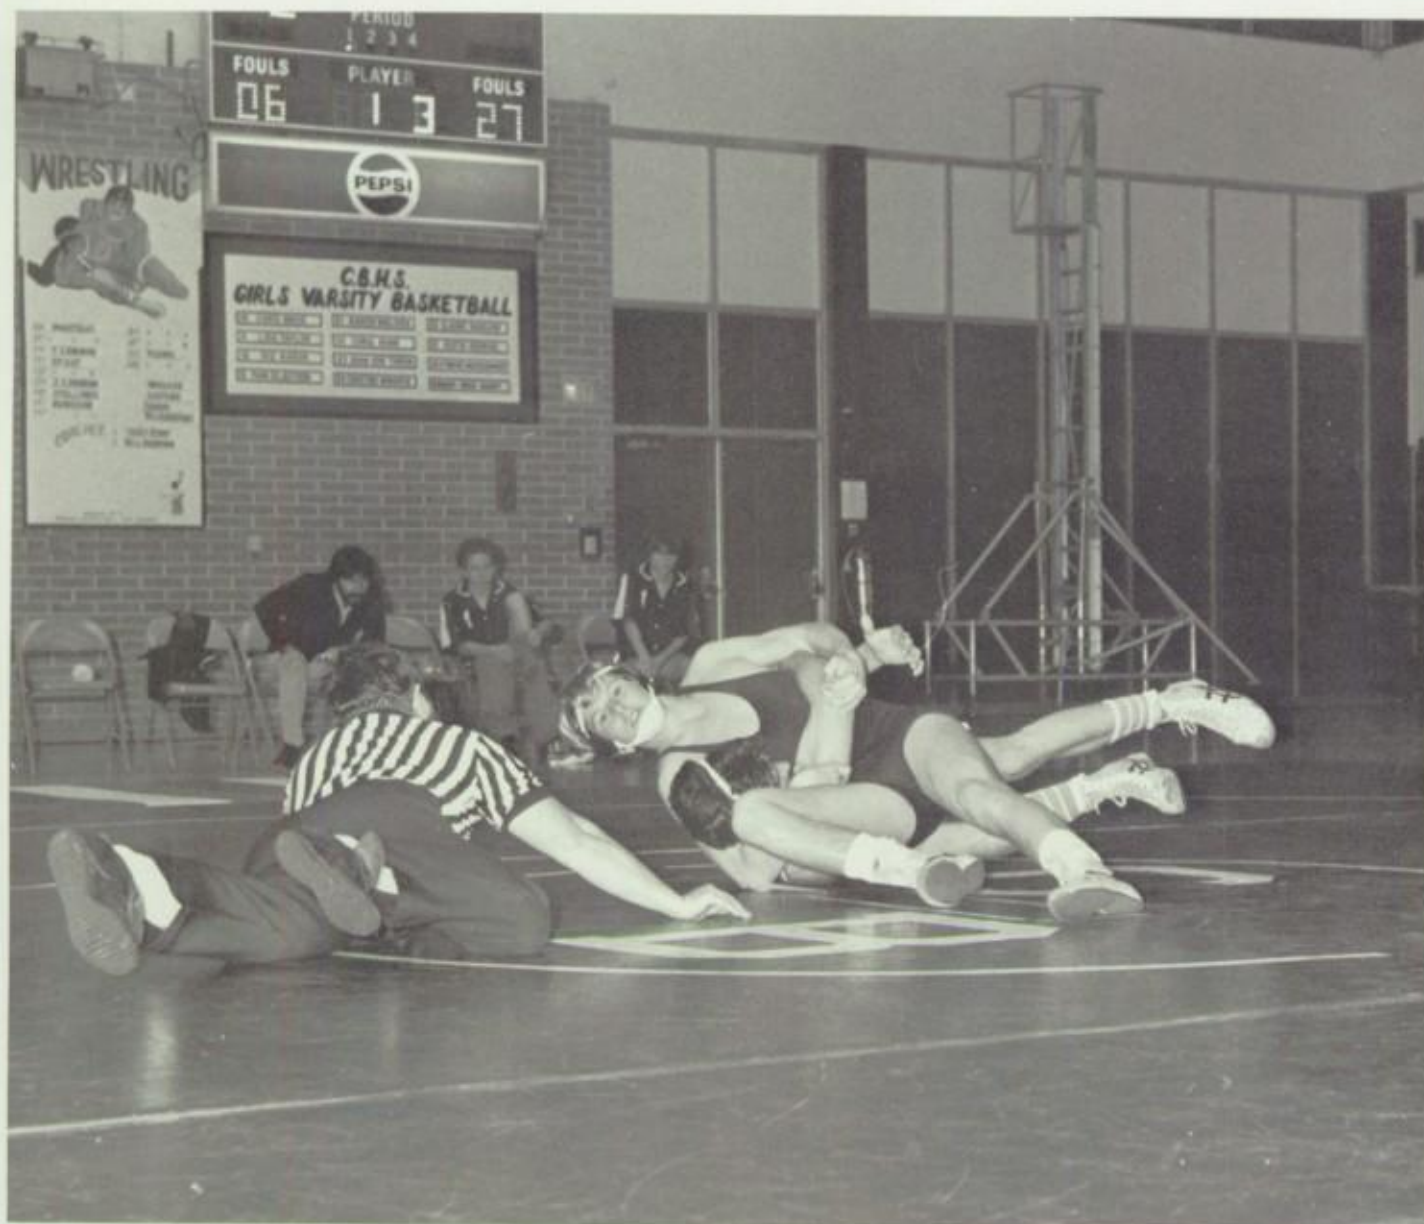

The Varsity wrestlers competed in many tournaments during the season. One was held at the Jai-Alai Fronton. Palm Bay hosted a two day tournament in the school's Gym. Kevin Mack went undefeated in this tournament and went on to state. He was one wrestler that wasn't "down for the pin."

A strong softball team means more than just good ball players. A lot of moral support was required throughout the season. Constant high spirits are needed for a successful season. The girls supported each other through their highs and lows. Cheers, pats on the back, nicknames, and little jokes kept spirits high. "Base hits, homeruns, any way you want it done" is an example of the cheer-up songs and the team's awesome power.

The preseason outlook for the Varsity baseball team was good. Their record preceding the season was 5-2. The team placed as runners up in the Sports Spot tournament held February 24-25.

Although the team was a young one, comprised mostly of juniors, Coach John Tuttle predicted a good season. At the start of the season, he had hopes of his team becoming the district contenders.

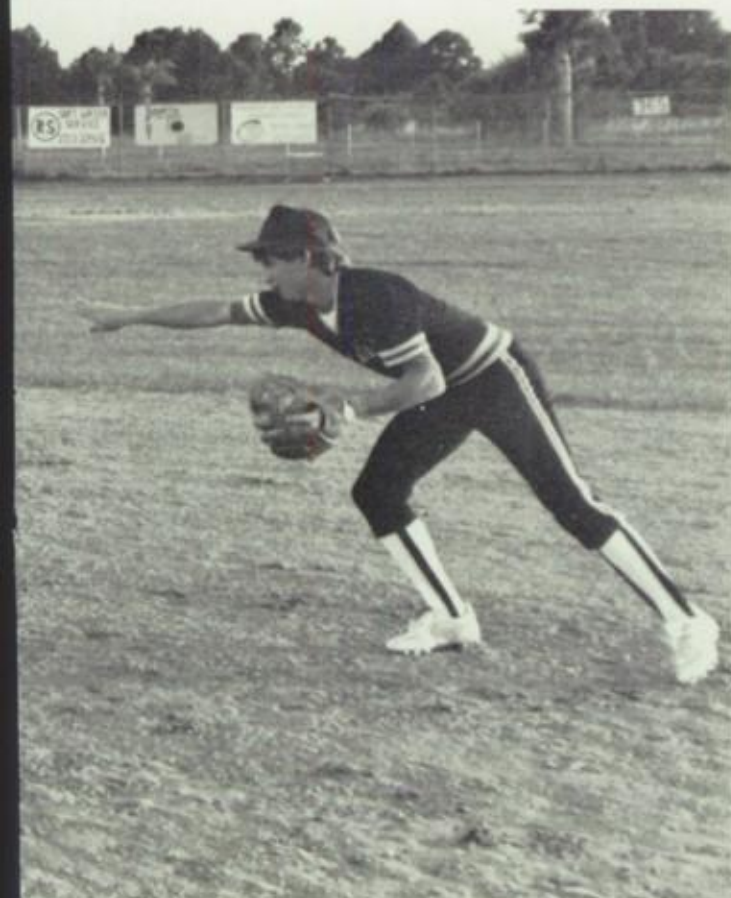

Helped by the hitting and fielding of Joey Hankins, Brad Hinchman, Oscar Restrepo, Jeff Nickle, and Jeff Switters the team excelled during their regular season.

Before the opposing man can even get into view, Jeff Nickle and Jeff Switters have the bases covered. A certain talent is needed in all sports. Jeff Switters displays his eye to hand coordination. Of all the help a coach can give, his experience is the best. Here Vince Wilder learns this lesson.

Many changes occurred in the curriculum during the 1983-84 school year. The ratification of the RAISE Bill required that standards be significantly heightened to ensure a better educated group of students leave the public school system at the time of graduation.

One way this task was accomplished was the instigation of more advanced placement classes. Added to the already existing English Department A.P. Class were classes in math and science.

In addition to the strong academic classes offered, vocational courses were available. Drafting, construction, electronics, graphics, mechanics, cooking, sewing and child care offered students a chance to gain invaluable experience for the future.

Many classes were also available to prepare students to enter the business world. Typing, accounting and data processing exposed future technology to interested pupils.

The Humanities Class put on skits during their studies of ancient Rome. Mysie Harper and Jenny Sego carry C.J. Jansen and Eric Cline to the lions for their bad deeds.

Making sure the shirt lays correctly, Kathy Thomas re-pins the interfacing on Rhonda Cox's garment.

In another skit, the slave played by John Cary, punishes the child, Becki Caswall, as soldier Tamara McCartney looks on.

CURRICULUM

Working After Hours

Shortly after the two o'clock dismissal bell rang, seventh hour classes came to order. These classes provided students with extra credits, or allowed them to make up credits they will not be able to obtain next year when the new 21 credit standard needed to graduate in 1985 comes into effect. A variety of subjects were offered and small classes made the learning process quicker and subject matter easier to comprehend.

The remains of a long, lost relative stands by as Mr. Rabbit takes one more look at what is to come.

Using the aid of a model frog, Mr. Osborn explains its anatomy and the similarities between the frog and a human being.

Biology shared between two doesn't seem half as tough. Jackie Mack and Ronnie Sims work together to finish their extra homework.

Scientific calculations come easily to mind as Mr. Pechich explains the basics of Chemistry.

Studying Biology can't be too bad if you have company such as this. Lorna Raisback has good companionship during one afternoon class.

Scientifically Speaking

Mods 13 & 14 were busy mods for the students enrolled in the Science Research class. Here the students learned more about the technology and new advancements to increase their knowledge of science.

This course was designed for those students who have already taken higher level courses in science. It gives them an opportunity to explore areas of science in which they are particularly interested.

Science Research also provides the students with the occasion to observe what other scientific questions high school age students are exploring.

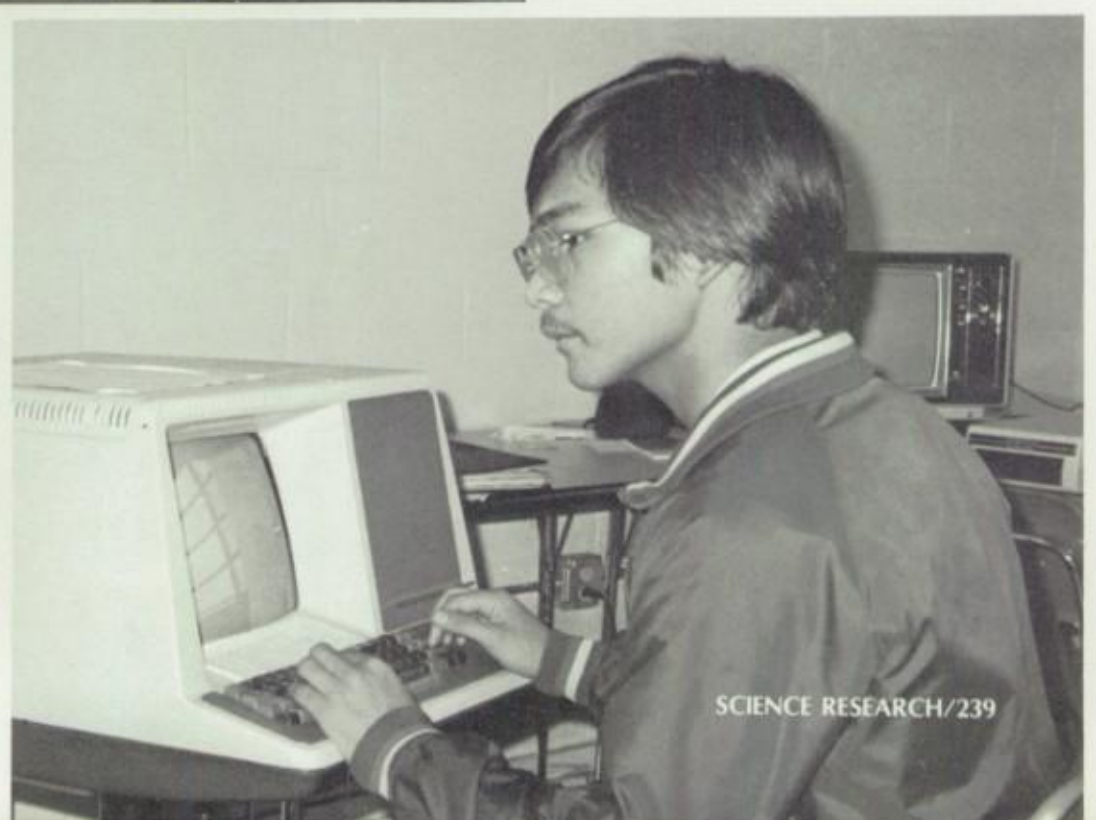

All students are required to participate in the competitive regional science fairs. The winners then proceed to state competition.

Science Research class consist of: Manny Domingo, Katie Redmond, Bruce Pulver, Lydia Ellul, Dan Zychowski, Robbie Haynes, Jim Moliski, Gina Hannon, Lisa Robinson, Carol Dorsey.

Mastering "the state of the art computer," Tim Clemmer takes the challenge.

Broadening her horizons, Lisa Goodwin types pertinent data from an important resource book.

Not to be left behind, as the computer age takes hold, Manny Domingo explores new avenues.

Going Back To Basics

English, being a required subject for all students, makes or breaks many students' graduation plans.

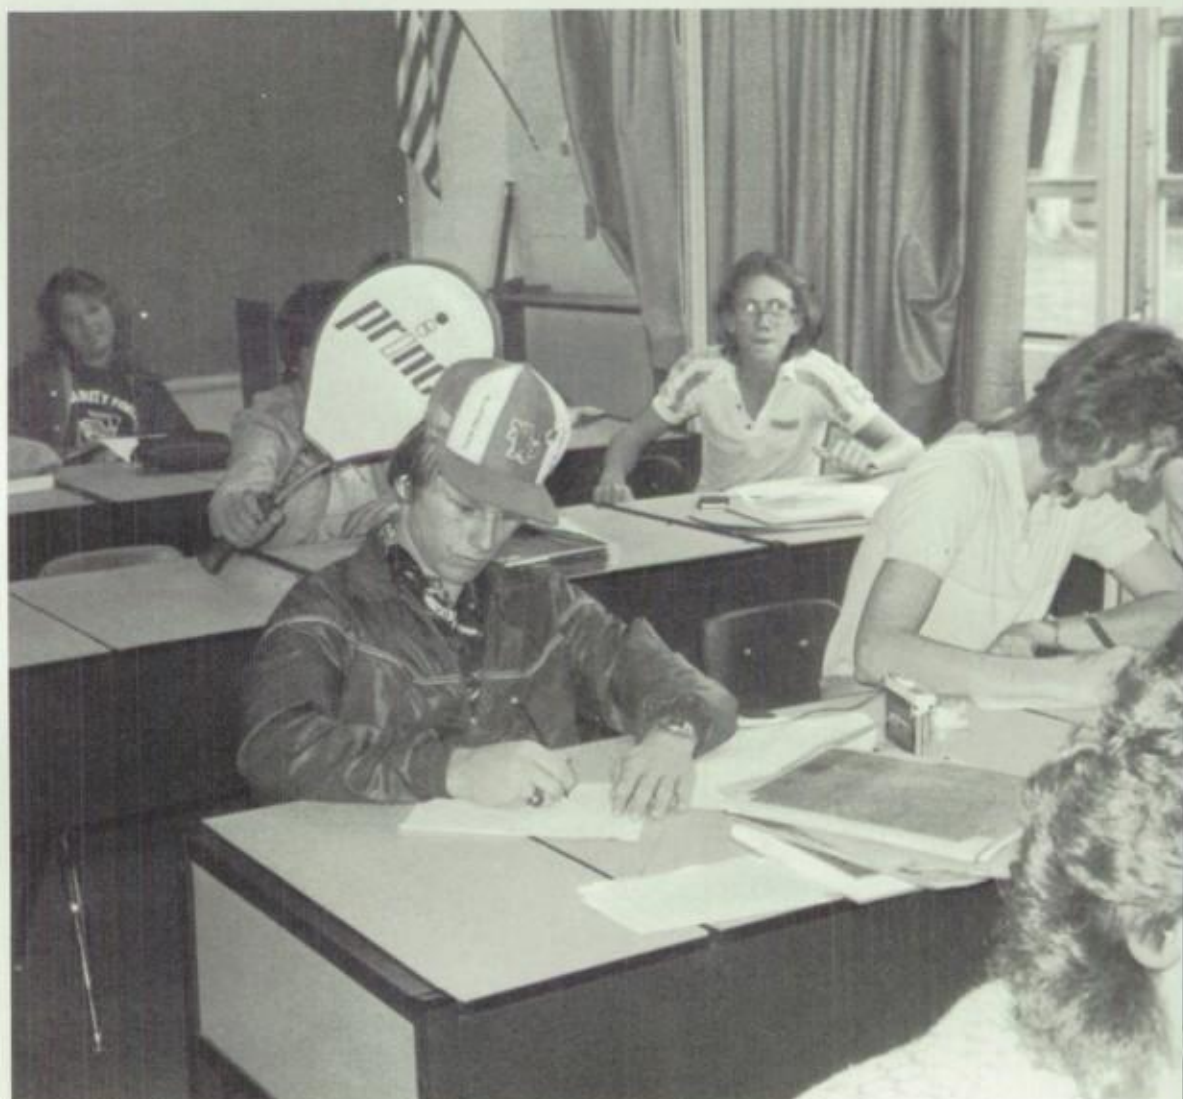

English class exposed pupils to drama, poetry, American Literature, British Literature, and basic English skills. Also included in English curriculum is the Advanced Phase English class which is designed for college bound students.

This past year, all phase four English classes were privileged to attend performances of Hamlet, by the Aslo touring theater.

After finishing his work, Cedric Chance gives his brain a needed rest.

Hard at work, Jim Huff puts the finishing touch on his classroom assignment.

Show Time

The drama class consisted of a group of individuals working hard to perfect their acting abilities. This class contained many talented young actors who were in the first stages of blooming to becoming professionals.

Without dedication, the actors of tomorrow would not have the training needed to be successful. Also, students learned classics by many great authors of the past and present. Mrs. Linda Rapp, sponsor of the drama class, worked hard to spread her knowledge to her younger counterparts of the acting field.

Trying out their lines in a "homey" atmosphere, was a new technique for Vince Cooper and Amy Wright.

Tragedy struck or so it seems, as Katen DeLucca plays a scene from MacBeth.

Acting as husband and wife, was a novel idea for Steve Binder and Nina Norberg.

In preparation for the next scene, Lisa Palieri assumes the roll of her character.

Fiesta – A Cultural Observance

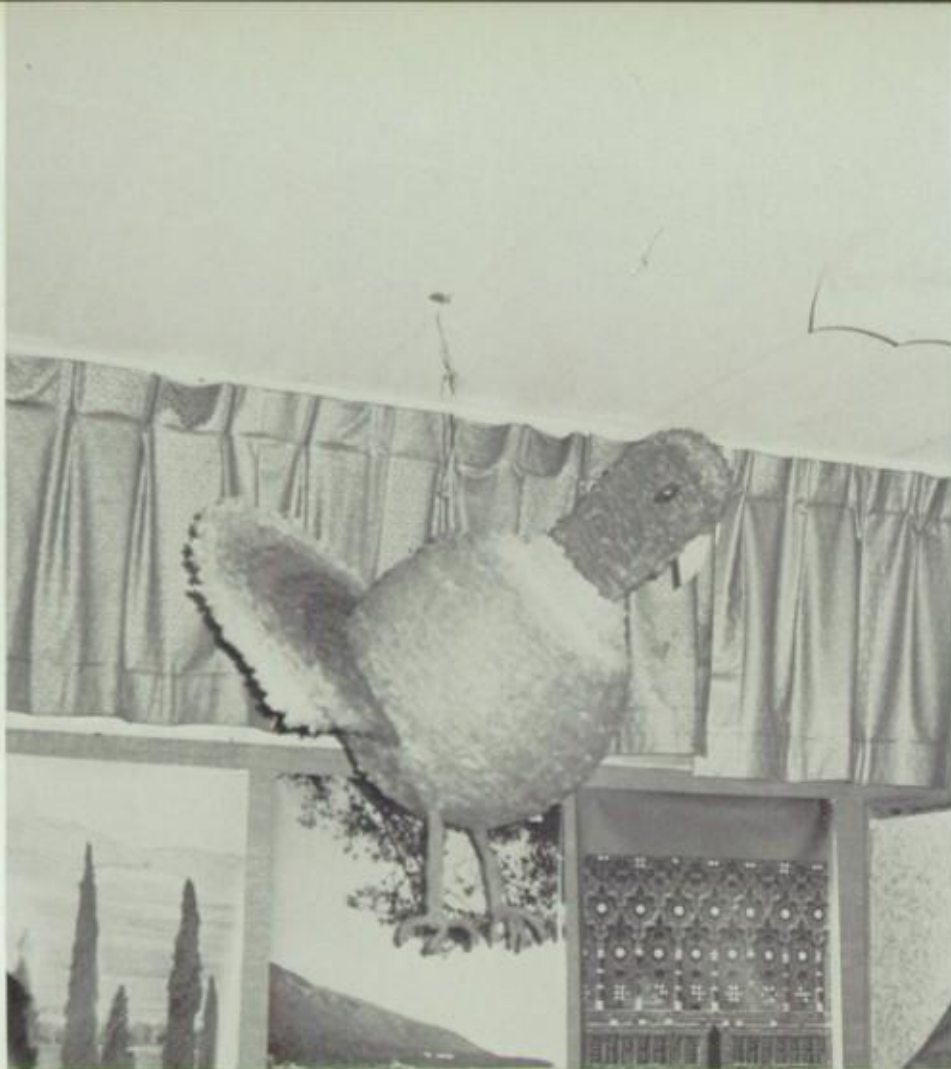

While preparing students for the rising use of the Spanish language in our country, Mrs. Flo Thomas taught a very important class. The Spanish course was also the largest course in the foreign language department during the past year. Members learned verb conjugations and sentence patterns to help blend their studies into new lifestyles created by the uprising Spanish culture in our school system.

Soon after the fiesta was over, Cesar Tobon "cleans up" what's left of the treasure.

The last of the piñata is offered to Christy Redmond by Peter Bermudez with a generous hand.

Moving on down the line, Spanish class members Martha Layer, Teresa Leech, Robin Moore, Ashley Jordan, Roberta Lyter, Jim Moliski prepare to enjoy fine Spanish cuisine.

Not being your average "Tom", this turkey is just hanging around waiting for the celebration.

Experiencing the delicacies of a foreign nation gave Spanish class students Jim Moliski, Mike Lee, Damon Phillips, Jesse Shockley, and Chris Woods a chance to expand their cultural tastebuds.

While in for the kill, Chuck Haynes, Cesar Tobon, Teresa Leech, and Martha Layer hope to fulfill their sweet tooth.

Unwilling to share the remains of the celebration's piñata, Randy Nixon dove in to fight for the last sugary morsel.

The Language of Romance

Some students enrolled in the French classes with the idea of traveling to a foreign country during their junior or senior years. Some joined the class after hearing about the cultural observances. However, once they entered the room, none of this made any difference.

Students were put to work, translating and learning to speak this romance language. Some days were spent listening to and repeating the information on language education tapes. Students learned about the cultures and mannerisms of different countries. At the end of their one-four year study, students had greatly increased their knowledge of the French.

Doing translations individually is a big part of any language class, and the French classes are no exception. Students worked on learning the language and customs of French speaking countries.

Deciphering the French lessons for each day takes up much of Tracey Harmon's time.

A tradition has been established in the language classes, it is that of cultural observances. These are parties where the students bring foods and drinks pertaining to the culture and language they are studying.

The cultural observance held at Christmas time is a favorite among students. Tracey Harmon, Jennifer Kent, Chris Palladino, Lisa Wintrobe, Laura Tripp, Noel Berichina, Tony Hall, Robert Carroll, Ben Holski, and Chris Brunnel enjoy themselves in various ways at the observance.

Computer Calculations

As we move into the computer age it is not difficult to see the need for a rigid mathematics program. Students need to sharpen their skills in the areas of algebra and trigonometry if they will survive the move into this new era of technology.

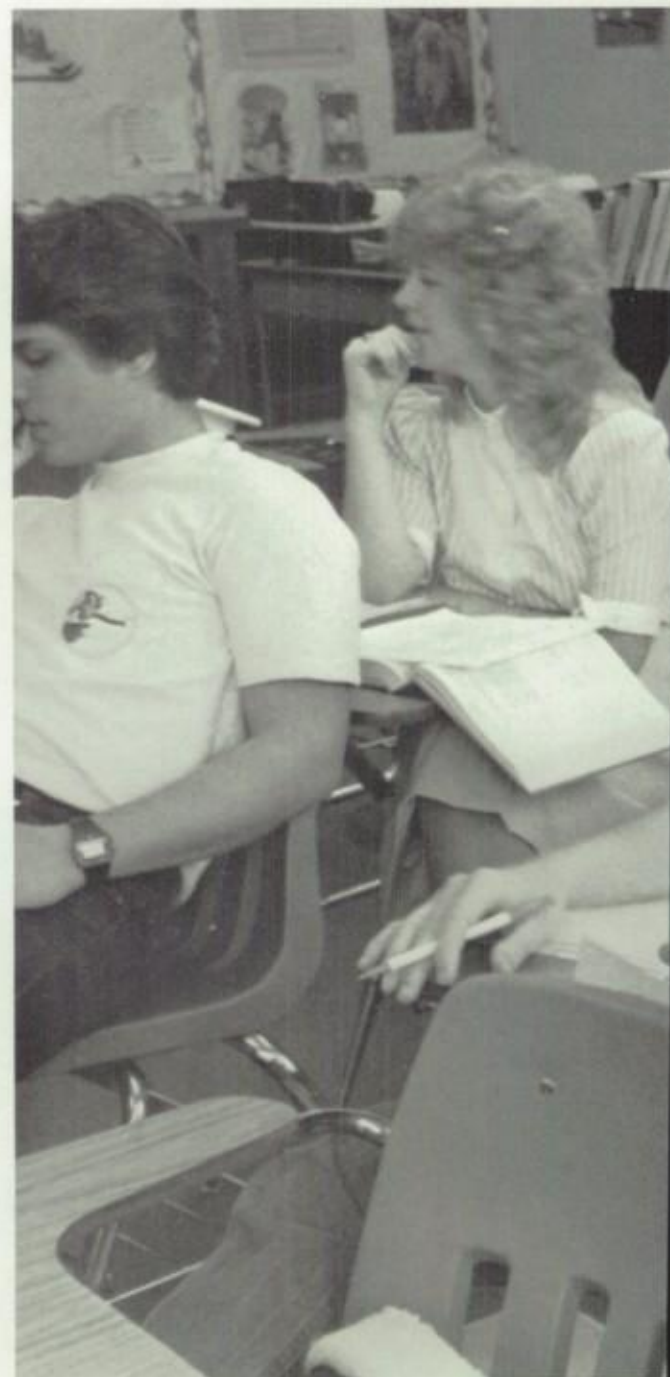

The math department offered a wide range of courses from business math to advanced calculus. Students enrolled in the advanced placement calculus class received college credit for it upon passing a test given at the end of the year. These students, under the guidance of Mrs. Ann Rouse achieved the highest score in the county exam given by the Florida Math League. The test score of 24 was also tied for first place in the state. Students taking the exam were in her Mods 1-2 calculus class.

The math department strove to upgrade their standards so that students will be able to adapt and understand the new technology.

In Calculus class, Kevin O'Brian listens to the review of last night's homework problems.

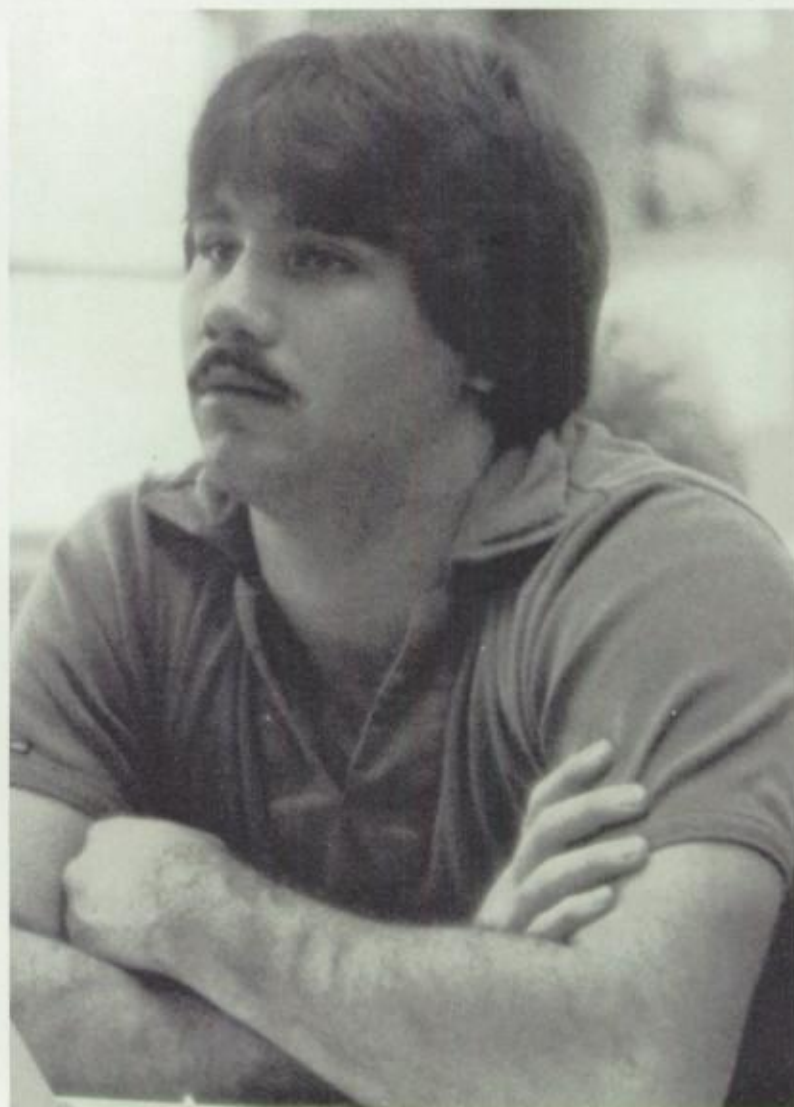

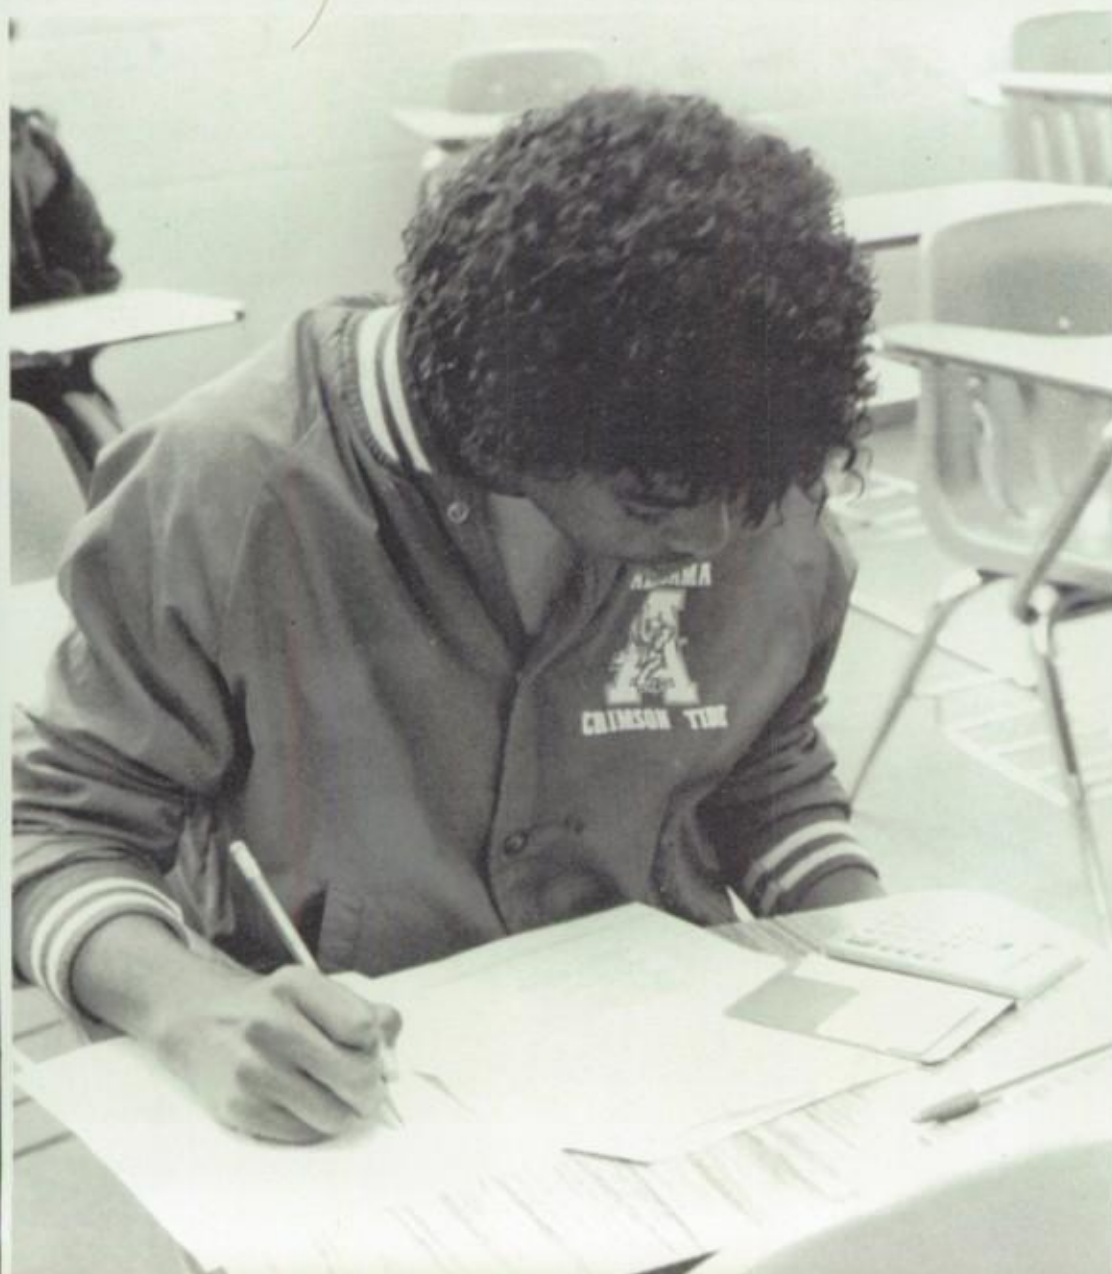

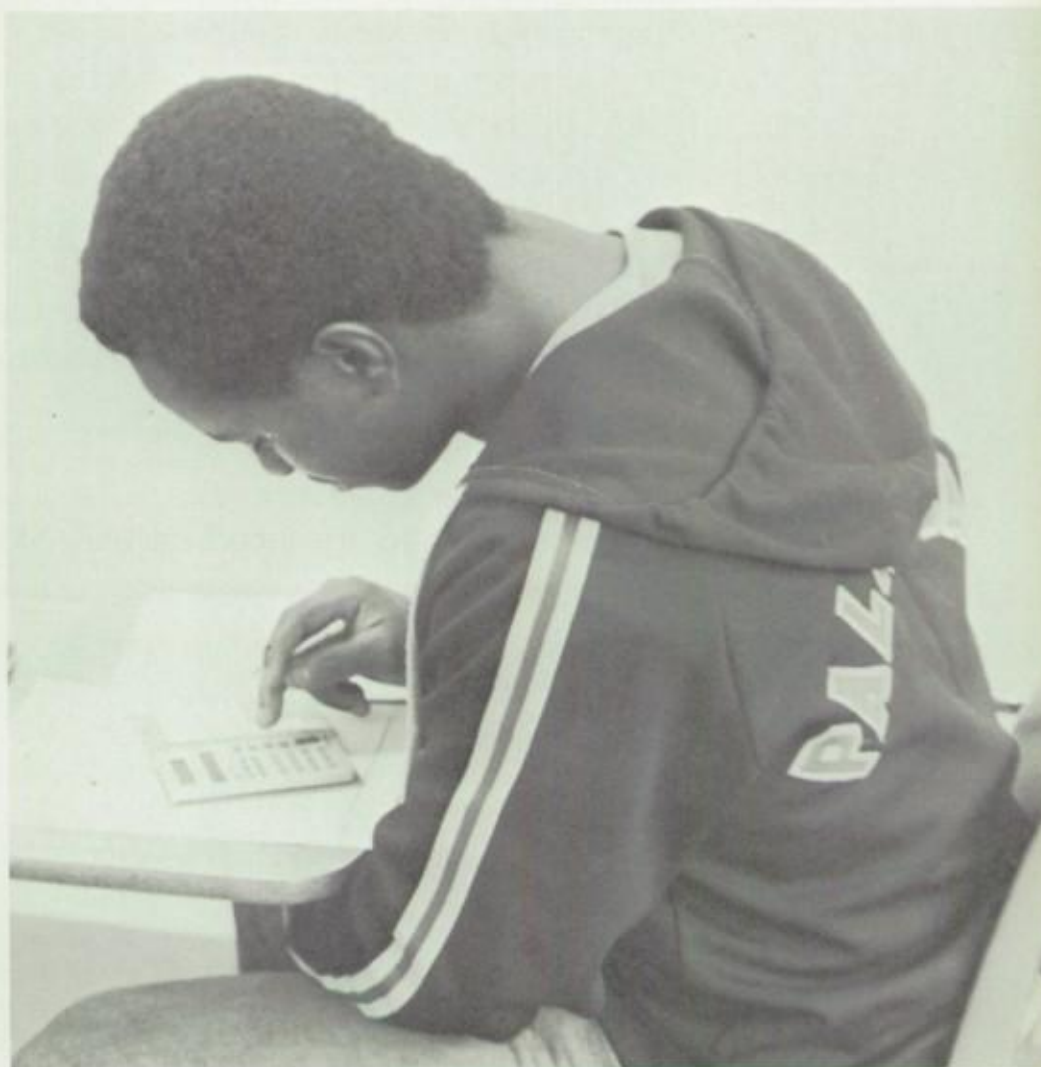

Pondering a concept, Juan Restrepo listens attentively to the teacher.

Thinking about a complex problem, Felicia Mapp uses her knowledge of the math to come up with an answer.

*A calculator is a useful tool in a Math class for Kevin Mack as he attempts to solve a problem.
Word Problems can be tough but with the help of his calculator Charlie George plows through them.
In an attempt to understand the idea behind a new concept Ryan Cagle concentrates.*

Heart and Soul

The head of the science department, Mrs. Howell, has taken giant steps to make the science department a huge success.

Biology I and Physical science are tailored to the science novices, while science research and A.P.

Biology are for the hard-core lovers of science.

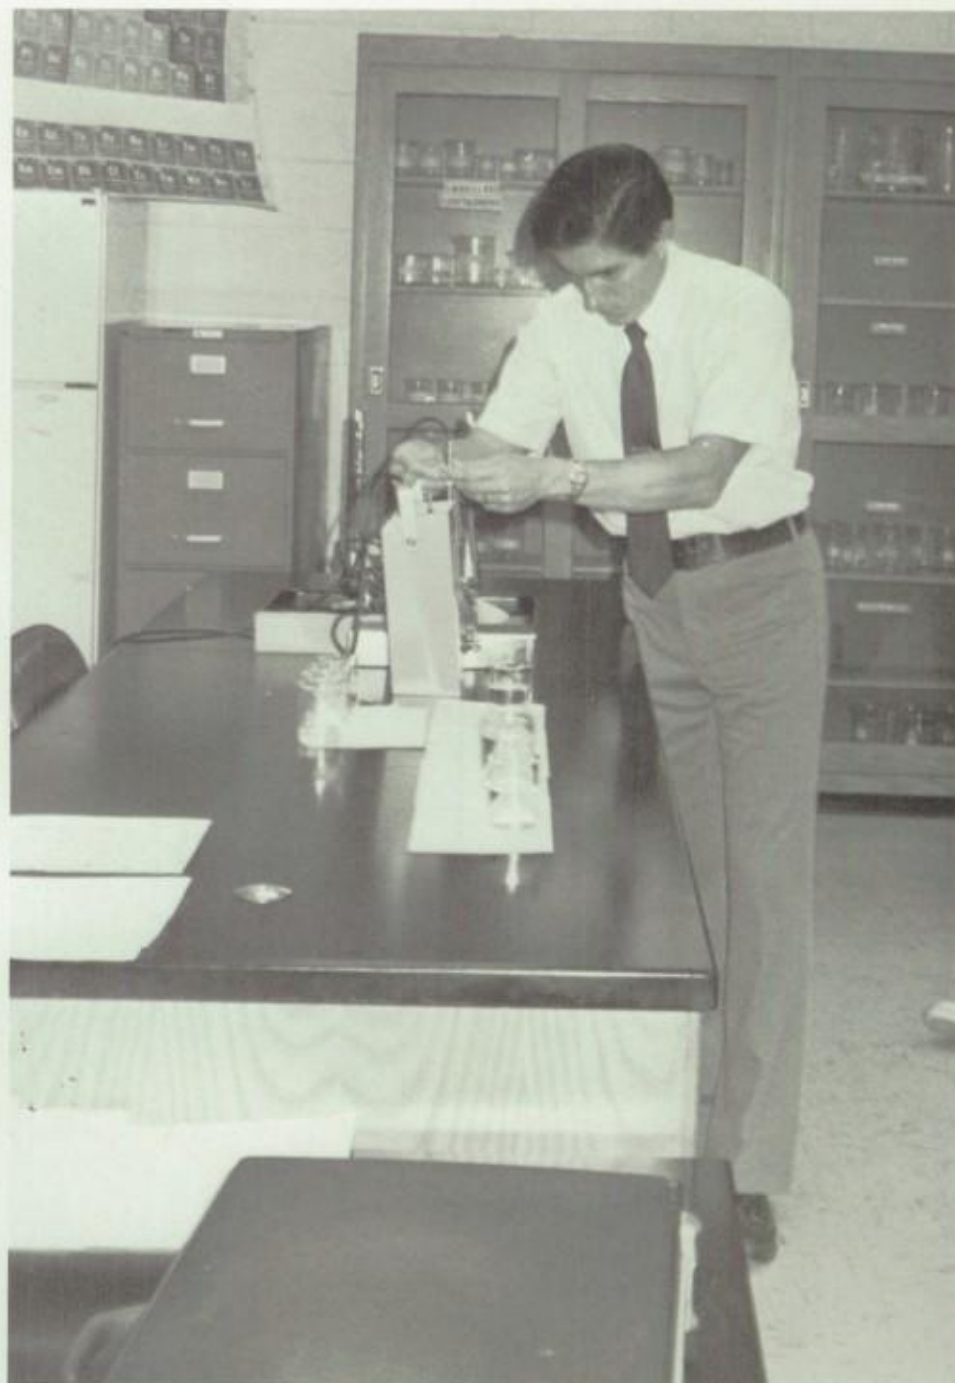

Every class is equipped with a qualified teacher. Loads of information and labs make concepts clearer. Every level of science guarantees explanations of many things that affect people everyday.

Science is a required course because Chemistry may not be for everyone, there is a variety of courses to choose from.

Preparing an experiment for his Chemistry class, Mr. Pekich puts on the finishing touches.

It's lunch time! Lyndi Steiner's rabbit is the subject of her genetics experiment in science.

The table of elements does not hold the attention of Mike Defore as well as the newspaper he is reading.

Pioneers of the Past

The Social Studies program has many faces. One can learn anything from Psychology to American History. A social studies class is offered at every class level. The many teachers involved in the social studies program are eager to help their students learn more about the subject they teach. With the variety of courses in the program, it is possible to take at least one social studies class each school year. When students come to the school as freshman, the counselors try to steer them in the direction of certain social studies class. As sophomores, the students are really free to choose their own class. Juniors are required to take American History just as seniors are required to take C.P.S.

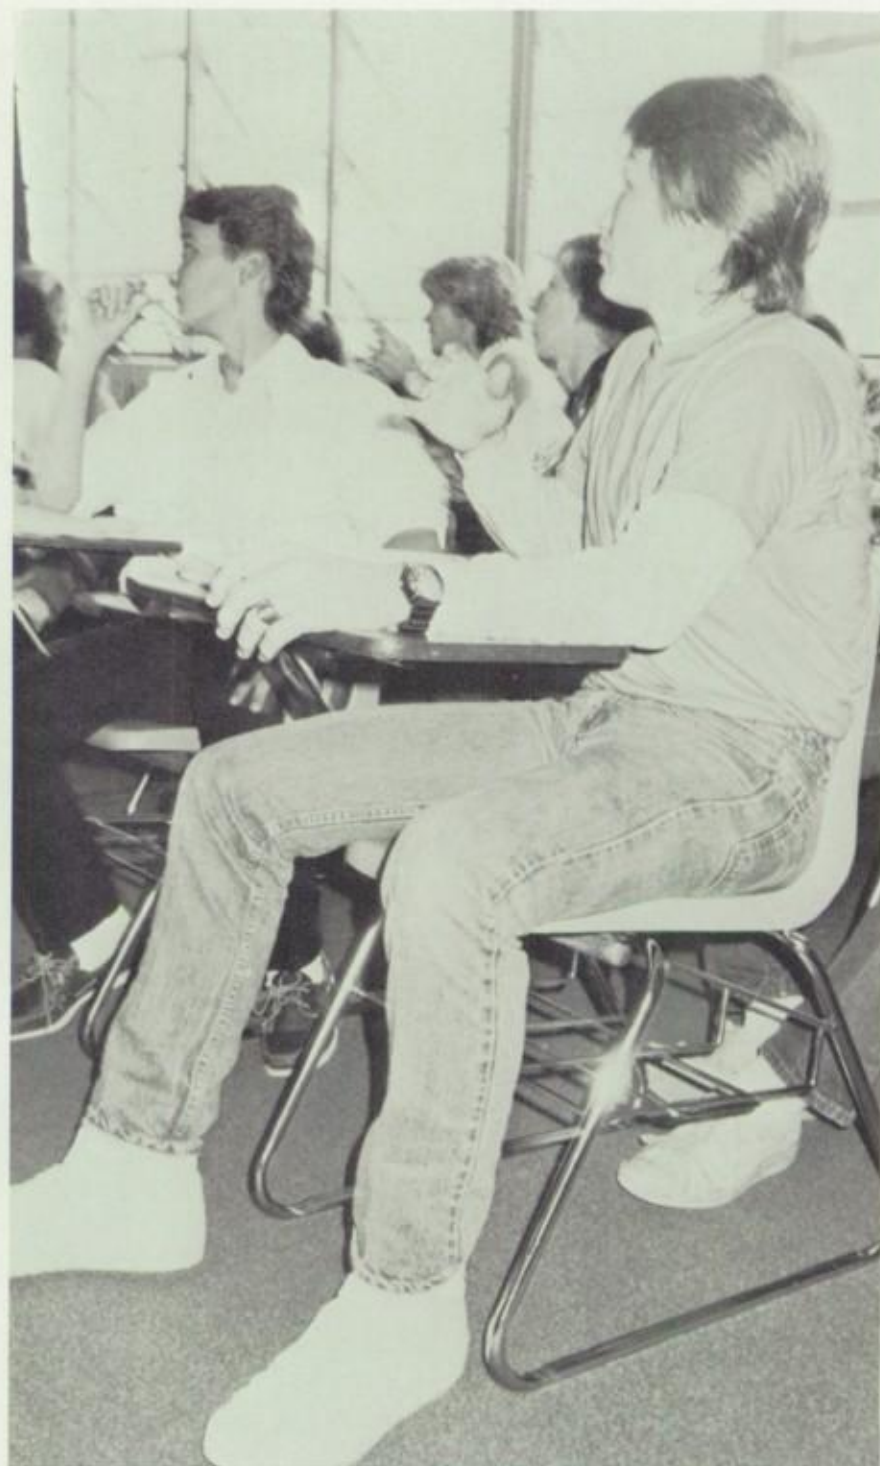

Mrs. Graham's American History lecture keeps the attention of Steve Cosner, Eva Rydegran, and Teresa Ryder during mods 13/14.

The movie Sybil starring Sally Field, holds the interest of Ed Bragg, Clint Head, Ray Sheeler, and Dan Zychowski.

Warning students about the penalties for crime, Jeff Silverman shares some of his experiences. Michelle Morissette and Gene Gilliland listen intently.

The A.V. Room facilities provide Monica Brown with a chance to kick back and enjoy an interesting flick.

Having an opinion on the issue, Jeff Switters offers his comments to the class.

All eyes open, all ears tuned in, Lora Hill, Claudine Cieslewicz, Gene Gilliland and the rest of the class absorb a lecture.

Psychology involves many concepts and Miss Fladmark finds that a movie can sometimes make explaining easier.

Semper Fidelis

MCJROTC or Marine Corps Junior Reserved Officers Training Corps, was a very successful and active organization. They lived up to their logo "Semper Fidelis,"

"always faithful." This group of students, containing 148 pupils, has represented our school on numerous occasions, including the Homecoming Parade, Veteran's Day Parade,

Christmas Parade, Military Birthday Ball, Marine Corps League Ball, drill meets, and monitoring our football games.

MCJROTC is made up of four groups: The rifle team, the drill team, physical training team, and the color guard team.

The rifle team shot M-22's in competition; plenty of practice went into that. The drill team performed military exercises in competition. The colorguard team was in charge of activities such as parades and balls. The physical training team shaped up and competed in events such as sit-ups, push-ups, and jumping jacks.

At the drill meet in Edgewater, MCJROTC placed 2nd in all-around unit, and 1st place in the female exhibition drill.

Colorguard team won 3rd place, and the standard exhibition drill placed 2nd.

Taking Pride

The power and strength of the musical talent of our marching band worked its way up to straight superior ratings during the past year. While attending every football game last year they stood up through rain, heat, and cold to support our varsity team. In Conference Competition, the Pirate's marching band, flag and rifle corps members, impressed their peers and the judges to receive superior-ratings in competition against other area high school bands. They represented our school with the greatest of all pride. Let's advertise our musically inclined students, they raise our spirits high.

With a hard look of determination, Sandra Jones holds the stance of a proud member of our rifle corps.

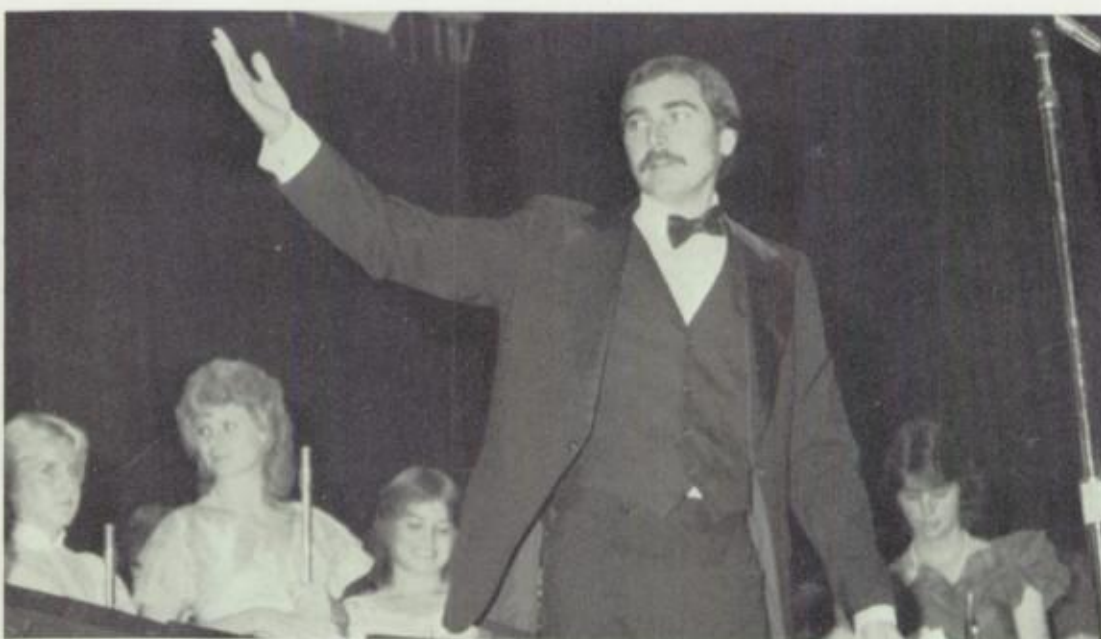

Playing his instrument to his full ability, Jon Rashley shows how a trumpet should be played.

Precision, practice, and position make up only part of the hard work that involves participating in Flag Corps. Kim Rivett displays the results of her hard work in the Homecoming Parade.

Looking up to make sure of a good catch, twirler Tina Woods insures a good performance.

In What They Do

Moving to the Beat

During their marching formations in the Homecoming Parade, the Pirate Marching Band shows perfection in a casual performance.

While performing in the Christmas Symphonic Band Concert, Susan Sheffield takes a break from the scheduled program.

Although she was not dressed in an average band uniform, Stephanie Dolci provided musical tones to outshine any.

At one of our season games, Flag Corp member Jackie Woods shows her pride as she watches her opponents perform.

Three year band member John Rashley keeps our pep rallies going with the rhythm we all know our band to possess.

Of A Different Drummer

The backbone of our band, the bass drum, displays our school pride as Bob Parzer keeps our band in rhythm.

Rifle Corps member Lisa Grassman displays hours of practice and drill in yet another unrivaled performance.

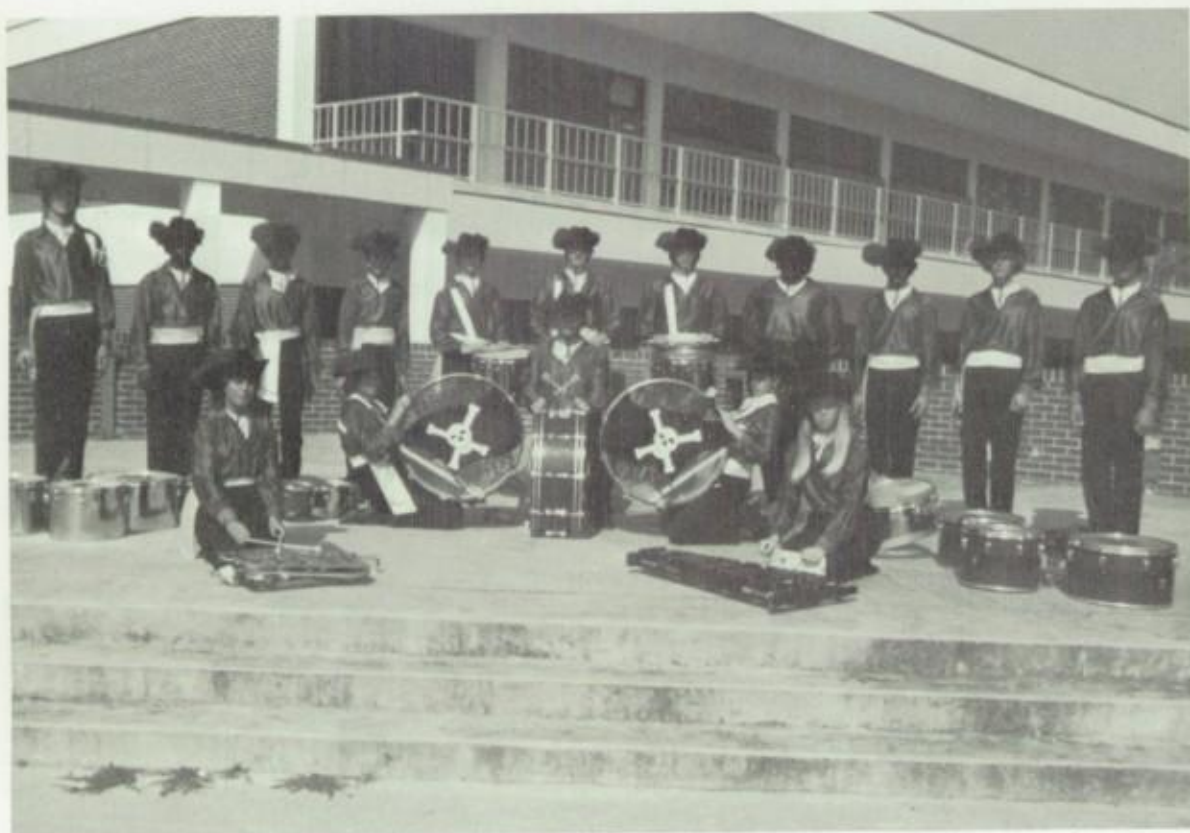

With professionalism in mind, Mike Malliet keeps a sharp look to show his proud Pirate spirit.

With a Song in Their Heart

Under the direction of Shelli Long, the Beginning Chorus, Concert Choir, and Ensembles have made this year count.

For the past two years, these groups have greatly improved under the steady guidance and help of Ms. Long.

The groups have performed at many benefits. The Chamber of Commerce Breakfast, for example, was entertained by our groups in conjunction with Eau Gallie, Melbourne, and Satellite High School Ensembles.

Other events, performances for the mentally retarded, concerts for the junior and senior citizens, were projects chorus gladly accepted.

Undoubtedly this has been a good year and will continue as a tradition in the future.

Singing her own solo, Carrie Davis leads Ladies' Ensemble in Boy From New York City.

Officers: Ana Aguiar, vice-president; Lisa Robinson, treasurer; kneeling: Hannan Brown, president.

Smiling for the crowd, Angie Norigenna performs a song and dance with the Ladies' Ensemble.

At the Christmas concert, Mike Scheile sang along with the rest of the gang, in mixed ensemble.

It's a Snap

Artistic abilities can be displayed in many ways. Light readings, ASA's, and developing techniques make this an exact science. Photography students spent the year attempting to master this art.

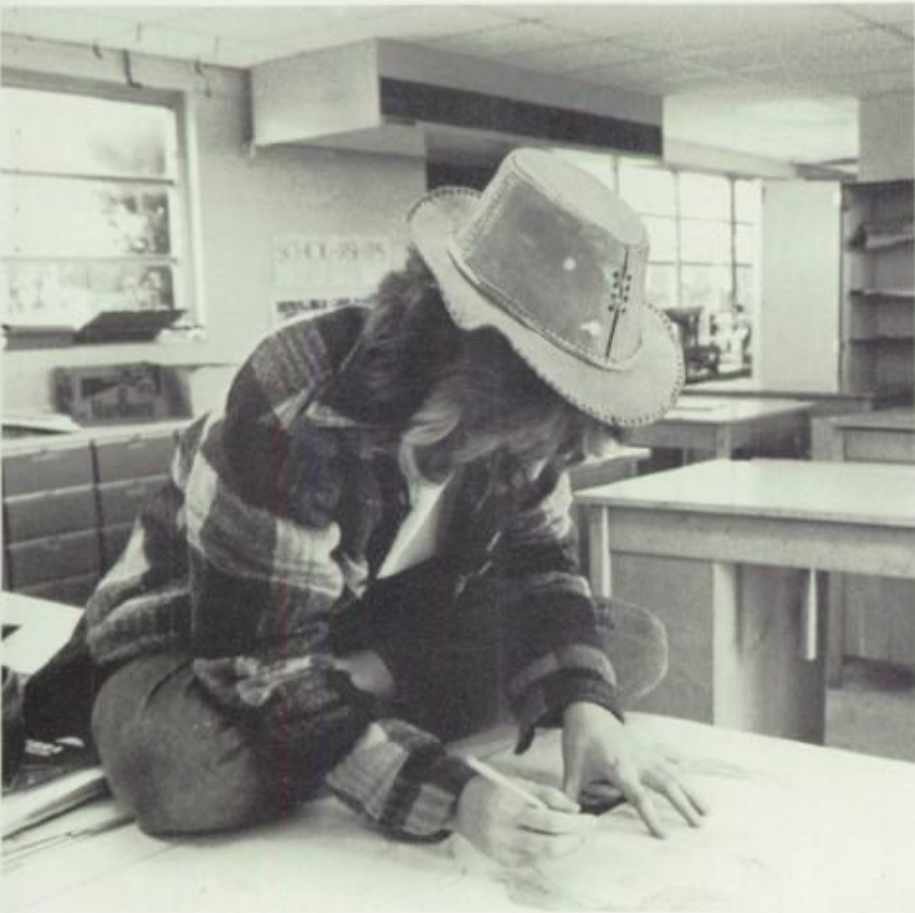

Combinations of fixer, developer and wash were studied and learned. Throughout the year the quality of student's work steadily increased. By the end of the year most had become accomplished photographers.

Keeping the lenses on the enlarger clean and fingerprint free is a daily task. Robert Griener takes his turn polishing them up.

Employing the tools of his trade, Skip Marcotte readies his film for the first step of processing.

In preparation for developing her film Sheila Harshman removes the film from its solution.

Art in Black and White

Countless times during the year students were seen rushing through the halls with huge portfolios. At the beginning of the year they were filled with entries for the annual calendar. However, as the year progressed they were filled with hopeful entries for Scholastic Art Awards.

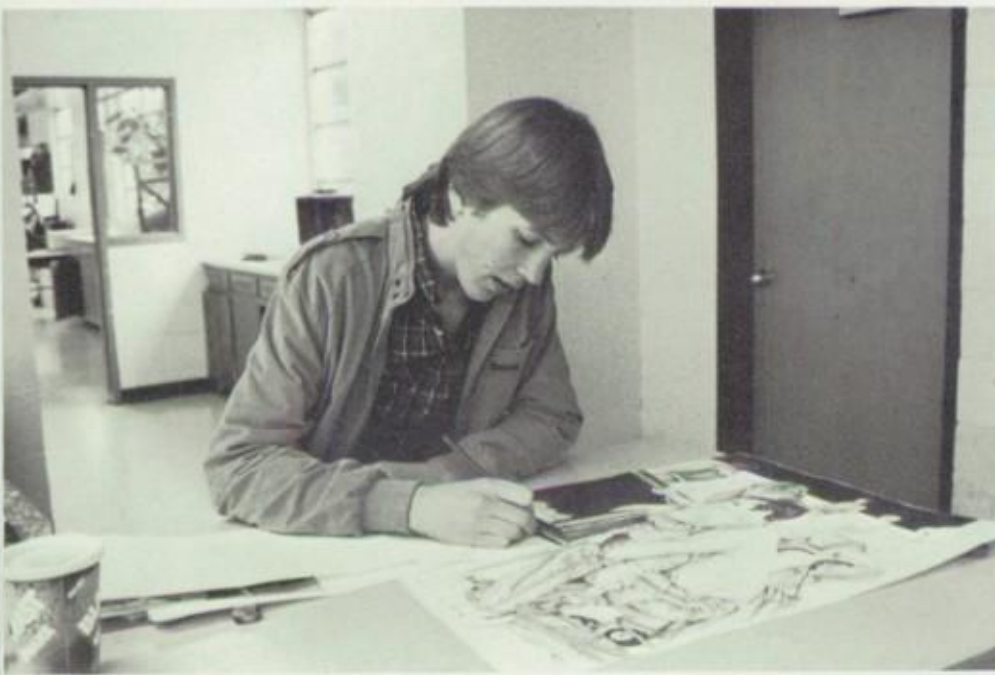

Through the year students were able to express their talents while creating some beautiful pieces.

Once again it is proven that artists don't always follow the conventional route. Heidi Harrison finds it much more comfortable to work sitting on top of the table.

What looks to be a scene from a horror movie is just another of Mike Nealy's creations.

Depicting a typical scene when an infant is in the home, Steve McAuley reproduces a photograph.

The decision of what subject to draw is sometimes a tough one. Eva Rydegran employs the help of Chortip Witherspoon as she attempts to pick which would be the best for her.

Just a Spark

Students exiting the electronics classes attained many goals. They learned not only of career possibilities, but the skills they will need to be successful in their chosen career.

A wide variety of electronic uses, ranging from wiring amplifiers to residential wiring, were explored in the course.

Students were also exposed to the different tools and testing machines used in the field. As advancements were made, students were exposed to additional advanced techniques.

Testing the voltage of a piece is not too time consuming for Robert Poliquin.

In preparation for the day's work, Scott Young sets up his equipment.

Joint experimtns can be beneficial to all involved. John Kratochvil and Ken Shockley prepare themselves for their test.

Electronic currents produce waves on certain equipment, David Cook and Jerry Stevens examine the current.

Combining book work with "hands on testing" helps David Tancrell understand his studies.

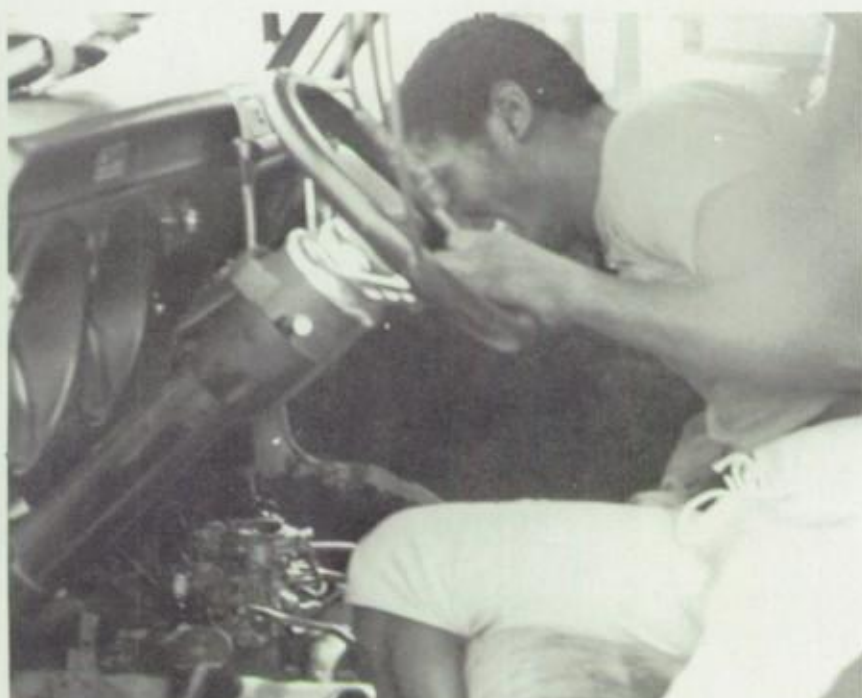

No Longer The Male Domain

Auto mechanics was a fulfilling class, especially for those who have cars. It gave the students an opportunity to understand the way a car operates and how it is put together. Students were also taught techniques on how to repair minor problems.

This course developed individual skills. Skills that may prove to be an asset in years to come.

Time out from auto mechanics class Mr. Fayed and Linda Burns enjoy some fun and games.

During a social gathering, James Jones, Jason Greene, John Dombeck, Eric Messbower, and Troy Clark make plans to fulfill the next job.

Smiling and looking proud, Todd Jackson shows that he knows how to check things out.

Showing the cause of the problem to Bryan Geradis and Bruce McMann, Lorraine Stevens helps the men at work complete their job.

The basics of learning aren't hard to comprehend with Mark Cooper teaching Bill Garret, Mike Felbert, and Anthony Mangine now it is done.

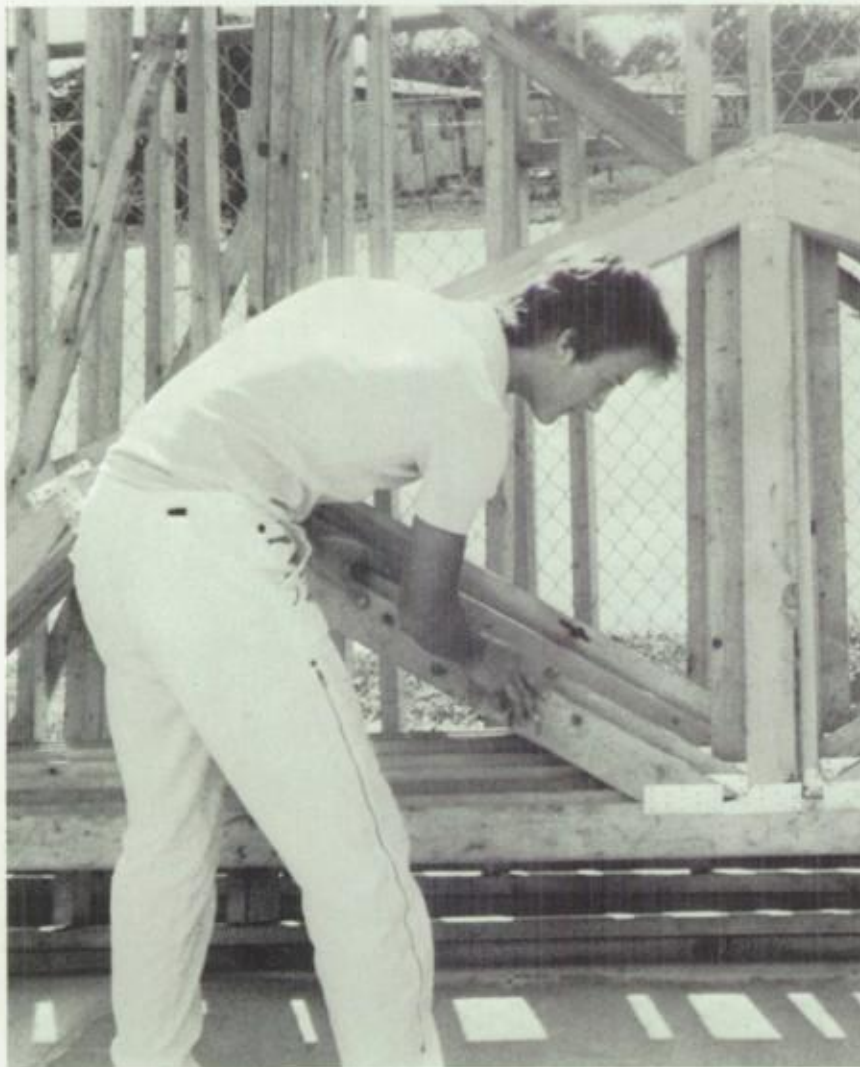

Tools of the Trade

The construction class provided an opportunity for students to acquaint themselves with the different materials of the trade. Students learned the techniques involved in using power tools and other mechanical devices. The beginning construction classes worked on scale models of houses and other buildings, while the more advanced classes built such projects as play-houses for the elementary schools.

Helping out a friend, Paul Michaels searches for the tool he needs to complete his next assignment.

Preparing for a new project, Chris Bradlene looks for the correct size lumber to start his new project.

With safety goggles in place, Richard Ainbinder shows off his skill in the use of the power drill.

Blue Prints of Tomorrow's Dreams

Students wanting to get a head start in the trade had a good opportunity in the drafting classes. Throughout the year students learned to design homes and other structures. They also mastered the technique for drawing up the plans for these homes. Upon completion of their one to four year study, students were presented with cards stating the number of hours of study they had completed. Many were able to obtain employment with this extra boost.

Using their skills to create designs for future use, many of today's students dream of one day actually constructing their plans. With precision and form drafting students: Mike Jenkins, Bob Martin, Kim Ketcher, Mark Cooper and Scott Behringer work toward their set goals.

Keep Them Cooking

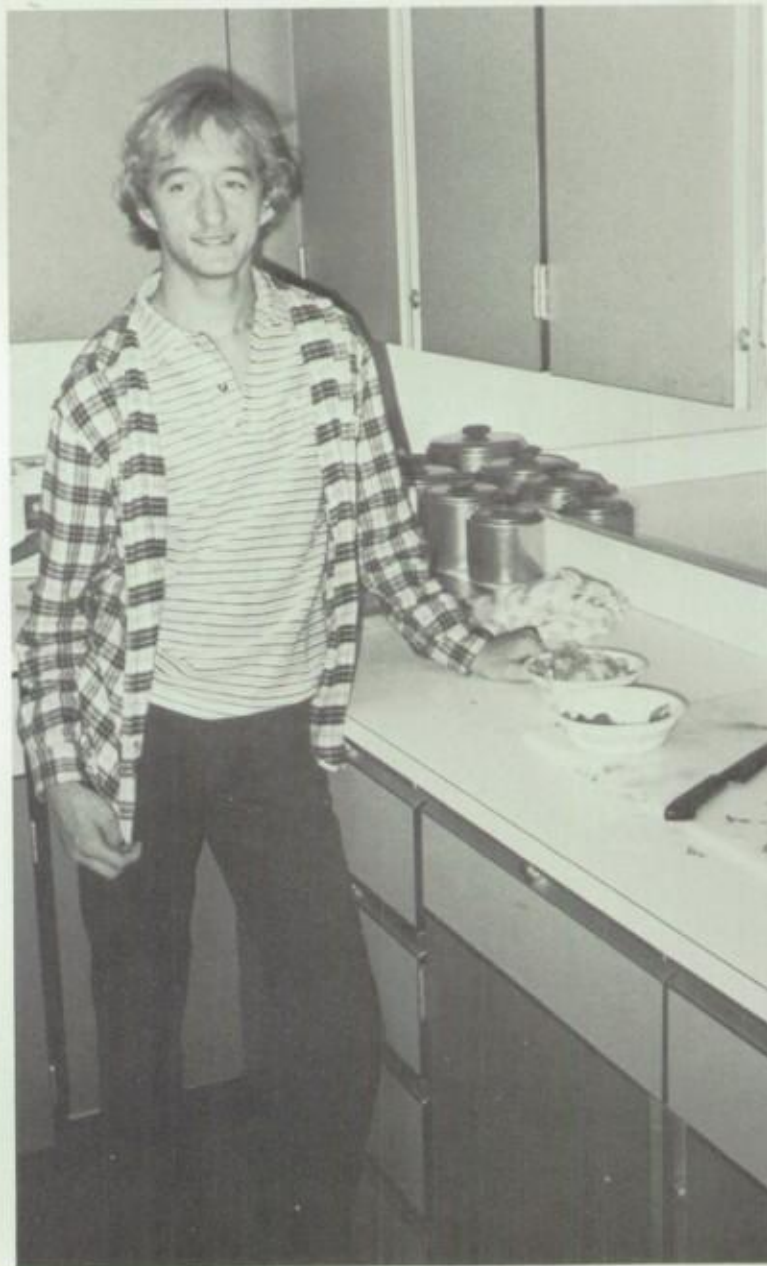

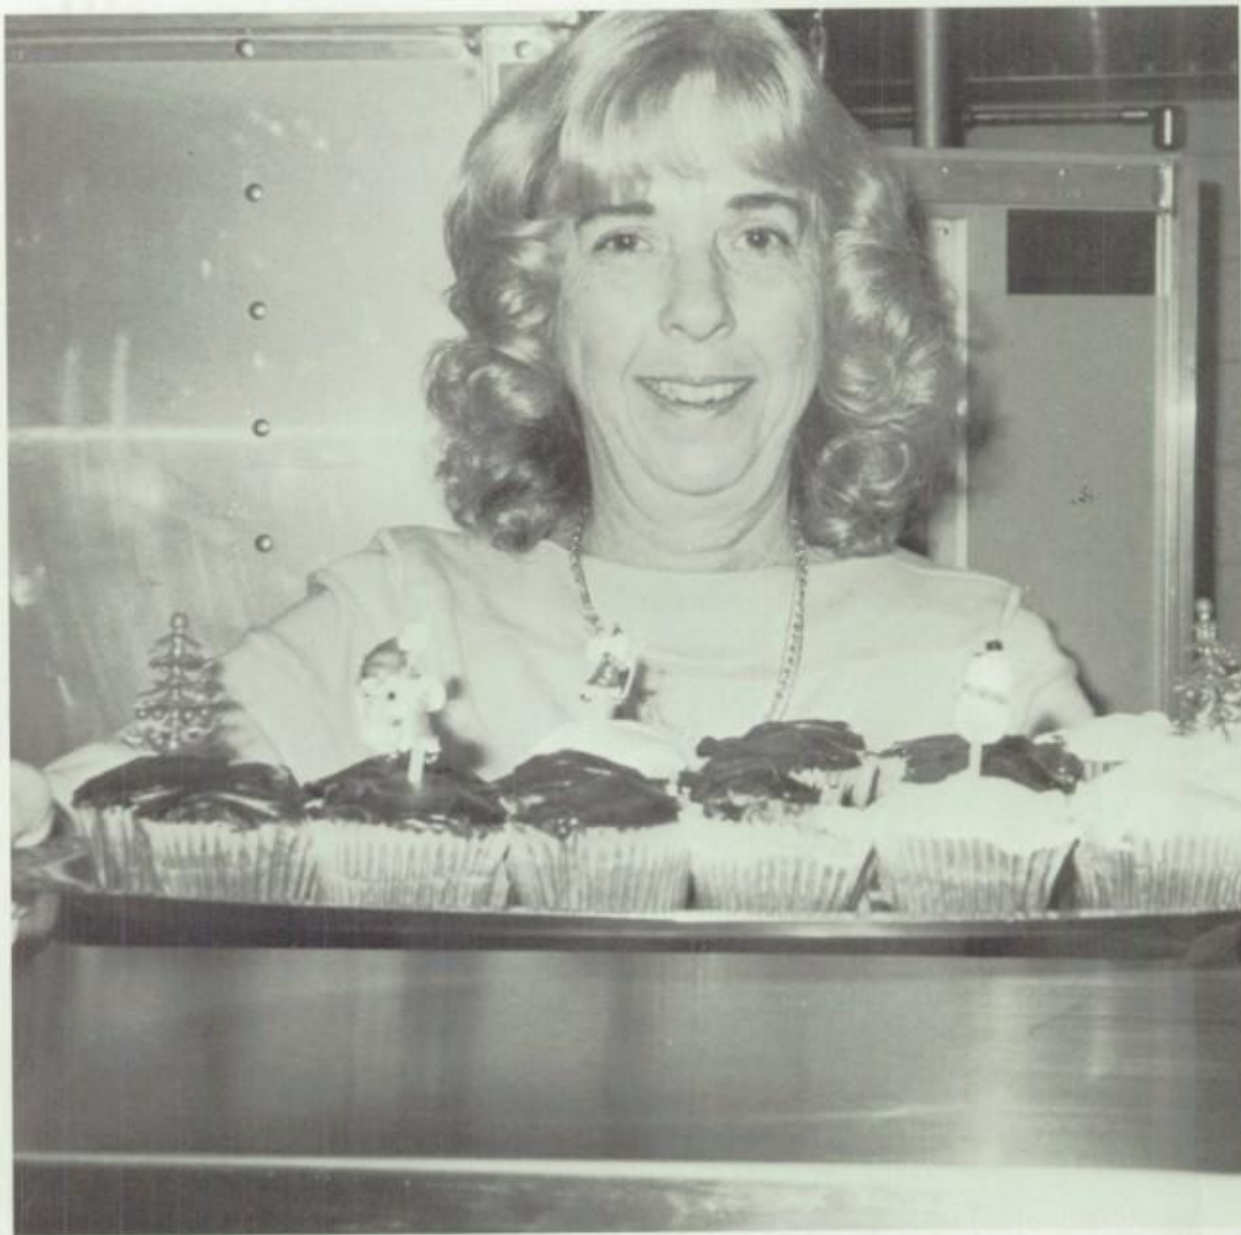

Many students signed up for cooking with the idea that it would be an easy credit. Not so. Mrs. Joanne Lewis kept her students cooking up a storm for the weekly bake sale held each Tuesday.

Delicacies such as the "tri-level brownies" and other finger foods were sold during this time. The bake sales were held in the mornings from 7:00 to 7:30 a.m. to help defray the cost of the baking projects. This class was truly a hard credit to master.

Getting ready for the Christmas holidays, Mrs. Lewis shows off some of her many delicious treats.

Demonstrating his cooking skills, Dan Fix gives lessons to Debbie Mhyre, Jennifer Cameron and Richard Barber as they hungrily examine his creation.

After completing a new dish for class, Doug Sartain looks back on his results with a satisfied smile.

A Stitch in Time

With the high cost of clothing, many students have come to the conclusion that it would be easier to make their own clothes. In an attempt to save money, and still be fashionable, many students enrolled in Mrs. Jean Schack's sewing class. From the basic tailored fashions to the latest Paris trends, students attempted to create a new wardrobe. This economic class gives students a degree of independence and a skill which they can rely on for the rest of their lives.

Picking out a pattern for her next project, Beth Zody flips through the magazine. It looks as if something caught her eye.

Country casuals is one of the most outstanding projects that Jacky Zucowski, Regina Czagas and Beth Zody made up. Each student in Mrs. Shack's class receives an A for every window project that they create.

Showing one of their new ideas on their sewing project, Judy Tonk and Hope Kantor create a fantastic window display.

Just A Little TLC

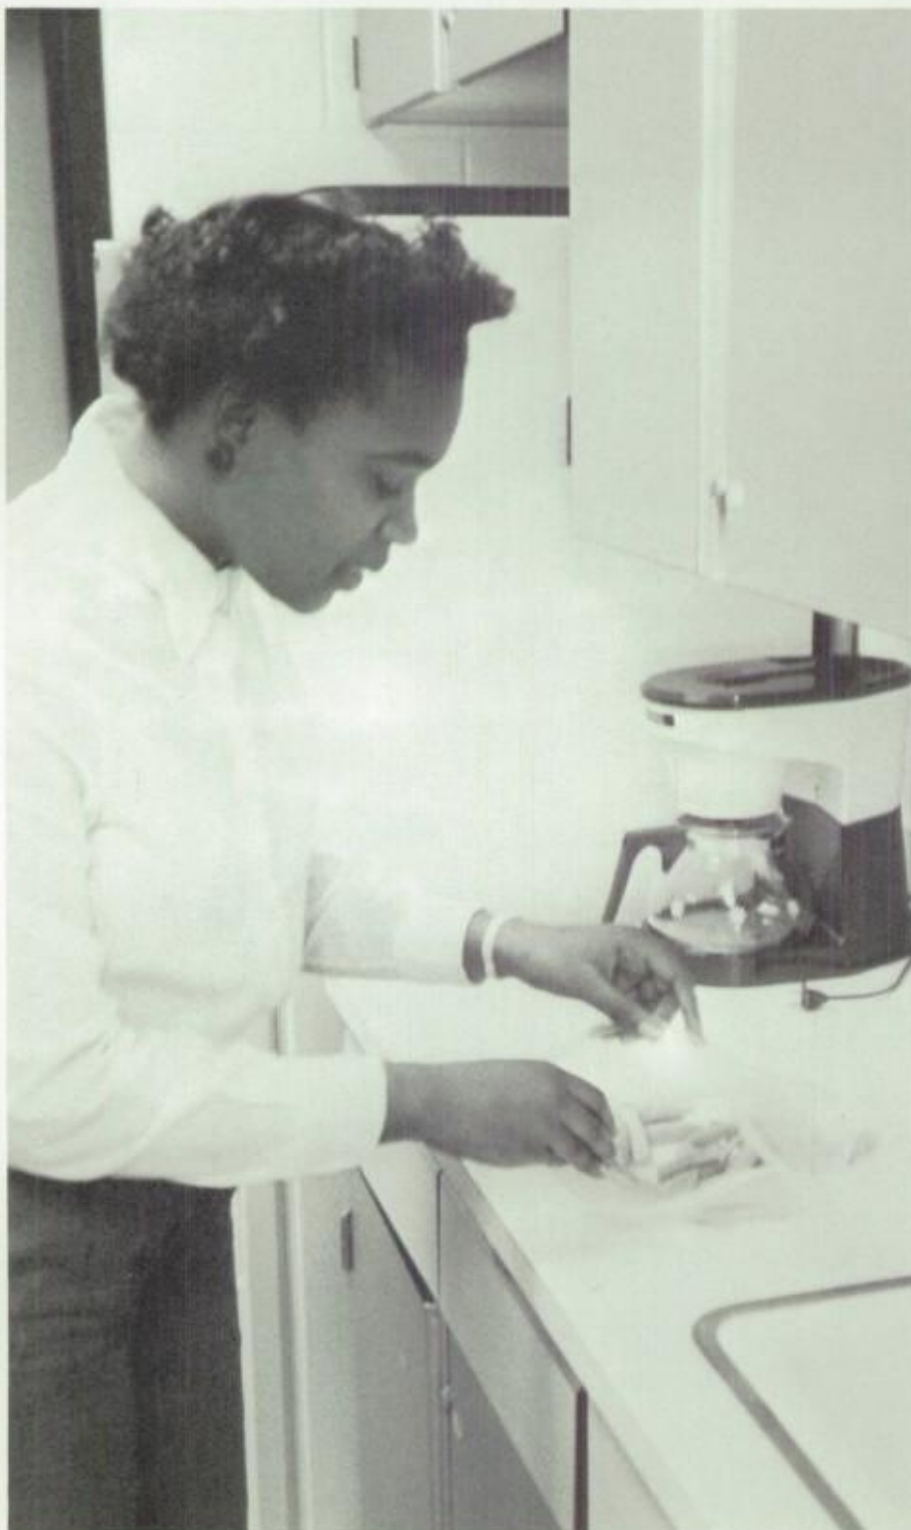

Students enrolled in the child-care class found that it took a lot more than a little TLC to keep their charges happy. It took all their classroom skills to keep the attention of the youngsters. In their classroom training, students were taught various methods for entertaining members of the younger generation. The true test came, however when students were caring for children, and many were quite successful with it.

She may look as though she may be a future teacher, but this little girl is showing Ronnie Simms her favorite toy.

Preparing clay for molding took a long time Martha Cameron works on getting the water content just right.

Receiving correct change is very important, Tammy McDaniels helps her charge understand that concept.

What one would think of as an unlikely sight was commonplace in the child care room. Fletcher Jordan assists Linda Bell in helping the children color.

On the Go On the Job

Many have jobs while still in high school, but the Distributive Education Clubs of America offers a different program. DECA members were on a plan where they left at various times of the day. After being released early, they went to work. Many were able to work full time with this program.

Another facet of this program included Job Entry students. These students did not report for school except to turn in their hours worked for that week. Like the DECA students, those on Job Entry received credit for their hours worked on the job.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION

A friendly attitude is the very best quality a cashier can acquire, Kathy Stewart has mastered this qualification.

The Doctor's In

Health Occupations is a class in which one learns the work of highly trained doctors and nurses. Mrs. Diane Cargill instructs her students in what she has learned from experience as a full time nurse.

Learning the parts of the skull may be tedious, but Caesar Tobon, Kim Rivette, and Twyman Gilbert attempt the task.

The eyes and ears are studied from charts by Monica Brown, Noell Fawcett, and Tametha Parker.

Muscles are pointed out by Cathy Williams while Carolyn McNair, Cynthia Garcia, and Eldesa Bruce study her procedure.

Practice makes perfect, so Jackie Varga gets a head start by working with the dummy.

The ear examination is performed by Valerie Vera on her sister Velicia Vera.

Business occupations classes contribute to one's everyday life. Among the courses are typing, shorthand, telephoning, filing and job interviews.

These classes are designed to better the techniques in applying for a job in the business field. The courses also aid in school projects such as reports.

Men as well as women enjoy classes in the field of business. Ken Strunk, Dawn Layhue, Shanton Newsom, and Jackie Bell demonstrate their acquired skills.

Cutting her paper for a difficult assignment, Sandra Nelson lines up a precision cut.

Moving Out And Shaping Up

As our nation increased the mood for physical fitness, Physical Education classes continued to boom. Running, conditioning and fitness, and intramural sports supplied a variety of interest for every individual. Besides the physical portion of the course, students also learned the background of many of the basic sports such as football, basketball, tennis, and soccer.

During intramural soccer, Hector Toban takes it easy as he waits for the ball to come to him.

Displaying a show of strength Scott Berringer works hard to meet his goals.

Giving it all he's got, Frank Catolino receives the fruits of his great efforts in conditioning and fitness.

Shaping Up & Stepping Out

As the fitness craze kept the nation in its grasp for the third consecutive year, students were not left behind. The modern dance classes were once again filled. Girls began the year with no dancing experience and by the end of the class were choreographing and performing their own dances.

Toning and shaping are some of the goals in a modern dance class. Pamela Simpson shows how much she's shaped up.*

Throwing their hips into this move, Regina Kennedy and Julie Ulmer show their stuff.*

Performing their dances Jennifer Kent, Michelle Wroble, and Coynee Hintz demonstrate their moves.*

Learning the steps for Modern Dance, Julie Ulmer and Shenita Terry show their moves.*

We Shall Sell No Book Before Its Time

High School annuals are like new born infants. As they begin to grow, everyone waits for their arrival — and everyone wants a good look at them.

The exception is that a baby only takes 9 months to develop, while a yearbook takes the entire year. Royal Fortune staff members started work in May '83 to be able to present this yearbook by the close of the 1984 year.

Through advertising book sales, candle and candy sales, and almost anything the class got their hands on, the yearbook was paid in full.

Working together hand in hand, Senior Editor Becki Caswall and Junior Editor Amy Liddle create the backbone of the book. While making the final decisions on a layout, Amy Bumgarner moves her picture to fit the plan.

Precision is required when cropping pictures before sending them to the publisher. Becky Wilson makes sure that her markings are correct for her design.

While working on the freshman section, Jackie Zucowski, Patty Holstein, and Tanya Beyers compile layouts to meet their deadline.

The perfect words just don't seem to come to mind as Kristen Lewis re-writes copy for her assignment.

Staff photographer Petrina Kilborn displays talents other than photography while completing a double page spread.

Although compiling the index is not the easiest job on staff, Deanna Carlisle grins and bears the hassle.

Shocked by the flash of a camera that she usually stands behind, head Photographer Cindy Michaels shows a trendy look on tourist dress-up day.

NOTE: The Royal Fortune staff consists of a few more people than were shown on these last two pages. Staff members include: Karen Batten, Amy Bumgarner, Tonya Byars, Deanna Carlisle, Shari Carlson, John Cary, Becki Caswall, Patty Holstein, Sharon Holzinger, Petrina Kilborn, Amy Liddle, Tanya Mederos, Cindy Michaels, Valerie Michaels, Darin Miller, Mark Scott, Becky Wilson, Lisa Wintrobe.

The Royal Fortune presented a complete pictorial history of the year 1984. The end of our tour is here. We have traced students' lives from 6:00 a.m., when they rose, to 11:00 p.m. when they fell exhausted into their beds.

You have seen students struggle through their 1-2 calculus and chemistry classes and then come alive for pep rallies. Not only has their "in school life" been portrayed, a bit of their after school happenings has also been publicized as well.

The hard work and dedication put forth was apparent as students handled thirty-hour a week jobs and maintained a 3.0 grade point average.

With the end of the school year also comes the end of our tour. We hope you have enjoyed the fine caliber of students we have shown you. Through this pictorial history it was easy to see why the Royal Fortune wanted to have an Open House and show why we felt our students deserved to be advertised.

The magic imposed by Cinderella's castle at Disney World was experienced by those in attendance at Grad Nite '84.

Precision and talent are displayed by Scott Berhinger as Wendy's burgers come alive.

Flashing their smiles Lisa Robinson, Angie Norigena, Ana Agair, and Patsy Riggins illustrate just one of their many talents.

At the end of the 1983 school year the Student Council gave the teachers an end-of-the-year luncheon. The teachers enjoyed a variety of foods served by Council members.

Halloween prompts many strange costumes. Becki Caswall dressed for the occasion at work.

Anguish is apparent from the look on Betty Whedbee's face. What ride at the St. Joseph's Carnival could cause this much turmoil?

The all-for-one and one-for-all spirit of the class of '84 is displayed by Jim Moliski, Beth Inman, Mysie Harper, John Cary, Erik Cline, Linda Culberson, Julie Baker, Brad Hinchman, Jeff Rice, Valerie Brewer, Robbie Haynes, Stefany Dolci, Kirk Alan, Betty Whedbee, Jaun Restrepo, and John Ball.

The Wins and the Losses

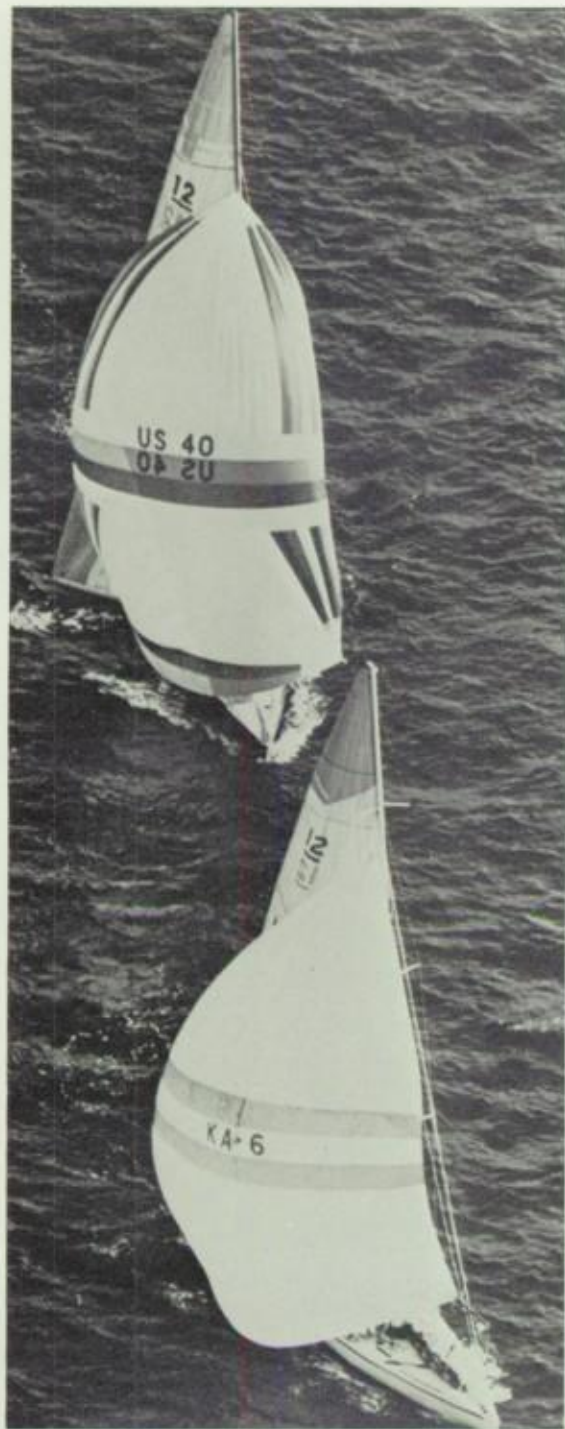

Throughout the year many historic events occurred in the nation. The first American woman, Sally Ride, was launched into space aboard Shuttle Flight Seven, and Shuttle Flight Eight played host to Guion S. Bluford, the first black astronaut. The September crowning of Miss America found Vanessa Williams the first black woman to hold this title.

Technological and medical advancements skyrocketed Heart and liver transplants, as well as test-tube babies became every day miracles.

Computers found their place in homes and education. Children in elementary schools learned their alphabet and multiplication tables with the help of a computer and housewives could call up a shopping list with the touch of a button.

Although electronic gadgets took up a great deal of children's lives, the oldest tradition was not forgotten. Christmas-time brought with it a new entity, the Cabbage-Patch Kid. Parents across the nation fought for the right to adopt one of these adorable kids.

In the spirit of friendly competition, many nations joined together in the 25th America's Cup race in Newport, Rhode Island. The 12-meter yacht, Australia II (KA6) was the first non-American yacht to win the race in its 132 year history.

When trouble began in Grenada, U.S. troops were sent to rescue the hundreds of U.S. students trapped there. Their response upon return to their homeland was overwhelming.

Tragedies of the Time

Tragedy shocked the world when 269 innocent people were killed in September. These persons were passengers aboard a Korean Air Line's jet-liner that was shot down over Soviet air space. The news caused many disturbances to occur around the globe. Thousands demanded the Soviet Union be penalized for their actions.

Military personnel were mortified at the dynamite-laden U.S. barracks in Beirut, Lebanon. Two hundred and forty Marines died in the blast, many were critically injured.

Americans were saddened at the loss of several well-known people: radio and television star Arthur Godfrey; film & stage stars Raymond Massey, David Niven, and Pat O'Brien were just a few of the all-time greats.

Let's Advertise THE MEMORIES AND THE . . .

Various activities brought good times in 1984. Car washes were a frequent fundraiser and one that afforded a good time for all who attended.

The annual Christmas party offered a banquet of activities for students to enjoy. Weightlifting contests, volleyball games, and street dances were some of the things in which students participated.

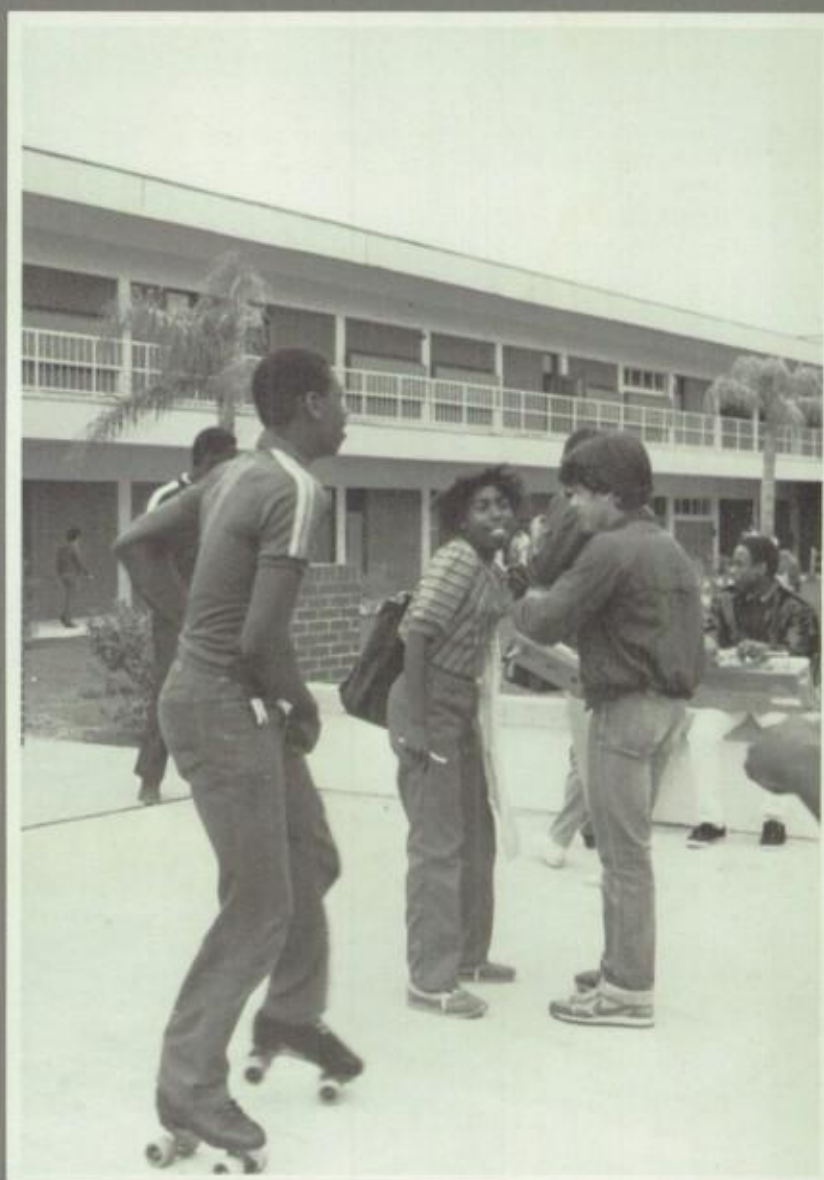

During the year members of the class of '84 as well as the underclassmen, distinguished themselves as students who appreciated the efforts of their teachers.

Joining forces to raise money for the boys' basketball team, Antonio Presley, Terrance Callins, Andre Roberson, and Tony McNair eagerly wash vehicles.

Brute strength is the key to lifting weights; Ed Dorsey demonstrates his ability.

Gathering in the commons area for a street dance, Robert Cooper and Mary Burt strut their stuff.

Out to prove who was the best, Gary Johnson enlisted the help of Sherita Terry in a street dancing routine.

Upon receiving his gift at the Christmas Band Concert, Michael Struckman shared a few words with those in attendance.

Stunned by John Cary's Christmas gift, Mrs. Margaret Harlan is at a momentary loss for words.

Good Times in '84

Let's 1984 Advertise

The year began with football and then came homecoming and the festivities surrounding it. The members of the community watched as the student population grew and prospered. At the annual Christmas party, seniors spoke longingly of Prom, Grad-nite and the ultimate goal, graduation. As the end of the year grew closer, juniors longed for their senior year and freshmen anxiously awaited the day when they would no longer have to endure the phrase "Oh! So you're a FRESHMAN."

Rushing to the assistance of Mike Wright, Senior Jim Huff surprise the opposing team. Guidance aides Linda Borie, Dawn Phillips, Michelle Vitaliano, Julie Baker, and Kim Steinberg marked senior guidance counselor Doug Shrewsbury's departure with a farewell cake. Mixed Ensemble members Angie Norigenna and J.R. Kerwood entertain their audience with a cheery tune.

To Sister
You are the most beautiful, smiling, shining, glowing, optimistic, all round, wonderful person. You my favorite Redhead, the person who listens to all my problems, has the insight to everything. I miss not having you hear but I know your life is really starting to look up and I can't wait to see you as a successful woman of the world. I'm so proud of you, you did it all on your own and did a fantastic job of it.
Never forget all our times together and all the fun we had. I'll always think of you as the most special friend I ever had.

Love always
Yvonne Lovett
